INQUIRY FORCES M'CALL TO PAY

JOHN A. M'CALL.
President of the New York Life, who says he will pay $235,000 to his company if Hamilton does not furnish satisfactory explanation of its expenditures.

ANDREW HAMILTON.
The Albany legislative agent, who has been asked to come from Europe to explain some insurance expenditures.

Offers to Make Restitution If Hamilton Fails to Give an Accounting.

INTERESTING LETTERS READ

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, was called before the Armstrong committee of insurance investigation today and peremptorily ordered by the committee to demand the return from Europe to this country of Andrew Hamilton, the lawyer who has had charge of legislative matters for the New York Life.

Mr. McCall was further ordered to demand an accounting from Hamilton of the moneys expended by him and of the balance which he owes the New York Life. Mr. McCall denied it was the policy of his company to have Mr. Hamilton remain abroad until after this investigation had been concluded and said that on the contrary he would very much like to have Mr. Hamilton return.

Another interesting line of examination was opened up just before the adjournment for the day when John McGuinness, an employe of the Equitable Life was called. He produced letters, books and memoranda which Mr. Hughes read and was in the midst of reading when adjournment was taken. These were instructions from former Comptroller Thomas D. Jordan of the Equitable Life to A. C. Fields, relative to the killing or assisting the passage of every bill introduced into the legislature that would affect or help the interests of the insurance company or any of its officers. This line of examination will be followed out when the sessions are resumed tomorrow.

Want Hamilton to Return.

Other witnesses today were John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life and Vice President Fiske, who were interrogated along the line of agents' salaries, legal expenses of the company, real estate holdings and the methods of acquiring properties, and the fact was brought out that the fire insurance firm that places all the risks on the properties of the Metropolitan is composed of W. D. Edmisteer and Silas B. Dutcher, the latter a director of the Metropolitan Life.

John A. McCall, president of the New York Life, was asked if he had any knowledge of the whereabouts of Andrew Hamilton, who has represented the New York Life Insurance Company before the legislature at Albany. Mr. McCall said he thought Mr. Hamilton was at Paris or Nauheim. He has not ordered Hamilton to return because he was informed that Mr. Hamilton was not in condition to do so. He had not had any accounting from Mr. Hamilton for the money he owes the New York Life.

"It is the policy of your company to have Mr. Hamilton remain abroad until the conclusion of this investigation?" asked Mr. Hughes.

"On the other hand, I should very much like to see him here," replied Mr. McCall. "He has not had any money from us in months, but we have not discharged him."

McCall Will Pay Back.

Mr. McCall submitted the following statement which he said he had made to the trustees of the New York Life Insurance Company:

To the Board of Trustees:

In my testimony before the special legislative committee of this state, referring to the advancement of $235,000 on account of recent purchases of the company's annex property in the block bounded by Elm, Leonard, Center and Worth streets, I stated there were unsettled bills of 1905 outstanding of Judge Hamilton which might be regarded as offsets, leaving net amounts due about $70,000.

I desire to place on our record an additional statement, that if the said sum of $235,000 advanced to Judge Hamilton is not repaid by him to the company on or before December 15, 1905, then it will be my duty and obligation as expressed in my testimony aforesaid to pay to the company said amount of $235,000 on or before December 31, 1905. New York, October 9, 1905."

"Was any action taken by your board of trustees or any suggestion made in the board that, exclusive of the $235,000 there were hundreds of thousands of dollars paid to Judge Hamilton, for which you have nothing but his receipt?" asked Mr. Hughes. Mr. McCall said it was not considered.

Mr. Hughes said the committee is desirous of having an accounting of the money which has been disbursed without any vouchers other than the receipts of Mr. Hamilton, and to know what the money had been used for, and asked Mr. McCall to take steps to have such an ac-

DON'T THINK SHAW BAD AS CHURCH DISCUSSIONS

Women's Club Also Hears a Defense of Female Angels Because Attractive.

The Colloquium club is nothing if not up to date, and the latest topics of general interest always find a place on their programs. Yesterday afternoon Bernard Shaw and his latest play, "Mrs. Warren's Profession," came in for criticism which in the long run was less unfavorable to the dramatist than to various religious reformers. In her discussion of current events, Mrs. Grace W. Warmcastle, president of the Colloquium, said:

"Bernard Shaw is a wonderful man, a great sehtus and a great developer of character, though his themes may be objectionable. Yet churches and other organized bodies discuss the same topics with much more freedom than he, but he is much the cleverer in his manner of presenting his subject."

Mrs. Warmcastle had given the play a careful study before making here criticism.

"The consensus of opinion is that angels would be much more attractive if they were female angels," remarked Mrs. Warmcastle, as she referred to the recent destruction by the artist of the female angels designed for the Church of St. John the Baptist in New York, after the adverse ecclesiastical criticisms regarding their sex.

The meeting of Colloquium yesterday was held in the home of Miss Jane R. Murdoch in Forbes street, and the systematic study of Japan outlined for this year was followed, Mrs. William A. Bole giving a sketch of the religious history of the kingdom, Miss Janet L. Brownlee discussing the present standards of education, progress in science and giving a review of Japanese literature, Miss Edith Edeburn describing the newspapers and Mrs. Warmcastle talking of the printing, illustrating and binding of books by the Japanese.

BEGS MOTHER NOT TO CRY.

Child Dying of Hydrophobia Bravely Soothes Weeping Parent as He Nears the End.

At the beside of their 9-year-old son, Frederick, who was bitten by a rabid dog on Labor day, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Epner of Carnegie are waiting for the end. In his lucid moments the boy begs his mother not to cry and bravely assures her that he will get well. Every doctor in Carnegie has diagnosed the case as hydrophobia.

Dr. A. Leteve, the specialist at Mercy hospital, to whom the case was submitted, had no word of encouragement. The boy was bitten by a fox terrier, which also bit many dogs and a horse.

This was the third occasion on which Arnold had filed his protest. Twice he threshed Alexander. The wound is not fatal. Alexander gave himself up.

The Republicans expected to poll 33 per cent of the votes but only obtained 21 per cent.

CHILDREN ARE SLASHED BY COSSACK'S SABRES

NO REGARD FOR SEX

STRANGE IDEAS OF FREEDOM

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 13.—The American embassy has received an interesting report from the consul at Warsaw covering the events of the last 10 days and beginning with the tragedy at the town hall on November 2. He thinks that half a dozen American policemen could have dealt with the crowd on that occasion, but a squadron of Cossacks with drawn sabers charged on the unarmed populace, cutting the people down without distinction of age or sex. The surgeons of the Holy Spirit hospital subsequently telegraphing to Count Witte, said that among 58 persons treated at that hospital for wounds 16 were children, several of them being under eight years of age. The demonstration of November 5 consisted of a procession headed by the clergy and aristocracy and numbering at least 250,000 persons, representing all parties favorable to the reforms.

"To the American citizen," the consul says, "the magnitude of the enthusiasm was impressive, but it was far more so to men who never had before seen openly displayed the flag of their country."

Do Not Understand Liberty.

On the following day Gov.-Gen. Scalon issued a proclamation declaring that even the intelligent classes failed to appreciate the fact that a constitution had been promulgated and announcing that any action would only result in a revolution and anarchy. Consequently he forbade meetings in the streets or squares and also street processions, adding that they would be broken up by military after three warnings. The governor general permitted the people to hold meetings in closed buildings, but only on the condition that the authorities were not denounced. In the event of these orders being disobeyed the governor general warned the people that further gatherings would be forbidden until tranquility was restored. On November 7 the National Democratic party, which is organizing the movement for autonomy, held a large meeting and summoned all the parties to join in the struggle for a separate parliament and a separate constitution for Poland, based on universal suffrage.

The American consul at Warsaw adds that the Jewish population of that city are greatly frightened and have obtained large quantities of arms with which to resist.

Jews Must Contribute Funds.

While there is mutual prejudice among the Jews and Christians, there is no evidence, the consul points out, of mutual hatred, though the Jewish merchants undoubtedly are obliged to contribute largely to the funds of the various parties. The tradesmen of Warsaw generally are favorable to a resumption of business, which is completely paralyzed, and favor giving the government an opportunity to demonstrate its good faith. Already

WORKINGMEN WANT NO CITY POLICE ESCORT

"If the Pittsburgh police department had sent an escort for the American Federation of Labor parade this morning, and the department had insisted that the bluecoats head the parade, the workingmen would have refused to march and there would have been no parade."

This was the announcement made last night by one of the most prominent labor leaders in Pittsburgh in commenting upon the absence of a police escort during the parade of yesterday morning. So utterly disgusted are the workingmen with the pledge and promise-breaking city administration and the police department as engineered by "Buck" Wallace, that it would have been considered a personal insult to ask honest workingmen to march behind them.

But a police escort was not asked for, and, fortunately, the department well understood the reasons which caused a lack of invitation, and remained away. The local committee headed a band of 150 pieces, and for the first time in many years delegates to a convention in this city, on parade, were led over a route which evaded the city hall. The local committee of workingmen who headed the parade yesterday morning were careful to turn the marchers away from the city hall when Smithfield street and Fifth avenue was reached, and took the marchers south to Diamond street.

"We had enough police escort to last us several years on the night of August 6 last," said one of the local labor leaders last night. "On that occasion workingmen had been called to meet in Old City hall to conduct an open primary to name some one candidate to represent the workingmen of this district on one of the local party tickets. No party ticket had been decided upon at that time, and it had been agreed to run the candidate to be selected upon any of the local tickets which might choose to indorse him.

"When the workingmen reached the hall they found it packed with city policemen and city employes who had planned to stampede and control what was intended to be a meeting of non-partisan workingmen, and the intention was to make a Citizen party political meeting out of it. The workingmen soon realized the trick, and the meeting was adjourned immediately after assembling."

GOVERNOR TO GET HEARTY SUPPORT FROM SOLONS

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 13.—Gov. Pennypacker is receiving communications from members of the legislature in all parts of the state congratulating him on his call for an extra session next January, assuring him of their hearty approval of the program indicated in his call and their willingness to do all in their power to carry it through.

These members indicate that they appreciate the opportunity that the governor has given them to prove to their constituents that the Republican party is ready and willing at all times to grant the people whatever reforms are necessary for the best interest of the state whenever such desire is plainly manifested by the people, as in the case of the election of last Tuesday. Judging from the character of the information that comes to the executive office the action of the senate and the house in the coming extra session will be almost unanimous along the lines laid down by the governor in his official call.

Considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon the governor to enlarge the scope of the program of the extra session by issuing a supplemental proclamation specifying additional matters for consideration. Among these things spoken of are the extension of the capitol park eastward to the Pennsylvania railroad line, the abolition of the present ballot and the adoption of a system of uniform primary elections.

Urges Uniform Primaries.

It is believed that if the governor should give the legislature permission to act on the proposed extension of the capitol park the senators and representatives would be inclined to act favorably on that proposal. The advisability of relieving the new capitol of the un-

BANKS TO REFUSE DEPOSITS FROM THE STATE

Financiers Declare Higher Rate of Interest Will Not Be Paid.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Gov. Pennypacker's suggestion that the amount of interest paid by banks and like institutions for the use of the people's money be increased has caused a protest from the bankers of this city and the eastern section of the state.

Joseph Wayne, Jr., chairman of Group 1 of Pennsylvania Bankers' association, and other leaders in the financial world regard the proposition as dangerous. R. H. Rushton, president of the Fourth National bank, said:

"Two per cent interest is what we pay our depositors. If the state by law demands half per cent more we will not take any of the state's money. The other banks, as I happen to know, will take the same position."

M'GAVREY VERY ILL.

Bexley Seminary Student May Die as Result of Saturday Night's Assault.

GAMBIER, O., Nov. 13.—James E. McGavrey, the Bexley theological seminary student who was found bound and gagged in his room Saturday night, is in a precarious condition and fears are entertained that he may not recover. He suffered several convulsions today and physicians say he is on the verge of complete nervous collapse. It is believed he was kicked while unconscious by the men who bound and gagged him.

Early this fall, McGavrey underwent an operation for appendicitis and he had not fully recovered from this when he was attacked Saturday. McGavrey's mind is not yet clear and he is unable to tell anything of the assault.

BURGLARS DYNAMITE SAFE.

Office of Pittsburgh Coal Company at Elcoe Is Entered and Robbed of Small Sum.

ROSCOE, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—A large safe in the office of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Elcoe, a mining town half a mile above here, was wrecked by robbers last midnight. Residents were awakened by two explosions. Saturday was payday at the mines and usually many envelopes containing money are held over in the office till Monday.

The robbers evidently knew of this custom, but they got only $20, as the pay had been a small one. In the store of the Valley Supply Company, adjoining the office, a safe contained $400, but the burglars did not molest it.

BRIDAL PARTY NEAR DEATH.

While on Way to Dance Bridge Collapses and 19 Are Thrown Into Mahoning Creek.

KITTANNING, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Following the marriage of William Shaner and Miss Nora Slagle at Templeton, Saturday, the bride and groom, with 17 others, nearly met death by drowning while on their way to a dance. The party had to cross a swinging bridge over Mahoning creek to reach the house where the dance was to be given.

While on the bridge it gave way. Shaner and James Partes rescued seven women and three children. William Partes ankle was broken in the fall.

PENNYPACKER'S PROCLAMATION IS INDORSED AT WASHINGTON

Knox's Views Are Seconded by Dalzell and Other Prominent Pennsylvanians in Congress—Senator Will Take No Hand in Proposed Legislation.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The proclamation of Gov. Pennypacker calling a special session of the legislature for the purpose of enacting needed legislation and instituting certain reforms in the Pennsylvania state government, has the unqualified indorsement of prominent Pennsylvanians in congress. Senator Knox, who on Saturday approved the action of the governor, stands by his statements and says the governor has taken the proper course. John Dalzell, who has returned to Washington from Pittsburgh, is equally positive in his indorsement of the action of the governor. In fact, it is not believed that any of the leading Republicans of that state will oppose the legislation that it is proposed to enact at the special session.

Senator Knox has closed his country home at Valley Forge and with his family has taken up his residence at his Washington home on K street. Today he called at the White House and discussed with the President some matters of interest and he will be here for the winter. When asked for an expression of opinion on the action of Gov. Pennypacker, he said he had nothing to add to the interview he gave Saturday, although he emphasized his statement made then that the governor had determined months ago to call a special session of the legislature to take up the questions mentioned in his proclamation, regardless of the outcome of the election. The convening of the legislature had no connection whatever with the defeat of the Republican candidate for state treasurer, nor could it justly be construed as a political move, said the senator.

The suggestion has been made that Senator Knox should go to Harrisburg and take charge of the proposed legislation, using his influence to get it through. Although the senator declined to discuss this matter today, it is known that he has no intention of doing anything of the sort. As a senator of the United States he does not consider that he has any right to interfere with the action of the state legislature, and he considers the legislature and the governor perfectly competent to deal with these matters, without any assistance from him. For that reason he will not take any hand in the work that is to be done at the special session. Senator Knox approves of the measures which it is proposed to enact. That is as far as he goes in the matter.

Mr. Dalzell was confined to his home today by illness, but he stated to The Gazette correspondent that he was heartily in accord with the legislation proposed by the governor and he thought the convening of the legislature was the proper course to pursue. It is believed that the entire Pennsylvania delegation in congress will adopt the same view of the question.

INJUSTICE DONE UNITARIANS, SAYS DR. ELIOT

DEFINES HIS STAND

WILL SPEAK HERE TONIGHT

MEADVILLE, PA., Nov. 13.—"There is just one satisfactory reason that the federation can give for excluding us—just one," declared the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian association, and son of President Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university, today, while discussing the recent action of denominational churches in barring the Unitarians from the deliberations of the national conference of the Federation of Churches, which opens in New York this week.

"If they really believe that it is absolutely essential to a soul's salvation from hell, from eternal punishment in another world, that a particular belief about the nature of Jesus and His relation to God should be held, then they are justified. If they really believe that no man can be saved from the wrath and the eternal curse of God except by believing in the Trinity, then they are justified. If we are endangering the eternal salvation of human souls, then they have no business to fellowship us. That is the brux of the whole matter. It comes simply to that, and that alone.

If True, What a Population.

"Scientists tell us the earth has been inhabited about 200,000 years. If all this be true, all that have lived for hundreds of thousands of years, at least until the past 6,000 years, are all in hell. They knew nothing of the conditions of salvation and they innocently, ignorantly, went one after the other—a ceaseless Niagara, plunging into the abyss.

"God never said a word during the history of the entire Old Testament about any Trinity, never said any word of its being absolutely essential to believe in any particular statement in order to be saved. Jesus did not say anything about it. The apostles did not say anything about it. In the year 325 certain bishops at Nicaea, under the dominance of one of the most infamous emperors that ever lived, suddenly declared it, stated it in terms.

"Thousands of the best people in Christendom have not believed it, and there is no reason why they should. It is not Bible doctrine, even if we regard the Bible infallible. It is theological speculation, pure and simple, nothing else. And yet, if that is true, nearly all the people in the world today, and those dying every moment of the year, are being lost because they disbelieve the statement of a metaphysical, unchangeable, cruel, hideous creed.

Federation Should Explain.

"It is this point I wish the federation to have in mind. There is no reason why they should cast us out of their fellowship unless they believe all that. There is another point. If they do not think it is right and wise to fellowship us, they have no right to fellowship Dr. Laliaw or Dr. Sanford, and the hundreds of others who have fellowshipped us in the past. They have consented to the heterodox position by fellowshipping us, and, if the federation be consistent, it will leave them out of its fellowship.

"They have declared in their own manifesto that the organization 'has neither authority or desire to intervene in great questions which vitally concern the various denominations as denominations.' They also add: 'It is understood that its basis (meaning the organization) would not be one of creedal statement or governmental form, but co-operative work and effort.' And yet they leave out a body as distinguished, to say the least, in all practical philanthropic and religious work as any other in America.

"And so they voted to leave us out, and men like Edward Everett Hale could not come in and be heard. The Hon. John D. Long, three times governor of Massachusetts, for years in congress and our famous naval secretary during the Spanish war, he could not come in. Such famous names in letters, science and state as the following, all of them Unitarians, have been rebuked: Bryant, Longfellow, Lowell, Holmes, Mrs. Howe, Mrs. Jackson, Whittier, Bancroft, Motley, Prescott, Palfrey, Parkman, Bowditch, Agassiz, Pierce, Draper, Hall, Emerson, Hawthorne, Whipple, Curtis, Ware, Higginson, Dwight, John Milton, Joseph Priestley, Newton, John C. Calhoun, Henry Bergh and many others equally noted—these were all Unitarians.

Unitarians Meet Today.

"And these men, these churches, who have been famous in every department of human service and human life, are not to be allowed representation in this national conference of the Federation of Churches!"

Dr. Eliot will deliver the conference sermon tomorrow night at the first evening session of the Meadville district conference of Unitarian churches, which opens tomorrow afternoon in the First Unitarian church, Ellsworth and Morewood avenues, Pittsburgh. The executive committee will meet in the church at 2 o'clock, after which there will be a meeting of the Women's alliance. Wednesday morning the business sessions will begin and will include, aside from reports, addresses by many men prominent in the denomination.

LIGHT CONTRACT FOR FOUR YEARS

REMIT TAXES BY WHOLESALE

Director Bigelow is determined to fasten upon the city a four-year street lighting contract, without competition and at an annual cost of $400,000, or $1,600,000 for the four years. An ordinance authorizing the director and mayor to let a contract for four years, at the cost mentioned, was prepared by Director Bigelow and introduced last night in common council.

The only bidder for the contract will be the Allegheny County Light company, which has held it for years at its own figure because no other company was permitted by councils to enter the local field. Until a year ago no other company was able to secure a franchise from the city councils to operate in Pittsburgh, but last year a franchise was granted to the Duquesne Light company, of which H. C. Hall is the president, but this company has not begun the construction of its line and cannot possibly be a competitor for the city contract.

When applying for the franchise representatives of the Duquesne company promised the city would get competition and that the cost of light would be reduced about one-half from what the city is now paying and has been paying for years to the Allegheny County Light company.

Competition Lost by Deal.

The securing of this franchise by the Duquesne Light company was the part of a deal cemented by the Bigelow-Hays administration with the Philadelphia company, the parent of the Allegheny Light company and the Pittsburgh Railways company, whereby extensions to the traction system were granted by councils at the same time.

The deal was forced through councils by the present city administration and there has not since been any talk of a competition for the street lighting contract. It has been common report that the Duquesne company obligated itself not to interfere with city contracts.

Director Bigelow made an attempt two years ago, and again last year, to let the contract for four years, but the public made such an outcry that he was compelled to reduce the term of the contract to one year. If he succeeds this time the next city administration will be powerless to change the contract or to secure competition to save the city hundreds of thousands of dollars by granting franchises to other companies that wish to operate in the city.

Takes Authority from Councils.

Acting for the city administration, A. G. Roenigk of the Twentieth ward introduced two revolutionary measures in common council last night by which the administration hopes to win thousands of votes in the coming mayoralty campaign. Just before the last election, Director Bigelow granted to the county organization of steam laundrymen exonerations for water taxes amounting to thousands of dollars. He granted exonerations for taxes which were not only due, but which delinquent for two years, and did so without authority of councils. In return for this favor the laundrymen were expected to give Mr. Bigelow's ticket their support at the last election.

The purpose of Mr. Roenigk's two ordinances, introduced last night, is to make all such transactions legal and easier, dispensing with the necessity of going to councils for authority in any case. By the power which the ordinances vest in the city officials exonerations can be granted without the knowledge or consent of councils, paving the way for endless favoritism and corruption. The bills give the board of assessors power to grant exonerations of property taxes, even though they have become delinquent, and the water assessors can grant exonerations of water rents, exactly as was done for the benefit of the laundrymen a couple of weeks ago. One ordinance reads as follows:

Scheme to Remit Taxes.

Where taxes have been assessed under mistake, in whole or part, exonerations may be asked by the city assessors and the city controller, and if such taxes have been paid, the city assessors, with the mayor, may draw warrants for the refunding of such amounts; providing, that no exonerations shall be allowed, under this ordinance, exceeding the $25.

It will be noticed that not only may exonerations be granted before the taxes are paid, but that the assessors and the mayor may refund taxes after they are paid. The ordinance relating to the bureau of water assessments is as follows:

Said bureau may allow exonerations or assessments made in excess of schedule rates, or where the premises assessed have been unoccupied for more than 60 days, or when not assessed in accordance with the schedule. Said bureau shall keep a record of all such exonerations and make return thereof to the controller monthly.

The ordinance further provides that the city treasurer or delinquent tax collector shall allow any exonerations which the water assessors may choose to grant, for political or other motives. The bills give the city assessors unlimited scope in the revision of their assessments.

CHANGE MADE IN DATE.

St. Andrews Day to Be Observed Locally Next Friday.

President Roosevelt has designated November 30 as Thanksgiving day this year, and as this day was set aside by the Protestant Episcopal church upon which to observe St. Andrew's day, it has been decided by the church authorities to celebrate the latter event on another day.

The Pittsburgh diocese has decided to observe St. Andrew's day next Friday night, when a mass meeting will be held in Trinity church, Sixth avenue, and at which the principal address will be delivered by Robert Gardiner of Boston, national president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Special music will be provided and several local speakers will deliver addresses.

NEW YORK'S SHOW PROVES SUCCESS

First Night Eclipses All Former Records in Attendance and Brilliancy.

PRINCE LOUIS GETS CHEERS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, Nov. 13.

No horse show ever brushed away the topmost bar of precedent and landed so abruptly in the arena of success, as did the one which came into view today in Madison Square garden. It waited neither for the word of its rider, Sport, nor the beck of Fashion. Before everybody realized the situation this champion of champions was frisking over the tan bark, head high in air, acknowledging the plaudits of a throng which filled all the boxes, crowded 10 deep about the rail and occupied every seat on the marge of the great amphitheater.

Such was the beginning of what is already considered the most brilliant of the exhibitions ever held under the auspices of the association. Heretofore there have been two or three days of trial before the managers were willing to say their hopes had been fulfilled, but this, the first horse show, leaped unurged into the field of best achievement.

Socially the first day was exceptionally brilliant, for in the afternoon leaders who usually forego their visits at least until Monday evening, were present, and tonight came Prince Louis of Battenberg and his staff.

His presence was the signal for an enthusiastic demonstration which bespoke the amity which exists between Great Britain and the United States. The throngs welcomed him with continued applause and the auditorium presented a scene which will always be identified with one of the gala occasions of the metropolis.

Judged from every standard, no such horse show has ever been seen in this country. In the social position and the wealth of its clientele, its large public attendance and in the number and the value of its entries, it has never been equalled. Two hundred and fifty more horses than were shown last year are on the list, which comprises 1,709 of the choicest of American stables and stock farms. Neighboring states are represented, and in the competition are steeds which have been brought from the Pacific coast and from the southland.

Judging was got well under way today, the first class being called at 10:30 a. m. and the last shortly before 11 o'clock tonight. The awards during the day were popular without exception, and were evenly distributed among the exhibitors.

Mrs. John B. Gerkin, a prominent figure at all eastern horse shows, was one of the exhibiting owners, and her horses in nearly every class entered were among the prize winners.

Reginald Vanderbilt and Eben D. Jordan of Boston are also prominent among the exhibitors. The Virginia stock farms have sent up an exceptionally large number of horses, while Kentucky is well represented.

WILL USE ELECTRICITY.

Pennsylvania Railroad Company Will Install It on New Jersey Lines to Atlantic City.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has decided to go ahead with the plan to equip with electric power the old West Jersey and Seashore railroad to Atlantic City, and some of the suburban lines out of Camden. This information was announced today by Samuel Rea, the third vice president of the company and chairman of the special committee having the matter in charge.

GOVERNOR TO GET SUPPORT OF SOLONS

sightly effect of the ramshackle structures that crowd in upon it on the eastern side is becoming more apparent as the beautiful structure nears completion.

Among those who called on the governor today was Senator Samuel P. White of Beaver county, who came to urge that the uniform primary election idea be considered at the extra session. The governor gave the senator to understand that if the matter of additional subjects of legislation at the extra session should be opened up at all he would give serious consideration to the subject of uniform private election. After the conference Senator White said:

"I am with the governor in everything I consider in the interest of good government. I have always been in favor of apportionment and have urged it on the party leaders ever since I first came to the senate in 1895. Last winter I voted for Senator Dewalt's resolution, which, in effect was, that it was the duty of the legislature to pass a proper apportionment bill.

"I have always been in favor of personal registration. But this is a matter of minor importance to the country counties, as compared with a uniform primary election law, which will remove the trouble we now have of illegal voting at our primary elections and which has been an excuse given, in part, for the defeat of the Republican party in Beaver and other western counties.

Thinks Act Can Be Passed.

"During the last session I sent to Minnesota and Wisconsin and procured a copy of their acts on this subject and had a bill drawn which covered the best features of each as adapted to our laws and customs in Pennsylvania. I introduced the bill but it received scant consideration and was never allowed to come out of committee. Since then there has been such popular agitation and demand for some legislation on this subject that I feel confident if Gov. Pennypacker will amend his call to include this question among those to be considered at the special session we will be able to pass some similar act."

"What about ballot reform?" the senator was asked.

"Anything that can be done to simplify the ballot and enable the independent voter to express his personal selection without having to cut the whole ticket or endanger the loss of his vote, I think is another matter that should be given attention at the extra session," he replied.

"Do you believe the Philadelphia 'ripper' bill should be repealed?"

"I am in doubt as to the wisdom of investing the supreme control of large cities in either the mayor or city councils. I voted for this change in the manner of appointments in Philadelphia because it was requested by the unanimous delegation in the senate from that city. It is, however, entirely a question of local self-government, and I am perfectly willing to reverse my action when I am satisfied that it is demanded by public sentiment in Philadelphia. My own opinion of what might be a better plan than to invest the power in either the mayor or councils would be for the councils to elect and give the mayor power of removal for cause."

Sentiment for Greater Pittsburgh.

"As to Greater Pittsburgh," Mr. White added, "the sentiment in Western Pennsylvania, outside of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, is and always has been largely in favor of consolidation of those two cities, and I would be glad to see it take place.

"With respect to the state treasury, I think the important point in regard to better control of the state funds should be in the way of security and not the question of the rate of interest."

Thomas H. Garvin of Delaware county, chief clerk of the house of representatives, was here today getting ready for the extra session. Garvin said that he favored the reforms suggested by the governor, and that he did not think the session would last more than one month. He predicted that the extra session would bring to the front a number of young legislators who had no chance last winter.

State Treasurer Mathues, who was with Mr. Garvin, and the legislative delegation from Delaware county would vote for every reform mentioned in the governor's proclamation. Mr. Mathues also declared that he has always favored personal registration and a new apportionment.

"Do you know that Delaware has not sufficient population to entitle it to a senator?" Mr. Mathues was asked.

"Neither has Chester county," he replied, "but if we don't get a senator, that will be our misfortune. I suppose they will tie us up with a sister county like Montgomery or, better still, attach us to some of the wards in Philadelphia."

The governor believes the chances of passing the legislation he suggests in his proclamation are much better at a special than a regular session, and that one year from now the enthusiasm for the proposed reforms will not be as great as at present.

"You cannot tell but what there may be other conditions that would interfere with the reform work," he said tonight. "The expense of an extra session is to be considered, but a reference to my veto message will show that one veto cut down the appropriations $216,000.

"The banks, I presume," the governor went on, "charge 6 per cent while the state receives only 2. It appears to me that the state should realize more out of its own money, and it is possible the legislators will agree on a reasonable amount."

the scarcity of food is being felt. Only the coarsest kind of bread is baked, and this is secured with difficulty even at high prices.

The formal proclamation of martial law throughout Russian Poland had the promulgation of the government's intention to suppress the Polish movement to secure autonomy almost created a panic on the course today, imperial 4s again falling to 86. Industrials seem to have no bottom.

The city is full of rumors to the effect that the imperial ukase was issued over Count Witte's head at the instigation of the reactionaries which is equivalent to the count's retirement, but it can be stated with positiveness that the action was taken upon the premier's advice.

Takes Bull by the Horns.

Count Witte favored and impressed on majesty the advisability of restoring Finland's constitution and reversing the policy of the Russification of the grand duchy but to surrender autonomy to Poland after all the old grievances of the Poles had been redressed and they had been placed upon an equality with Russians the count considered would only be a prelude to an attempt to set up the ancient kingdom as a separate entity and would involve ultimately either the dismemberment of the empire or the necessity for bloody suppression such as marked the revolutions of 1831 and 1863.

It was reported as wise therefore to take the bull by the horns and let the Poles understand that the separatist movement would not be tolerated and that until they came to their senses further efforts to place in operation the reforms manifesto would be suspended.

It is generally believed here that both Germany and Austria have given Russia assurances of support but of what nature cannot be learned. Whether or not this is true both Germany and Austria naturally are interested, each of them having a Polish problem on their hands, in not raising the Polish hopes of a restoration of the ancient kingdom of Poland, and the present movement in Poland certainly will not receive the sympathy of the governments beyond the western border.

Poland Must First Be Calm.

Under ordinary circumstances and in view of past experiences with Poland the Russian people would be apt to sympathize with coercive measures for the suppression of the Nationalist movement in Poland but in the present state of public opinion coercion is more likely to create a bad impression, especially as many Liberals immediately greeted the appearance of the ukase with charges of bad faith, declaring that it demonstrated that the autocracy had not abdicted and asserting that if it could suspend the reform manifesto in Poland for an indefinite term by imperial ukase the autocracy could likewise suspend it throughout the whole of Russia. But it is pointed out that it would be impossible to attempt to place in operation the liberties bestowed until Poland shows a disposition to accept them in good faith. While Poland continues to mutinously insist upon autonomy nothing can be done.

"If the government should allow the Poles to continue their present agitation," said a prominent official, "they would inevitably force the government to suppress the movement with the bayonet, which we desire to avoid. If we yielded to the Poles' demands for autonomy we would have to surrender the Baltic provinces and then perhaps the Caucasus and later all the alien races, which would so decentralize the power of the empire that its disintegration would be inevitable."

Fear of Civil War.

Private and reliable reports from Warsaw today say that all the parties there are joining in the Nationalist movement, following the tactics of Finland, for a complete strike. So long as their attitude of passive resistance continues the issue will be one of endurance. The danger is that the Poles may provoke an active measure which would mean nothing short of civil war. It would be extremely difficult under the present circumstances to withdraw any troops from European Russia. The number of troops in Poland, however, is sufficient to cope with the situation.

The government has decided to make an appeal to the peasants. With the workmen of the cities completely estranged from the government and Liberals refusing to aid the authorities, there is nothing left but to turn to the peasants and the emperor has approved a ukase informing them that measures for the amelioration of their condition will receive immediate consideration. The discontent of the peasants and the danger of the spread of the agrarian movement largely contributed to the government's decision.

The council of the empire this afternoon decided to remit a portion of the land payments due next year by the peasants in the provinces affected by the famine. The peasants since their emancipation in 1861 have been paying installments on lands allotted them. The council also decided to remit entirely the payments for 1905 due on land held by peasants killed during the war. The amount remitted totals $24,000,000.

Governor Stands Firm.

The League of Leagues has adopted a resolution condemning the proclamation of martial law in Poland as an illegal measure directed against the Polish emancipation movement.

The Ruskaye Slovo prints a dispatch from Warsaw, describing a conversation which Scanlon had with a deputation of prominent Poles, during which the governor general distinctly announced that he would not allow the organization of a "municipal militia." Moreover, he added, he would neither remove the troops from the city nor from the streets, and he warned the deputation that he was prepared to deal with the situation should the agitation be communicated to the masses.

In addition to increasing the pay of the rank and file of the army the war department has decided to reduce the term of service by one year. The present pay of the infantry is 11 cents a month, and the cavalry 14 cents a month.

The fears of the wholesale pillage and murder of the Jews and Intelligencia by the "Black Hundred," have not entirely disappeared, although the strictest precautions have been taken against possible outbreaks. Two students were beaten to death near the Obvorny canal last night, three house porters were murdered at their doors, and many domestic servants left their work announcing to their mistresses that labor was no longer necessary, as now everybody was on an equity, having become "citizens," and would receive government pensions.

Hard Job for Witte.

An eminent diplomat, speaking of the situation today, said:

"The difficulties which confront Count Witte on every hand are enormous, and would overawe a man of less dominant will and capacity. His task is almost superhuman, but I do not regard it as impossible."

The second session of Count Witte's new cabinet was held this afternoon. One of the matters under consideration was the project for placing the council of the empire, the upper house of the national assembly, to a certain extent on an elective basis, which Count Witte insisted upon before accepting the premiership, and which was one of the principal causes of the long delay in issuing the imperial manifesto of October 30.

The project, as elaborated, provides for the representation of land owners, orthodox, non-conformist and non-Christian clergy and boerse committees. Ten representatives each are to be chosen for five years by owners of over 5,000 acres, the orthodox and the non-conformist clergy and six by the boerse committees. The number to be chosen by the non-Christian clergy has not yet been decided.

Thus about one-quarter of the membership of the council of the empire, which hitherto has been entirely appointive, will be chosen on an elective basis. The orthodox clergy will be named by the holy synod.

Over One Hundred More Deaths.

ODESSA, Nov. 13—The death list of Jewish victims of the recent outbreak here has been increased by 114 who succumbed to injuries. As a token of deep mourning the Jewish clergy decided not to celebrate any marriages for a month. The dismissal of Prefect Neidhardt, to whom is attributed the responsibility for the recent outrages, was announced this evening and caused much rejoicing among the Jewish population.

HELSINGFORS, FINLAND, Nov. 13.—A revolt broke out yesterday in the garrison of Sveaborg. Hundreds of the men assert that they have remained with the colors from two to three years beyond the legal period of service and also complain of their conditions of life.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The executive committee of the national committee for the relief of the sufferers in Russia announced that nearly $15,000 had been added today to the relief fund, making a total of $132,685.

BLEVINS' BONDSMEN SETTLE WITH THE CITY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Nov. 13.—The seven suits pending against the bondsmen of John Blevins, the murdered city treasurer, were settled tonight when council accepted a cash payment of $11,500 in lieu of the $19,576 84 for which the city has been suing. The suits were started six years ago. The judiciary committee of councils recommended the settlement on the terms accepted.

Some of the bondsmen are now dead and their estates settled, while others are alleged to be nearly insolvent. Included in the settlement was the suit of the city against ex-City Solicitor Archie Gardner and Bondsmen R. C. G. White and Henry Gates for $9,068 42, which Gardner was held to be short.

The suits settled were principally concerned with the shortage existing in the poor and city tax funds. The bondsmen affected were: Ex-Judge William D. Wallace, Oliver P. H. Brown, James M. Long and the estates of the late George W. McCracken and Lewis C. Cochran.

HOLD FALL MEETING.

Presbyterian Sunday School Association Discusses Work and Hears Address on the Temperance Question.

Upwards of 200 delegates and visitors were present yesterday afternoon and evening during the fall meeting of the Presbyterian Sabbath School association, held in the First church, Sixth avenue. President John A. Keys presided during the afternoon when Sunday school and teachers' work was discussed through a question box, during which 100 questions were answered in 100 minutes.

At the evening session Prof. Charles Scanlon, field secretary of the general assembly permanent committee on temperance, delivered an address in which he flayed the liquor traffic and called attention to what he termed the "anti-saloon victory at the polls in Ohio." He made a plea for total abstinence and held that present license laws fostered, rather than discouraged, the liquor traffic. He said the dispensary system was a total failure and that the liquor question was the greatest financial problem of the day. He characterized the result of the Ohio election as a "church-won fight," and declared that prohibition was gaining friends every day.

STILL A REPUBLICAN STATE.

Congressman Thomas of Niles, Ohio, Says Party Will Rally in the Elections Next Year.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Representative W. Aubrey Thomas of Niles, O., who succeeded Senator Charles Dick as a member of the house from the Nineteenth district, was in the city today. Speaking of the causes which led to the defeat of Gov. Herrick, he said:

"I think the chief reason Pattison was elected can be found in the cry of bossism. However true it may or may not have been, it had an effect on the voters. Of course the anti-saloon league had some influence, but I do not consider that as potent as the other. Ohio is still a Republican state and I shall be much surprised if it does not give a substantial Republican majority in the congressional elections next year. The Republicans have been defeated before in Ohio, but they rallied in the succeeding year and gave majorities large enough to prove that the state is normally Republican."

HEARS BAD NEWS ENDS HIS LIFE

DEATH AT END OF JOURNEY

Despondent because he could not borrow $60 to send to his wife and two children, who are in Russia, Edward Liedman, aged 26, shot himself in his room at the boarding house of Ferdinand Drevo, a relative, at Frederick and Elm streets, Allegheny, yesterday. He fired two shots into his mouth. He was a butcher and was employed by J. Kuhn, a pork packer of 413 East street, Allegheny. Liedman came to this country on September 2 last. He had been working for about a month and saved $16, which he sent to his wife at Meniseh, Russia.

Last week Liedman received a letter from his wife telling him of the murder that was being committed about them and imploring him to get them out of the country as soon as possible if he ever hoped to see them again. The letter preyed on his mind and he tried to borrow money to defray their expenses here. He was unable to secure the loan and he bought a cheap revolver and killed himself.

Tony Torro, an Italian, aged 29, fell from a train at Wilmerding yesterday noon and was instantly killed. He had just arrived from Italy. Torro's brother was at the station to meet him and was prostrated by the accident. Torro had enlivened the trip from New York by singing to the accompaniment of his accordeon. When the train reached Wilmerding he was eager to greet his brother and tried to leave the train before it had stopped. He stumbled and was thrown under the wheels, his head and both legs being crushed. In Italy he left a wife and two children, for whom he intended to send as soon as he obtained employment here.

James McCann, aged 47, a structural iron worker, died at the South Side hospital at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon from injuries received by falling out of the Morse school building, Twenty-fifth ward, two hours before. He fell from the second-story window, a distance of about 30 feet, fracturing his skull.

Ignase Jencka, aged 35, of Twenty-third and Josephine streets, was killed yesterday afternoon while at work at the Eliza furnace, by a piece of scrap iron falling upon him. His skull was fractured.

Daniel Daley, aged 58, died at the Allegheny General hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries received by being run over by a train on the West Penn railroad at Sharpsburg. He lived at McKeesport.

Edward Batzkever, aged 25, a contractor at Sample Run on the Pittsburgh & Western railroad, died at the Presbyterian hospital yesterday morning from a gunshot wound, sustained on election day. He and a hired man named Bissell were hunting. Batzkever scared up a rabbit and started to chase it, as it appeared on top of the hill Bissell fired and the shot struck Batzkever in the face.

An inquest into the death of Donald Koenig, the Aspinwall boy who died last week following a game of football, developed the fact that death was due to acute indigestion. A number of the boy's companions testified that the game was not rough and that young Koenig had not, to their knowledge, received any injuries.

The autopsy held on the body of Joseph Sinko, the Homestead boy who was said to have been injured by playmates, showed that death was due to tetanus. The physicians are of the opinion that the germs were inoculated before he was injured.

Andrew McDonough, aged 19, who lived at Second avenue and Fourth street, Carnegie, died at Mercy hospital at 11:45 last night, from a bullet wound in the head. McDonough had been examining a rifle in the hands of William Moore, a friend, on Saturday afternoon, when it was accidentally discharged.

INQUIRY FORCES M'CALL

counting and to instruct Mr. Hamilton to return to this country, if he is in physical condition to do so. Mr. McCall replied that he would inform Mr. Hamilton of the wish of the committee, but he could not control him.

Will Lobby in Public.

Mr. McCall offered in evidence a resolution adopted by the board of trustees of the New York Life Insurance Company on October 18 last. It stated that the board had learned from the testimony before the legislative investigating committee that executive officers of the company had expended large sums annually to oppose legislation supposed to be against the interests of the policy holders and that for these sums no vouchers nor receipts were found, and that the payments were never brought before the board of trustees. It was therefore resolved by the board that such opposition to legislation should be open and public so as to place them above criticism, and that regular vouchers and receipts should be issued for such payments, setting forth in detail the services rendered. Moreover, a special committee of the board should report to the board whatever was done each month in this respect, and a public report should be made to the state department, setting forth what legislation in what states had been opposed; whose services had been retained, and what had been performed by them. Mr. McCall said there was no intention of making this resolution retroactive, and that nothing was said about getting account for the money paid to Andrew C. Hamilton.

Saved Mr. Hyde Some Taxes.

John McGuinness, head of the purchasing department of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, produced letter books containing letters concerning legislation, written by Thomas D. Jordan, former comptroller of the Equitable, to Andrew Hamilton and A. C. Field. These memoranda covered periods from 1898 to 1902 and during the last session of the legislature. They constituted a series of instructions to Fields as to what course he must pursue relative to every bill that appeared in the legislature.

One letter referred Fields to a bill relative to taxation, which Mr. Jordan instructed Fields to have killed if it affected Suffold county. Mr. Hughes, who had been reading the memoranda, stopped here and asked the witness what interest the Equitable had in Suffold county. Witness had not sufficient information to clear the point, but when asked if it was not because James H. Hyde had a residence there, witness replied he thought it was.

The adjournment was taken in the midst of the reading of these instructions, and it will be taken up when the committee resumes tomorrow.

PRINCE LOUIS IS GUEST OF HONOR

BLOOD THICKER THAN WATER

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—"Blood is thicker than water." Written on the frontispiece of the menu cards this famous saying of the American naval officer, Tatnall, never found more impressive expression than it did tonight, at the dinner on the Bowery at Coney Island, which the enlisted men of the first squadron of the United States North Atlantic fleet gave to the enlisted men of the second cruiser squadron of his Britannic majesty's navy, commanded by Rear Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg. It was the keynote of the cheering with which the 2,500 British and American sailors made the great pavilion ring to the echo. It was the toast to which they drank across the long tables which stretched down the great hall beneath the overhanging British and American flags. It was the theme of the speeches that accompanied the cigars and the beer of this mammoth feast, unique in the history of all navies and which will long furnish the theme of yarns on many a British and American berth deck.

Three cheers were given to Rear Admiral Prince Louis and then to Rear Admiral Evans. Leaving the dinner for a few moments, the admirals went into the balcony and gazed upon the impressive scene. Every sailorman was on his feet twirling his cap aloft, and led by a quartermaster at the end of the hall, the mighty company cheered as only British and American sailors can cheer.

Another inspiring scene occurred when, after eating a hearty dinner, exactly the same as that to which each sailor sat down, the admirals came down the center of the pavilion between the solid ranks of cheering bluejackets. This ovation, which Admiral Prince Louis and Admiral Evans received at parting, touched them deeply. The prince had an engagement at the horseshow and was compelled to leave the banquet early. As he did so he stopped to congratulate Chief Quartermaster Schumaker of the Maine, who, as chairman of the committees on arrangements and reception, had supreme charge of the preparations for the dinner. The prince then shook hands with each of the "side boys," who were lined at the entrance to pipe the two admirals "over the side."

"You have given me and my men a splendid evening," the prince said as he passed between them, "and I think you for myself and for them. Blood is thicker than water, and we are glad to be ashore," he added, paraphrasing the hearty sentiment "Glad to see you ashore," which followed Tatnall's famous phrase on the menu cards on first page.

During the dinner it developed that, through some misunderstanding, the British sailors had been granted shore leave until 7 o'clock tomorrow morning. A committee of two yeomen, T. C. Webster of the Missouri and Boatsman Smith of the Kentucky, representing the committees on reception laid the matter before Prince Louis, who promptly made the leave of his men until noon tomorrow.

Hurt by His Own Engine.

ROCHESTER, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—John Sherrett of Mahoningtown, an engineer on the Erie & Ashtabula division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was perhaps fatally injured yesterday afternoon at the Conway yards. He alighted from his cab to make a coupling in the absence of a brakeman, when the engine started as a result of a leaky throttle. Sherrett's shoulder blade, jawbone and several of his ribs were broken.

W. H. ANDREWS' MAKES DENIAL

CRIMINAL SUITS IN SIGHT

William H. Andrews yesterday filed an affidavit of defense to the suit entered against him by Receiver John B. Cunningham of the Enterprise National bank. Attorney Eugene Mackey appeared for Andrews.

Receiver Cunningham yesterday entered judgment against Andrews for $25,956 90, in common pleas court No. 3, the judgment being entered for that portion of the plaintiff's claim which it is said is not denied in the affidavit of defense of the defendant. The plaintiff elects to proceed to recover the balance of the claim, that portion which it is said is denied by the affidavit of defense. Of the amount for which judgment is entered, it is alleged that $11,610 33 is due on notes and interest thereon; $24,358 44 on drafts and interest thereon, with credits of $17,787 to be deducted. The deduction of these credits brings the amount to $22,180 92, it is alleged, and two checks and a note bring it to $25,956 90, the total net amount alleged by the plaintiff to be admitted by the defendant to be due the plaintiff in his affidavit of defense.

In his affidavit of defense Andrews denies the debt of $10,000 alleged to be due on two checks drawn by F. R. Nichols and alleges that these checks were drawn at the request of Cashier T. Lee Clark for the accommodation of the bank to secure currency from other banks for the use of the Enterprise bank. Neither he or Nichols, Andrews avers, ever received any benefit from these checks." He alleges that on November 1, 1905, he paid Cunningham $17,787 on account of the claim made in this suit.

Andrews denies having conspired with Nichols, Cashier Clark or any other person to unlawfully procure funds, that he requested Nichols to execute any of the negotiable paper sued upon or that T. J. McManus and A. J. Bentley ever made or accepted any negotiable paper at his request in pursuance of any unlawful conspiracy. He declares all his transactions with the bank were regular and legitimate and in accordance with current banking usage and practice.

A rule was granted on petition of James S. Arnold directing the commonwealth to show cause why the judgment against him as a surety of the Enterprise National bank should not be opened and he let into the defense. Arnold is on some of the bonds given to the state, but has not been connected with the bank for four years. His petition is similar to those filed by the other directors.

United States Attorney John W. Dunkle admitted yesterday that criminal prosecutions would probably be brought this week in connection with the failure of the Enterprise bank. The information that suits were contemplated came from Washington, where Edward P. Moxey, the special examiner of the bank's affairs was conferring with the comptroller of the currency and the attorney general's department. Mr. Dunkle would not say who would be prosecuted, but it was said in Washington that the suits would not be brought against outsiders having dealings with the bank, so that it is surmised that men connected with the bank may be arraigned.

Mr. Moxey will return to Pittsburgh today or tomorrow. Mr. Dunkle said he did not think that the department of justice at Washington would direct who was to be prosecuted, that being a matter usually left to the district attorney. Mr. Dunkle said that he understood some of the employes of the bank were borrowers to the extent of $10,000.

Attorney John Marron, who expected to file informations today against persons supposed to have been responsible for the closing of the bank, is in Philadelphia on business and will not return until tomorrow.

Judge F. P. Oldham, it is understood, examined into Andrews' relation with Clark and advised Cunningham in his legal proceedings. Judge Oldham is not in the city at present.

Fire Engine Horses Balk on Hill.

While on its way to a fire on Wylie avenue yesterday afternoon the team drawing the engine of No. 2 company balked on Grant street below Sixth avenue. After about 15 minutes' hard work on the part of firemen, policemen and spectators, who pushed the heavy engine up the hill, they managed to reach the fire, too late to be of any assistance, however. The fire was in the cellar of M. Supowitz's store, and the damage amounted to several hundred dollars.

PICKERING'S HOLIDAY GIFT PUZZLER. THE FORGETFUL MAN.

The man with a string on his finger, whose wife told him to buy a Christmas gift at Pickering's, will be in front of the Leader Office daily at 10 a. m.; Dispatch and Beobachter at 10:30 a. m.; Press Office at 11 a. m.; Chronicle Telegraph at 12 noon; Post Bldg. at 1. p. m.; Leader Store at 1 p. m.; Gazette and Volksblatt at 2:30 p. m.; Bijou Theater at 3 p. m.; Pickering's Store at 4 p. m.

Be there and get a handsome Xmas gift free.

Every day this week at the same hour he will be at the above places and give away 3 Articles, that's if you guess what he was told to buy.

DON'T yell the article, just walk up and say the article you think. In order to win you must be right close, so he can reach out and present the order to you and get your address. If you are 5, 10 or 15 feet away he can not locate the exact person. Say to him, Pickering's rocker, Pickering's morris chair or any article you think is right. You know Pickering's have over one thousand different articles that are useful for Xmas gifts. The first person that mentions the first article that she told him to buy, he, the forgetful man, will give you an order on Pickering's for the article. It will be delivered to you free of charge. After he gives that away tell him what the second article was that his wife told him to buy. If you hit it right you get the article free. Just say Pickering's, mention the article. He will continue until he gives away three articles each day. Each day he will be at the same place at the same hour. Each day his wife will tell him to purchase three articles from Pickering's. He will forget it.

It's up to you to tell him what they were. First of all think of the hundred and one things that Pickering's have to sell. Then get busy and tell the forgetful man what articles he forgot. You may say to him Pickering's cobbler seat rocker as his first article, when it might be his third, or it should have been Pickering's wood seat rocker. You would not win as he would be trying to think of the first or second. He will have a number on his hat, 1, 2 or 3, if you see 3 on his hat you will know that some one has told him of 1 and 2, if you see 1, 2 or 3 on his hat you will know that is the article he is trying to think about.

Can You Guess?

$1,000.00 reward will be paid to any charitable institution if it can be proven that this is not a bona-fide contest. Pickering always does as he advertises.

P. S.—Visit our store, corner 10th and Penn. Pick out any Xmas gift you desire, have it packed free of charge, we will deliver it any time or place you say, then pay us later 50c or a dollar a week. That's us, "Nuf-Ced."

As this paper went to press but two people told the forgetful man the right article, Mr. Roy Getty, Edith St., Duquesne Heights, said Pickering's Cobbler Seat Rocker. He receives the rocker. Mr. Chas. Moore, No. 325 Ella st., said Pickering's Carving Set. He gets the set.

The forgetful man will be at the same place today, but will be trying to think of different articles. Get busy and tell him. You know there is different makes and styles of furniture. Several different Rockers, wood seat, cobbler seat, leather seat, velour, oak and mahogany color, etc.

What Kind of a Suit or Overcoat Would You Expect for $20.00?

Special Dinner, 50c.

Roast Long Island Duck;
With Apple Sauce;
Browned White Potatoes;
Rolls and Butter;
Coffee.

DO your expecting first—get it up to the highest pitch—then come to us and find us double on your expectancy.

Our Totally Different Clothing admits of no argument on the following points: That it is many, many times better clothing than is sold anywhere in the Greater City for the same money; that at any price we quote, according to the grade, the tailoring is superior to any similar grades in the city; that there is not a garment in our whole collection, speaking in particular of the very lowest priced ones, that has any affiliation whatsoever with shoddy. This is strong talk, but each assertion is capable of strongest proof.

Suits and Overcoats that we charge $20.00 for are superior to many grades that are advertised as excessively cheap for much more. We have seen suits for $25.00 that are not as good as our $20.00 suits.

Then our suits at $15.00, $25.00 and on up to $35.00 and $40.00 are tailored so well that the man who is particularly fastidious about his clothes could take no exceptions either as to the style or the fit.

Men who affect the Surtout and Paletot style of overcoats are requested to see our collection. Each line is remarkably fine and remarkably true to current fashion.

This department makes a special of Liveries ready to put on as well as Liveries to order, not only carriage liveries, but also every kind of indoor livery.

The Finer Specimens of Furs.

While we have never had such a variety of furs in the popular-priced range, at the same time we have been very careful to gather together a collection of the finer furs, coats of Persian Lamb and Alaska Seal and Neckpieces of those very fine soft furs, Chinchilla, Ermine and the various Sables.

Regarding fur coats for Christmas presents, the time is all too short to discuss this matter, especially with men who intend to surprise their wives.

To such who have this idea before them we advise seeing us as early as possible, not only on account of selecting from complete lines, but on account of having ample time to make alterations.

We have Persian Lamb Jackets, beginning at $130.00 and running along by easy range up to $250.00.

Our Sealskin Coats are all made of Alaska seal, which is now so rare, and becoming more so each season. The $375.00 grade is so good that those who look at it first and say they will look further around the city, invariably come back and buy.

In fashionable Neck Furs we have Chinchilla in the wide range of $25.00 to $225.00; Ermine from $20.00 up to $250.00; Hudson Bay Sable from $50.00 up to $200.00; and the Imperial Russian Sables from $185.00 up to $1,150.00.

To refer again to fur coats, we have to inform those who do not care to invest in the real seal that we have sightly looking Electric Seal Coats for $40.00 and up to $90.00.

Fur Sets at $15.00—For this price we have sets, Scarf and Muff, and choice is from blended Squirrel, natural Squirrel, Jap. Mink and Brook Mink, four of the most popular furs in the popular price range. This price of $15.00 is a most unusual one.

Fabrics for Evening Dresses.

The following have a shivery look, but women demand them, and our part is to give women anything demanded:

Line of beautiful imported Tulle, white and colored grounds, handsomely printed in floral designs. These Tulles will be used extensively for evening wear this winter. 75c a yard.

Dragon Silk, a material composed of silk and cotton, finished with a high lustre; 28 inches wide, shown in all colors and black. 35c a yard.

Two Specials in Women's Vests.

The first is for small women—if you can wear a small-sized vest you can get a fine $2.00 or $2.25 wool vest for the even dollar.

52-Inch Black Broadcloth Coats, $25.00, Instead of $35.00.

Twenty-five women can each save ten dollars today by purchasing one of these latest cut stylish coats. We had them made up special from a lot that we bought at a greatly reduced price.

Were it not for this fact we would have had to ask $35.00 for them.

NEW VELOUR JACKETS FOR WOMEN—The richest and most beautiful collection we have ever had, from the blouse at $25.00 up to the exquisite tailor-made coat for $150.00. The newest style is a Russian Mouse with rolling fronts, that can be worn open or closed; it is belted at the waist with a fancy girdle and has short flaring skirts over the hips. But every other style we thought good is here, too. Etons, long semi-box Jackets with fitted back in many different lengths. All are built on French ideas and lined with white satin.

Girls' Winter Dresses for Less.

New Peter Thompson Coats for $6.50, though the regular price is $9.00. Sizes for 6 to 14-year-old girls. Just received these coats yesterday, late. Made of good cheviot, a pretty shade of blue, embroidered emblems, entirely lined with red flannel. Each has a velvet collar.

Girls' Dresses of cheviot and cashmere, full skirts, trimmed waists, sizes for 6 to 10 years, at $5.00, were $9.00.

Our lines of girls' School Dresses are exceptionally complete. Russian and Sailor styles, plain colors and also checks. Range of sizes 4 to 12 years. Range of price $4.75 to $12.00.

Women's $6.00 Umbrellas Today $4.00.

These umbrellas are handsome enough to use for presentation purposes six weeks from now. They are pure black silk taffeta with tape edge, the handles are cap and bells of highly chased sterling silver.

Notwithstanding the price is $2.00 lower than it should be, every umbrella is absolutely perfect. Also the following little lot for special prices:

1 Shell and Gold Umbrella that was $13.50, now $8.50.
1 Ivory and Silver Umbrella was $9.00, now $5.00.
2 Ivory and Silver Umbrellas were $7.50 each, now $5.00.
2 very heavy chased silver handle Umbrellas were $7.50 each, now $5.00 each.

The lot is a small one, and it will be necessary for you to be here early this morning if you want to select from the best.

Handsome Hosiery for Women.

WHEN our buyer was over in Europe late thepast Summer, by reason of his heavy purchases he secured very gratifying concessions, especially on silk and lisle stockings in various finishes. Today we place several lines of these handsome stockings on sale and women will note the unusually popular prices that we quote. Some of these stockings are plain, others have lace effects, still others are in embroidered designs and combinations of lace and embroidery.

Plain black and white Lisle Hose, self embroidery of heavy silk, $2.50 grade for, a pair.....$2.00

Black Lisle Hose, embroidered daintily in rosebuds, daisies and other floral effects, $1.00 grade for, a pair.75c

Black Lisle Hose, embroidered in colors—forget-me-nots and like small designs, black embroidered in black, black embroidered in contrasting color dots, plain gauze lisles in light blue, nile, lavender, pink, yellow, navy, etc., 75c and $1.00 grades, and they would be a bargain at those prices, for, a pair.....50c

Tuesday, November 14, 1905.

Gov. Pennypacker received many congratulations yesterday from members of the legislature on his action in calling for the extra session and his clear enunciation of the duties to be performed. It is evident that such reforms as are desired by the people of Pennsylvania will be effected through the agency of the Republican party. The vigorous support which the governor is receiving from all parts of the state is most gratifying. The hearty co-operation of the legislature will mean the carrying out of a program of the greatest importance to this commonwealth.

The defenders of rough and tumble football in this country will have something to think about when they learn that while the people of Mexico are urging the abolition of bull-fighting, as a national sport, owing to the number of serious accidents that have recently occurred in the ring, football does not commend itself to the Mexican public as a substitute. Is it possible that in the eyes of our Mexican neighbors the goring of a bull is not far removed from the gouging of a football contest?

Postoffice department officials in Washington expressed the opinion yesterday that at its coming session congress would authorize the extension of the pneumatic tube service to Pittsburgh. Its value in handling the increasing postal business of this city has long been realized. Additional clerks and carriers are needed also, and the extra expense is warranted in view of the fact that the Pittsburgh postoffice is the most economically conducted of any in the country. The Pittsburgh office is now the ninth in point of business handled.

The statement made yesterday by a resident of Utah who is visiting in Pittsburgh that polygamy is still prevalent in that state, but practiced less openly than formerly, confirms the testimony presented at the Smoot hearing in Washington. There is no doubt that polygamy is a vital part of the Mormon religion. The performing of polygamous marriage ceremonies in the temples, from which non-Mormons are excluded, renders the procuring of incriminating testimony a difficult matter. The evil is not less pernicious because of its partial concealment.

New York's insurance investigating committee yesterday demanded of President McCall the return of Andrew Hamilton to this country from Europe in order that some significant lapses in the testimony may be supplied. The relations of Hamilton with more than one company as a representative at Albany render his testimony imperative if the investigation is to be as thorough as contemplated. Hamilton should be able to throw some additional light not only on the acts of certain insurance officials, but on the character of New York's legislators.

Yesterday's report from the United States consul at Warsaw describes recent Russian outrages in such a manner as to leave no doubt of their barbarous nature. The tragedy at the town hall on November 2 was occasioned by the criminal recklessness of the Cossacks, who, as usual, charged on the unarmed populace with drawn sabers, cutting down men, women and children. Sixteen children, several of them under 8 years of age, were treated at the hospital for their injuries. The consul adds that half a dozen American policemen could have dispersed the crowd. When there is bloody work to be done the Cossacks are the ever-ready agents.

The probing of the Tammany election frauds in New York resulted yesterday in the indicting of eight men, six of whom were at once arrested. This is, of course, but the beginning of the crusade undertaken by District Attorney Jerome, and it is evident something is to be accomplished. While there are good grounds for believing that W[illegible] Hearst has been defrauded of thousands of votes through Tammany's customary corrupt methods, the incendiary utterances of some of his supporters are not calculated to win sympathy for his cause. At a public meeting one of his counsel declared that if necessary there would be bloodshed in the establishing of Mr. Hearst's claim. This is not the kind of talk that will be tolerated in this country. It transcends the limit of "free speech."

Proposed Consular Reforms.

The preliminary step taken by President Roosevelt for the reorganization of the consular service is commendable, more especially since the scheme includes all appointees in that service as being subject to examination. The present arrangement exempts all consuls drawing $2,500 a year. But will even the proposed rigid examination of candidates secure better men for the higher and more important places? Very bright men have often been found to make the poorest representatives of our government abroad, while a man with common sense and practical business qualifications has reflected credit upon his country. However, the President's proposed reform in consular selections may work some needed improvement in the service, and is worth the trial.

The complaints regarding deterioration in the consular service, of which we have heard so much lately, are in many instances referable to the reform Cleveland congress. It sought to retrench the government expenses and at the same time increase the revenues and, therefore, made a big stab at the consular service. It scaled salaries and cut off many of the fees, leaving nothing to some consulships but notarial and other inconsiderable commissions. The consequence was that capable men who sought appointments abroad refused to go when they found that a bare living was the emolument, and, in some cases, not even that. The result was, indifferent and irresponsible men filled these places. This Democratic economy placed many of our consuls in the position of representing a "cheap" nation, in contrast with the well-paid and comfortably housed representatives of other first-class powers. In the light of these incontroverted facts, it would be wise on the part of the President to suggest to congress that while seeking to improve the moral and intellectual caliber of consuls it would be well to make such places worth the consideration of high grade, capable men.

French Colonial Lessons.

That the boiled shirt and free institutions are doubtful blessings when thrust suddenly upon a people still semi-barbarous is an axiom generally accepted outside of Boston, and denied by few economists except Mr. Atkinson. Since the United States, by the relentless logic of history and progress, was forced to assume trans-oceanic responsibilities, there has been a continuous clamor by political idealists that we should confer upon the people of our new possessions the same liberties and political privileges enjoyed by the older states. Arguments to show the absurdity and impossibility of such a procedure were waved aside as the inadmissible testimony of men directly interested, and anti-imperialism was made the principal plank in several political platforms, without, however, inducing many of the common sense majority to take their stand thereon. Perhaps the well-meaning but mistaken minority will give heed to the experience of a Frenchman who has taken a prominent part in colonial administration. M. Jonnart, who was minister of public works in the Casimir-Perier cabinet of 1893, but resigned because he believed Dreyfus innocent, has been governor-general of Algeria almost ever since. He writes in the London Express as follows:

It is remarkable that the pioneers who attacked the problem all made the same mistake, no matter the land or latitude. They believed that the assimilation of the native could be secured by admitting him to the liberal banquet of civilization, thus assuring him without further delay the benefits of the laws and institutions of his conqueror.

We in France, more than anywhere else, were led astray by this idea that, with a turn of the hand, or rather a stroke of the pen, we could make our new subjects into citizens, and enrich them with our code, our procedure, our administration, and our justice. How better could we show our wish to embrace them in the French family? We yielded at once to our instinct of benevolence and our exaggerated passion for symmetry.

He goes on to point out that the habits of centuries cannot be changed by an edict, that institutions not yet understood will be resented, and that the art of transition is of prime importance in dealing with native populations. The problem in Algeria was not unlike our Philippine problem, and France, after starting out to solve it in the idealistic way, has come down to the practical policy which the American military government wisely inaugurated from the first. Anti-imperialists, if they still exist, might well ponder these disinterested words of an outsider who was not thinking of their applicability to our case.

An Ideal Voyage.

The experience of a shipload of passengers who left New York for Hamburg early Saturday morning is decidedly reminiscent of a typical Frank Stockton story. Friday night the passengers embarked and retired to their berths. When they awoke next morning and went on deck expecting to be far out of sight of land, there was the familiar statue of Liberty in plain view, with the skyscrapers of New York golden under the rays of the rising sun. The boat had run aground without receiving any serious damage. During the two days she lay there, the passengers enjoyed themselves hugely. As on most ocean liners, the food served is unsurpassed at the best hotels on land. The berths on the up-to-date boat are as comfortable as the average hotel bed, especially when the boat is not in motion. The latest newspapers were brought from shore. An orchestra discoursed sweet music. There were games of all kinds on deck, to say nothing of the games in the smoking room. Every luxury and convenience of the finest hotel or club on land was provided. Exhilarating ocean breezes swept the ship from stem to stern. The passengers slept at night far from the roar of the city's traffic.

There is a valuable suggestion for steamship managers in the experience of the Hamburg liner. If this company of passengers found life on a stationary ship so enjoyable, might it not appeal equally to others? Many a person has been deterred from taking an ocean voyage by fear of seasickness and shipwreck, while fully appreciating the beneficial effects of life at sea. By this new plan the countless annoyances of travel on the European continent would be avoided. No bothering with customs officers, no conciliating of haughty French waiters with colossal tips, no spending half a day auditing a hotel bill plethoric with "extras." The ideal ocean voyage does not land one on a foreign shore, but back on good United States soil; it is unaccompanied by seasickness and involves absolutely no danger. And the passenger can end it any day or hour he chooses.

The Money Market Flurry.

The flurry in the New York money market yesterday carried the rate paid by stock exchange borrowers for call loans up to 25 per cent. This is the highest quoted since the autumn of 1902. The significance of this abnormally high rate is more apparent than real. To some extent it was the result of manipulation. This was demonstrated by the subsequent decline of 6 per cent and the free offerings at that figure. It may be that the manipulation was for the purpose of inducing Secretary Shaw to increase the amount of government deposits with the banks, or it may have been for the purpose of forcing liquidation in the stock market. The latter object was partially successful, but Secretary Shaw let it be understood that until the business interests of the country felt the pinch and made a request for government relief, he would make no move to render the market easier for speculators.

The real situation in the money market is this: Business requirements are larger today than ever before, because the volume of trade is larger and commodity values are higher than ever before. This is ample explanation for the increased demand for banking credit all over the country. New York is the chief central reserve city, and banks all over the country make drafts upon their balances in New York to accommodate their home customers. Ordinarily at this season New York draws upon Europe in the shape of gold imports in payment for our shipments of agricultural products. So far in the current crop year our exports of cotton are nearly 500,000 bales smaller than for the corresponding period last year. Instead of those 500,000 bales being in the hands of foreigners, and the latter remitting gold to New York in payment, they are in the hands of the cotton planter, and there is a possibility that the planter is borrowing money to carry the same in the hope of a higher price later on. Thus, instead of an addition to monetary supplies in the shape of foreign gold, there is a draft upon domestic credits to carry the cotton at home.

In the second week of last month the current of money suddenly turned in favor of New York, instead of continuing against it. Wall street immediately jumped to the conclusion that the season's requirements for crop movement had ended, and that for the remainder of the year there would be an accumulation of money in New York that would result in easy rates. Acting on this assumption there was a revival of active speculation, pools being formed in several prominent stocks to advance the price. Then there was another sudden turn in the monetary stream and currency was shipped to the interior in greater volume than ever. The effect was to wipe out the surplus reserves of the New York banks and a deficit was created. Under the law the banks must make good this deficit within a month. Their only resource is to call in money loaned to stock market operators. The latter in attempting to renew their loans elsewhere are obliged to bid up the rate. But while the speculator may be compelled to pay anywhere from 10 to 20 per cent for temporary accommodation, the business man is obtaining money at the legal rate. It will devolve upon bankers to resist the temptation to send money to Wall street to take advantage of the high rates. If they husband their resources, their regular customers will not feel the pinch the speculator is undergoing, and there will be no setback to any legitimate business interest.

"Maybe I can do some good if I can get the rich and poor acquainted here so that they will not have to be introduced in heaven," says a New York clergyman. Maybe some of the poor who have no desire to become poorer will decline the honor of an introduction to some of the Wall street gentlemen.

Feeling the need of a little diversion the insurance committee will now call upon Mr. Depew for a few fine old crusted anecdotes.

The elusive Mr. Hamilton might be captured sooner if the insurance investigating committee would offer a suitable reward.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

It Is Not What Is Done for You That Makes You Happy.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

It is a mistake to think that others can make you happy.

As well think that others can make you wise, useful and successful.

You may have thought that if some rich man were to give you a lot of money that he would be making you happy, and that you would be all the more useful and successful.

All who think thus do so to their detriment, for when a man loses his independence to such a degree that he would willingly accept charity he is, to all intents and purposes, a beggar, and well-nigh as poor as the poorest.

It isn't merely for the lack of money that some people are poor, but for the lack of ability to live in the midst of plenty.

To covet the money belonging to another is a sign of a beggarly spirit, and the man is as his spirit is.

Those who have amassed large sums of money are good collectors and careful spenders.

If you could get a dime a year from a million people you would have an income double that of the President, and equal to that of presidents of some corporations.

There are more than that number of people who can give you that amount, and will cheerfully do so, in a business way.

The Standard Oil Company can raise a million in a month, or less, and the people won't feel it, because the share of each contributor is too small to be noticeable.

The people are just as willing to contribute a few cents annually to your fortune, in a business way. Offer them something that they need, or want, and they will not be niggardly with you. But they are not going to pay you for singing a hard luck song, nor will they give it to you merely for the asking.

Give something, and if given wisely you will get something in return, sure.

About the most unhappy people on earth are those who feel unable to support themselves. Even if they have money they are ever in dread of losing it and being thrown upon their own resources.

The boy and girl, even of tender years, who feel that they can do some thing that will keep them, are wealthier in their own right, and have far better prospects in life than those who know there is money coming to them when their parents die.

The boy who has a rich father does not feel that he must learn to do something worth while so that he will be able to live in comfort when he becomes a man. He may think, and may argue, that everyone should be self-supporting, but he doesn't feel that way, knowing that his father has provided for his support.

This accounts for the fact that a very large majority of the successful men in this country started as poor boys, and that a no less majority of those who have failed started as rich boys.

Senator Dolliver says that practically all of the progressive, successful men in the city of New York, walked into town, figuratively speaking, with no other baggage than a gripsack. He took the trouble to look up the histories of a large number of the foremost men of the place, and found that hardly more than one per cent were born and reared there, or inherited their wealth.

Well, isn't this right, quite right? Those who are born to riches haven't no taste for hard work, and are perfectly willing to allow others to do it.

And, as you know, it is a law of nature, and of life, that the crowns shall be given to those who strive most wisely and valiantly.

Those who don't work must pay those who do work if they would enjoy the fruits of labor, so that the money that comes without labor soon returns to those who work. A most wise arrangement, don't you think?

The sons and daughters of those who toiled and labored to build up fortunes, may be found living or traveling abroad instead of attending to the business that made them rich.

The man who goes out into the world to get money by hook or crook is nothing more nor less than a species of highwayman. Instead of using a bludgeon or gun he employs what is politely termed shrewd business methods.

And then he is usually as reckless and unwise in his methods of expending his money as in getting it, so that not much good ever comes of it.

* * *

Your value to the world consists not alone in what you succeed in getting out of it, but what you give back to it.

Your value to your fellows is measured by what you give to them, and their usefulness is measured by the promptness and facility with which they pass it along. You take from one only to improve or better it, and then pass it to others. Those who take and keep are embezzlers.

It isn't money that will make you happy, but the effort to get it in order that you may put it into a channel where it will do good to a greater number.

If young folks could be induced to study the problem of human happiness, and to honestly strive to solve it, they would be more successful in matrimonial ventures as well as in business.

* * *

Mr Quiet Observer.—For several years I have read with interest your varied comments on matrimonial matters. Yesterday you stated "That the great need is for marriageable women."

I take issue with you on that statement. There are hundreds of good, sensible women in this city, women of education and refinement who would make companions and helpmeets for good, sensible, cultured men.

Women who have worked for years for their own livelihood would be glad for a home of their own where they could expend their energies, ingenuity and love. They would make good wives, good mothers and good homemakers, which I believe is the great need of this country today.

But, alas! these are passed by while the butterfly girl is taken up. She goes everywhere, and attentions are showered upon her. Ofttimes she cannot think two sensible thoughts consecutively, and asks about the last party, and the theater, and like frivolous things, and the men laugh and are delighted with that sort of amusement.

I anticipate that you will say, as so many do, "but that is not the kind of girls men marry." But it is. Do you not know of many women such as I first described who have practically no men friends, although perhaps they are fond of the companionship of men, while the giddy, frivolous ones have more than they can manage?

Give the good sensible women their dues, and don't say that there is dearth of marriageable women in this town.

A STENOGRAPHER.

Should Count Himself Lucky.

Cunliffe, the Pittsburgh youth who robbed Adams Express of over $100,000, gets six years for his crime and folly. He can count himself lucky to escape with so short a sentence, for though he regretted his crime as soon as he committed it and had no enjoyment or pleasure with the money, he was none the less guilty of an inexcusable breach of trust and deserves no sympathy for yielding to the temptation to become a thief.—Baltimore American.

No Occasion for Alarm.

Doubtless, the fleets now in the North River could, as Prince Louis says, "reduce New York to atoms;" but anybody who sits down to think about it for five minutes can find several good reasons why they will not.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

MARGARET CARNEGIE REMAINS UNSPOILED

Heiress to Millions Knows the Simple Life—Women Should Keep Out of Politics.

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A local paper has been printing nice things about Little Margaret Carnegie, only child of the Pittsburgh philanthropist. The article says:

"Just like other girls of her age, simple, healthy, happy and interested in the teeming life around her with the fresh interest of an unspoiled child, is little Miss Carnegie. Just like other girls, save that some day she will inherit one of the biggest fortunes in the world. Andrew Carnegie is not going to allow money to spoil his daughter. She is used to fine living, to luxury, to every care and personal service of every description. But she is accustomed also to that personal freedom which makes life beautiful to the children of the poor and deprivation of which often makes the children of the rich very unhappy.

"This little heiress, when in seclusion runs about with her father, over the links at Skibo Castle, when he is trying to make new golf scores, essays golf herself, and enjoys outdoor life and running and playing as much as any scampering little elf of a humble cottage. Little Margaret has been brought up with great care under the supervision of her mother and father. Her education has been in the hands of accomplished governesses, directed by Mrs. Carnegie, and every precaution has been taken against spoiling her. She has been taught to regard the simple things in life as highly as luxurious, and the stock of good Scotch common sense which she inherited from her father and possession of which she early demonstrated, has aided her in this.

"But little Margaret now is as happy as she might be if her father wasn't the steel magnate and one of the richest men in the world. To her now in her bright childhood wealth offers no care, and the future doesn't interfere with her present satisfaction in life's pleasant places."

Women Should Taboo Politics.

The American woman scores again. And this time it is on what has been pointed out by many persons as her most notable failing—her lack of interest in politics. This latest praise comes from Miss Pearl Mary Theresa Cragie, the clever novelist and playwright who signs her productions with the nom-de-plume of John Oliver Hobbes. Mrs. Cragie said today that the American woman by keeping out of politics makes the American man more manly. Mrs. Cragie has lived for many years in England, where she has seen the activity of English women in politics. Her conclusion is that when the women begin to take up this particular section of the white man's burden, the man is likely to go to a corner, light his pipe and give her orders.

New Yorker in Trouble Abroad.

Cable dispatches from London announcing the failure of Lewis Green Tewksbury have caused much comment here. Tewksbury, who was a millionaire broker in this city, was the center of the limelight five years ago, when he went into bankruptcy and subsequently married Mrs. Violet Aubrey Butler, who was once the wife of Guy Butler, Indian fighter, war correspondent and well known man about town. Tewksbury disappeared from this city in 1900, and his debts were then said to aggregate $1,000,000. He had magnificent offices at 32 Broadway and branches in other parts of the city. He lived in a fine mansion in an aristocratic section of the city. His cellar was stocked with rare and expensive wines and his stable filled with thoroughbreds, among which was the famous horse, Robert J. These were all sold at auction for the benefit of his creditors.

Present Policeman With a Dimple.

A beggar for so many years that he has come to regard alms as his right is Thomas Mangin, who was arrested today by Superintendent Forbes, of the Charity organization society, and Policeman Fess and Missig, of the beggar squad. Fess will wear a dimple in his right cheek for the rest of his life, whether it becomes him or not, as a result of the arrest, for Mangin, although 61 years old, succeeded in excavating the dimple space with his teeth. The old fellow is known as the "king of begging letter writers." He will probably retire to the island for some time.

Graf Waldersee Gets Off Safely.

The Hamburg-American liner Graf Waldersee, stuck in the mud off Thirty-ninth street, South Brooklyn, was floated with the incoming flood tide this morning and proceeded to the anchorage off Liberty island in the upper harbor, where she will remain until tomorrow morning before proceeding on her voyage out. A great portion of the vessel's 11,000 ton cargo had been lightered in the hope that she would float off the mud bank without the aid of the tide. The cargo was reloaded into the hold of the steamer after she reached the Liberty Island anchorage.

Saved by the Life Nets.

A smoldering fire in a Brooklyn business house at 88 Meserole street today drove the employes, most of whom were women, in a screaming, hysterical rush to the windows, where they hung until rescued by the firemen. Nets were spread to catch several who would not wait for the ladders, and in the jumping that followed one girl bounced out of a net and was badly injured. The property loss will reach about $40,000.

THE VOTING SYSTEM OF SWITZERLAND

Curious Methods That Obtain in Little Republic—Pray Before Voting.

In some parts of Switzerland the people vote altogether and at once by showing their hands. The Landesgemeinde is the name given to the system of voting practised in several cantons in the German part of Switzerland, and election day is the last Sunday in April. This form of voting is the oldest in Switzerland.

More than 10,000 people may be gathered in the big market place. Some of the men have come twenty or thirty miles to vote; for every man of voting age is fined if he does not report at the voting place. Every voter carries a sword, often of antique and beautiful pattern. This sword serves merely as a badge to indicate that the bearer is a peaceful voter, and it is usually carried in the hand, strapped up with an umbrella. The yellow platform on which the candidates stand is also decorated with two huge swords.

Before the voting begins, and while the voters are assembled, an escort of halberdiers parades three times around the market square and the band plays. These halberdiers and the sheriffs wear parti-colored costumes in the colors of their cantons, and when, as in the case of Geneva, the cantonal colors happen to be scarlet and yellow, the result is very gay; but in Appenzell the colors are black and white, and therefore not so striking.

Pray Before Voting.

The ceremony in the particular election under consideration began with a solemn march of the dignitaries from the house where they had been waiting to the platform. Then followed the singing of the Appenzell hymns and the long address by the Landmann, during which every man removed his hat. After the address there was a silent prayer of half a minute, and then the voting began. The men to be voted for happened to be officers who had already served and who were up for re-election. The name of each candidate was called out by the sheriff in a voice that was almost, if not quite, a roar. Then came the question, "Will you replace him?"

No one moved, but at the question, "Will you confirm him?" a sea of hands went up on the instant; and so it was in every case. Such absolute unanimity was refreshing to see. Apparently there was no division into parties. The people knew their men and knew what they wanted. The vote is unanimous for each man, but one of the judges had died in October and his place had to be filled; so after the others had been confirmed the Landmann called for nominations from the crowd. Every man has the right to nominate any one he pleases, who is a citizen and resident of the canton. So from out the crowd one heard names called.

A Show of Hands.

Now and then a would-be wit would propose a name that raised a laugh, but in the main the nominating was serious enough. When some half dozen names had been chosen they were read aloud and proposed for vote one by one. At each name came a sprinkling of hands over the crowd till the name arrived that the majority of the crowd had evidently fixed upon, and then came the same unmistakable upraising of hands in such numbers that there was absolutely no doubt as to who was elected, and his election was declared at once by the Landmann.

After all the officers were elected the Landmann took the oath of office, and then the whole crowd, raising their right hands, took the oath of allegiance, repeating aloud the formula in concert, as it was read from the platform. If any of the officers wish to resign, the resignations must be voted on; and then the question is, "Will you accept these resignations?" If the vote is in the negative the officers must continue to serve, whether they wish to or not, as this service, though very slightly paid, is as obligatory as is the voting, the only alternatory alternative for the unhappy candidate being to leave the canton.

In Case of Doubt.

In the voting, when there arises a doubt as to the vote, the voters are marched in front of the platform in fours and counted.

After the vote for officers, the question of changing the constitution, that the government might be carried on in a more modern fashion, was brought up, and promptly and unanimously voted down. One reason why the people are so satisfied with their present form of government is that, while they had expended large sums in public work without raising the taxes in any way, the public debt of the canton was only 153 francs ($30.60). And there are places in Switzerland that can boast better than this. In Stein am Rhein the people not only have no taxes to pay, but on the contrary, each citizen receives an annual dividend from the commercial property. Naturally citizenship in this place is hard to acquire.

The whole business of the annual vote was settled in about an hour, and after a few final words from the Landmann the people scattered to seek refreshment.—The Churchman.

Went to War About Once.

If there is a practice of "shanghaiing" American citizens in American ports to fill out the short crews of British ships, it should be stopped, and the offenders punished in such a way that they will have no stomach for ever doing the like again. STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

The Monongahela house management, in establishing the European plan today, in connection with its usual American plan, abrogates a custom of 60 years' standing. The Monongahela house was established in 1845, immediately following the great fire that swept over the lower portion of the city. It is just possible that the fire was the cause of Pittsburgh having the Monongahela house, for otherwise the big slot of ground in Smithfield street, from First avenue to Water street, might be occupied yet with business houses. From its foundation in that year until this morning, the various managers of the house have maintained the American plan in the house's operation.

A handsome new dining-room for the exclusive use of those who dine on the European plan has been opened on the second floor, adjoining the large main dining-room, where many notable banquets have been held in the past decades. The new dining-room has been elaborately finished. N. B. Richardson, proprietor of the Monongahela, said last night regarding the change:

"There have been many requests for accommodations on the European plan and it is to accommodate these that the change is made. We cannot do away with the American plan, of course, for there are lots of people who will want nothing but the straight rates for room and board. We are simply keeping pace with Pittsburgh's growth. The very old hotels in all of the larger cities are gradually adopting the European plan in connection with the American plan, while some of them are using the European plan entirely. I think the two plans will work together here very well."

Among the Pittsburgh hotels managed on the European plan are the Antler, Colonial, Duquesne, Fort Pitt, Henry, Lincoln, Newell and Schenley. The Anderson, Boyer and Seventh Avenue hotels are generally known as American plan houses. The Griswold is operated on both plans.

Will Open Information Bureau.

Preparations for opening the information bureau at the Union station have about been completed, and it is expected that its operation will begin within a few days. No official announcement has been made regarding the men who will be placed in charge of this important part of the Union station facilities for the accommodation of the traveling public, but it is generally known by Pennsylvania employes about the station that Samuel Gray, George Grayburn and William Smith have been selected for the three turns in the bureau work. These men are well fitted for the position, as each has passed the examination for ticket examiner, and besides each has passed a special bureau examination that will entitle the holding of this position in the bureau. The booth for use as the information bureau will be in the east lobby of the waiting room.

Guardsmen at Fort Jay.

The Eighteenth regiment, N. G. P., has again been allowed a representative at the garrison school maintained by the federal government at Fort Jay, New York. It was announced yesterday in Washington that First Lieutenant Frank A. Orr of Company D has been authorized to attend and pursue the regular course of instruction given at the school. Mr. Orr lives in Munhall and is an enthusiastic guardsman.

First Lieut. Frank E. Kunkle of Company H of the Eighteenth is now taking his second term at the school. These two officers are the only representatives of Pennsylvania in attendance. The government in order to encourage commissioned officers of the state guards to familiarize themselves with regular army life, makes an allowance for them while in attendance at the garrison school.

THREE LESSONS.

There are three lessons I would write—
Three words, as with a burning pen
In gracings of eternal light
Upon the hearts of men.

Have hope. Though clouds environ now,
And gladness hides her face in scorn,
Put thou the shadow from thy brow—
No night but hath its morn.

Have Faith. Where'er thy bark is driven,
The calm's disport, the tempest's mirth,
Know this—God rules the host of Heaven,
The inhabitants of earth.

Have Love! Not love alone for one,
But man, as man, thy brothers call;
And scatter, like the circling sun,
Thy charities on all.

Thus grave these lessons on thy soul—
Hope, Faith and Love—and thou shalt find
Strength when life's surges rudest roll,

DIRECTOR MOORE TAKES A STAND

MOORE IS TO TALK TODAY

The rumor that Director Moore of the department of public safety, is about to resign, was given wide circulation yesterday. The report was that he was prompted to step down and out as head of the police, fire and health bureaus, because of the continued insubordination of "Buck" Wallace, superintendent of the bureau of police, who recognizes the superiority of no one except Mayor Hays, whose personal appointee he is.

Wallace has almost uniformly disregarded the orders and wishes of Director Moore, and the latter is said to have reached a point where he will not longer consent to the sacrifice of his own self-respect, to say nothing of the dignity of the important office he holds. In other words, the rumor of yesterday had it that Director Moore had decided not to remain at the head of the safety department in name only. The report further was that Mr. Moore had already tendered his resignation to Mayor Hays, but that Mr. Moore refuses to either deny or confirm. He did say, however, "I will have something to say on this matter tomorrow."

Boss Bigelow Gets Busy.

Soon after the the appearance of the afternoon papers which prominently displayed the rumor of Director Moore's resignation, Director Bigelow of the department of public works, hurried to the safety building and was in conference with Director Moore for over an hour. It is not thought that Director Bigelow succeeded in persuading Director Moore to change his mind, for when Director Bigelow returned to the city hall, Mayor Hays hurried over to Director Moore's office and remained with him for some time. It is said that Mayor Hays and Director Bigelow tried to effect a compromise with Director Moore.

Wallace has always been understood to have the personal backing of Mayor Hays. The chief magistrate of the city, however, now seems inclined to sustain Director Moore. It is not thought that Director Moore will be allowed to resign. The likelihood is that Wallace will either have to go or else be reduced in rank or sent to some other city department.

It is a known fact that Wallace's administration of the bureau of police has been so notoriously bad that it formed an undesirable load for the Citizens party to carry in the campaign just closed and assisted the Republicans materially in cutting down the vote of the Citizens party in Pittsburgh. The leaders of the Citizens outfit realize this, and are disgusted with "Buck" Wallace and his administration. They would like to see him go. They have not hesitated to urge that he be let out.

Conference of Bosses Last Night.

It is understood that a secret conference of several of the leaders was held last night to consider the attitude of Director Moore and figure out what would be the best plan to follow so as to avoid as much publication of the scandal of the situation as possible.

The straw which, figuratively speaking, broke the camel's back in this Moore-Wallace imbroglio, was "Dick" Wiseman, the Citizens party worker who was arrested three times on election day for violation of the election laws, and who was also taken into custody last Friday for creating a riot in Newell's hotel.

Wiseman injured and abused Policeman Stonerod when he was placed under arrest. Wallace was inclined to treat the arrest of Wiseman lightly. Director Moore was determined that Wiseman should be treated the same as any other offender. Wallace took a stand again against his superior officer, and as yet Wiseman has not been punished.

This angered Moore, and yesterday he intimated he intended to leave office unless Wallace left the service. Neither Mayor Hays nor Moore would speak regarding their conference.

"I will have something to say on the matter tomorrow," said Moore.

"Did Mayor Hays ask you not to resign?" was asked Moore.

"That question I refuse to answer," replied the director. Continuing, he said: "When I resign I will do so to Mayor Hays. He will know of it first. I will have something to say about the matter tomorrow. I am going to be director of public safety as long as I am here. When I am deprived of my jurisdiction I will get out. If I remain in office Wiseman will be prosecuted."

May Make Wallace a Detective.

It is believed in many quarters that the differences between Wallace and Moore will be compromised by Wallace being reduced to the grade of a detective. Assistant Superintendent of Police Kennelly will in that event probably succeed Wallace. Kennelly is well liked by Director Moore. Kennelly carries more dignity than could Wallace ever hope to do, and Moore respects him for that. Wallace recently attempted to assume charge of the detective bureau. Superintendent of Detectives McQuaide resented this and informed Wallace that he had better attend to his own business as he, McQuaide, intended to be superintendent of detectives as long as he was in office. Wallace was a member of the detective bureau for about six months. During that time he made but three arrests, none of which were of any importance. McQuaide once said that Wallace would never make a detective.

Greater Pittsburgh Legislation Interests More Than Governor's Other Ideas.

PUBLIC'S WISH IN FUGE CASE

Such a sudden turn was given to the political situation by the governor's proclamation calling an extra session of the legislature that even yet the rank and file can hardly realize it. After the election last Tuesday aspirants for the mayoralty in Pittsburgh and Allegheny already began to lay plans and "Who'll be the next mayor?" was a question asked all over both cities. Even now some forgetful person occasionally brings up the mayoralty, to be reminded that only after the legislature adjourns can that question be discussed intelligently, if the legislature and the governor leave it a debatable question.

While the other measures proposed by the governor are important and interest everybody, here in Allegheny county his insistence on the Greater Pittsburgh overshadows everything else for the moment. Men are wondering what boundaries for the consolidated city the governor contemplates, whether he thinks Allegheny and Pittsburgh only ought to be united, or does he think a large part of the county should be incorporated within Pittsburgh's limits, and whether the Greater Pittsburgh act will authorize the governor to appoint the mayor of the big city.

The Republican county chairman, Thomas J. Ford, and the city chairman, Max G. Leslie, are in the east; Director Bigelow of the Citizens faction, is going in a day or two; Murry A. Verner is expected to go away to try to learn something of what is in the wind. Mayor Hays will probably remain in Pittsburgh and depend upon Bigelow and Verner for information.

Bigelow Has an Idea.

Director Bigelow said yesterday that he thought the idea in passing a Greater Pittsburgh bill would be to take in enough territory to wipe out the Citizens party's power in Pittsburgh, for the director says he thinks the Citizens will win the next municipal election if the city is left within its present limits. "I think," said Bigelow, "the idea is to wipe out all the present leaders here and solidify the county behind Senator Knox." He admitted that he had no facts to base his opinion upon.

Representative L. B. Cook, whose bill was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, said he intended preparing another bill, which he would submit. It is considered likely that anybody purposing to draft a Greater Pittsburgh bill will consult with Gov. Pennypacker, too.

Representative John H. Henderson of Allegheny yesterday said it was his intention to ask the Republican county chairman to call a meeting of the Allegheny county delegation to prepare a petition asking the governor to make primary election legislation one of the subjects to be considered by the legislature at the special session. Mr. Henderson said he thought a uniform primary election bill would do away with party bolting, dissatisfaction with nominations and disturbed political conditions caused by corrupt primaries. He favors the enactment of a law placing the primaries of all parties under stringent regulations and having them held on the same day and conducted by the regular election officers.

Judges Did Not Meet.

The Allegheny county judges did not meet yesterday to appoint the board of tax assessment and revision. Judge Frazer has not been well and left the court house early, and until there can be a full attendance of judges the appointments will not be made. The judges are desirous of obeying the higher court's mandate by appointing the commissioners, and, being in constant communication with one another, will meet without formality whenever the opportunity presents itself. The appointments may be made today.

The district attorney's office and the bureau of police are at loggerheads again over John Fuge, charged with having tried to vote illegally in the Twelfth district of the Fourteenth ward. The police say that Fuge, when he was first arrested and before he jumped his bail, confessed that he and several others had gone out from the C. L. Magee Republican club in the Fourteenth ward to vote illegally, and that on Sunday he made a more detailed confession. Robert G. Robinson, the chief county detective, yesterday used Fuge as a witness to prove that he did not make the confession attributed to him by the police. In the original confession written by Fuge for Superintendent of Police Wallace, and by Wallace sent to the district attorney, Fuge does not mention any other man as having hired him to do repeating but one "Mike" O'Neil, the district attorney says.

However, what Fuge did or did not say when in the respective hands of the police and then of the county detectives, did not seem to interest the public much yesterday, it being the general opinion that it is time to probe the whole Fuge case to the bottom, no matter who may get hurt. The district attorney, the county detectives and the superintendent of police all admit they knew months ago that Fuge had named Mike O'Neil.

S. A. Dies, William Shore, Jr., S. H. Gilson, David Tobin and John Remley filed in court yesterday an affidavit for the use of the name Citizens party, in the Eleventh ward, in the February election.

The returning board finished the count of Pittsburgh yesterday, all except the First district of the Twenty-second ward, where the election board was called in to separate the party vote of several candidates. This means a recount of the ballots in the court room. The count had proceeded through the Third ward of Allegheny, when the board adjourned. No totals will be ready until the entire count is completed.

COCHRANE MAY BE CANDIDATE

Will Likely Be Chosen by Republicans to Succeed Francies in Legislature.

FEDERATION SCORES GRAFT

The executive board of the Allegheny Republican city committee met last night to consider prospective candidates for the vacancy created by the resignation of John Francies from the legislature. Mr. Francies was assemblyman from the Second district and quit to accept the office of postmaster of Allegheny on April 13 last. The necessity for a special election to chose a successor did not arise until Gov. Pennypacker issued a call for a special session.

Nothing special transpired at the meeting last night. For some reason no notices were sent out by Chairman John H. Henderson. The members were informed of the meeting by telephone calls yesterday morning, and, as it was feared action taken at such a meeting might not be considered legal, it was promptly adjourned.

So far only one man has been mentioned as a likely candidate. Councilman Robert K. Cochrane of the Sixth ward has been visited by a number of Republicans since last Saturday and urged to enter the field as a candidate. Mr. Cochrane ran in the Republican primaries for the nomination for county recorder and lost to John A. Fairman. Mr. Cochrane showed his spirit by immediately turning in for the entire Republican ticket and polling a large vote in the Sixth ward for Mr. Fairman. He carried his ward for the whole ticket by a large majority.

Mr. Cochrane Is Considering.

Mr. Cochrane was at the meeting last night as chairman of the Sixth ward. As the question regarding the regularity of the meeting arose just as soon as the caucus was called to order, nothing was said to Mr. Cochrane, and he has not yet been formally asked to allow his name to be used. It was decided to hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. When seen last night Mr. Cochrane was asked if he would be a candidate, and said:

"I am considering the matter. Had I been asked tonight to become a candidate I could have given no definite answer. Many of my friends have urged me to go into the contest, but I have not had sufficient time to think it over. Perhaps by Wednesday afternoon I shall be in a position to say yes or no."

Undoubtedly Mr. Cochrane will have the support of the entire Republican organization if he decides to become a candidate. The manner in which he has conducted himself in politics during the past two years has won him friends in both the First and Second legislative districts. When John Francies and John H. Henderson were chosen as candidates for the legislature two years ago Cochrane wanted to run, and for a time some of his friends declared he would bolt the party. If he contemplated such action he was encouraged by the Wyman machine. Mayor Wyman tried to persuade Cochrane and Frank Haller to desert the Republican party and become candidates on the Citizens ticket. Wyman was turned down hard, and Cochrane turned in for the ticket. He proved his party loyalty again after the last Republican primary, and although beaten in the contest, displayed his strength throughout the county. His friends are certain he will accept the offer to become the party candidate for the legislature.

Graft Investigators Indorsed.

The executive committee of the Allegheny Federation of Churches met last night with the committee of five of the citizens committee of 25 for the purpose of discussing municipal politics and civic affairs. It was thought something would be said concerning a mayoralty candidate, but this subject was not touched upon.

The two committees adopted a resolution indorsing the action of District Attorney Stewart and Attorneys John Marron and John C. Haymaker in prosecuting the graft investigation, and pledging the sympathy of the organization "in the efforts they are making to bring to justice those who have preyed upon the people of Allegheny city in being guilty of graft."

GETS EASE IN PRISON.

Haunted by Memory of His Crime, Aged Man Surrenders and Receives Long Term.

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 13.—(Special)—Albert Bielecki, aged 72, who shot and killed Constable Joan Dando at Shenandoah in 1868, while the latter was trying to arrest him on a petty charge, was today sentenced by Judge W. A. Marr to 18 years in the Eastern penitentiary.

Bielecki, after his crime, disappeared and nothing was heard of him until four months ago when, haunted by remorse, and, as he claimed, the spirit of the man he had murdered, surrendered himself at Springfield, Mass.

Wants to Remain Unknown.

READING, Nov. 13.—A well dressed refined looking man aged about 55, shot himself through the temple in the city park late today. He left a letter signed J. J. Lathrop in which he asks the coroner not to attempt to find his relatives, as the task would be useless. Nothing was found on his person to indicate his identity. He came here some weeks ago.

WEAVER PRAISES THE GOVERNOR

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Press Building.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.

Mayor Weaver, in a formal statement tonight, praises and commends Gov. Pennypacker for calling a special session of the legislature to enact specified reforms. The mayor said:

"Gov. Pennypacker's action is worthy of the highest praise. It is a prompt and statesmanlike recognition of the will of the people, expressed in unmistakable terms and by the constitutional method—the ballot.

"I protest against any doubt or suspicion being cast upon the sincerity and high purpose of the governor in convincing the assembly to enact needed reforms. His omission of ballot reform as a subject for legislation is probably to be regretted, but I am confident the governor will supply this omission if it is demonstrated that it ought to be included in his proclamation. I would not, however, have this understood as a criticism of his action, for what he has done is all praiseworthy and in accordance with the estimate I have always entertained of his innate fidelity to the constitution and the principles of Democratic institutions.

"He has not halted, quibbled or equivocated with his duty, but has performed it in a straightforward and wise manner. He has done his part towards carrying into law the will of the people. Now let the legislators do their part and let the acts that may be passed be the result of the best thought of all the friends of reform of whatever party, name or allegiance."

Berry Employes Castle.

State Treasurer-elect William H. Berry and Homer L. Castle were in town today. They called on Democratic City Chairman Charles P. Donnelly and ex-Judge James G. Gordon. Mr. Berry announced the appointment of Mr. Castle as his special counsel to investigate treasury conditions. Regarding the special session, Mr. Berry said:

"The proposition and the manner of its proposal is in harmony with the theory of deathbed repentance. The subjects proposed by Gov. Pennypacker form an indictment on every count. If the purpose is honest and the plan to be carried out, well and good, but if it is intended to cover frauds or conceal crime it will be resisted."

Mr. Castle said: "The outfit that passed these laws is not fit to repeal them."

Henry F. Walton, speaker of the house, tonight outlined his position. After paying tribute to the governor, Mr. Walton says: "I will stand by him shoulder to shoulder to accomplish the passage of the legislation he has specified."

Mr. Walton recites his support of all ballot reform legislation during the sessions of which he was a member. He says he voted for the so-called "ripper" bill because he thought the mayor had too much power, but as a majority of the people appear to differ with him he is willing to alter his position. Writs for special elections to fill vacancies in the legislature will issue, in accordance with laws governing the matter.

Martin Indorses Governor.

Insurance Commissioner David Martin today declared himself in favor of all the reforms suggested in the governor's proclamation, including the abolishment of the fee system in his office and that of the secretary of the commonwealth. However such legislation will not affect those now in office. In local questions Mr. Martin says he will support the mayor when he thinks he is right. He favors repeal of the "ripper." He hopes for harmony between regulars and reformers, but considers it doubtful of accomplishment. General ballot reform and a uniform primary election law, also, Mr. Martin thinks, should be included in the legislative reform program.

Internal Revenue Collector William McCoach, reform leader of the Thirteenth ward, today indorsed legislative reforms and lined up with Mayor Weaver on local matters. County Commissioner Hugh Black, Republican leader of the Thirty-sixth ward, has sworn in and it now looks as though the mayor would soon have the support of all of the ward leaders who formerly composed the Republican organization.

Ex-Auditor General E. B. Hardenbergh arrived this evening. It is his opinion that Senator Knox will assume the state leadership, a suggestion strongly indorsed by himself.

CHESTER D. POTTER.

PARKER BACKS M'CLELLAN.

Former Democratic Candidate Leads the Mayor's Array of Legal Talent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—At a meeting held tonight at the office of former Judge Alton B. Parker at which were present 12 attorneys, all of whom have been retained to represent Mayor McClellan tomorrow when the board of county canvassers will meet, it was decided to rely entirely on the existing election decisions and the law as it is recorded in the statutes.

Mr. Parker pointed out that there was only one question involved, and that was covered by the decision of the court of appeals which was written by him. He said that it was a dangerous practice to open the ballot boxes and in his opinion was not within the province of the law.

ILLINOIS MAN IS SURE HIS WIFE IS A HOSTAGE

Claims She Has Been Kidnapped to Compel Him to Keep Quiet About Land Frauds—Finds Some of Her Clothing.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Mark Lowrey, a wealthy man from Ottawa, Ill., came to Chicago today and asked the aid of the police in finding his wife, who, he believes, has been lured to Chicago to be held in bondage until he should promise not to give testimony that might convict a gang of land fraud men charged with swindling Illinois farmers out of $150,000.

Lowrey obtained a search warrant and some of Mrs. Lowrey's clothing was sought in a clothing commission man's place of business, but no trace of her or of the clothing was found.

Lowrey was wildly excited as he told the police his story. He said he was a traveling salesman, making $1,000 a month, and that his wife, Katie, is 28 years of age and a beautiful woman. He said all went well with his family until an insurance agent induced Lowrey's wife to introduce him to some of her friends. The agent interested these friends in Canadian lands, he said, and induced them to give notes aggregating $150,000. The notes were negotiated, according to Lowrey, and the agent and his confederates then fled.

"When I returned home," said Lowrey [illegible] made a thorough investigation and obtained enough evidence to convict the men. Two days ago I returned home again and found my wife had disappeared. It is my theory that these men kidnaped her as a club over my head so that I shall not prosecute and bring them to justice."

Lowrey refused to leave the case in the hands of the police and declared he would go to the federal authorities.

For Coughs and Colds

There is a remedy over sixty years old—Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Of course you have heard of it, probably have used it. Once in the family, it stays; the one household remedy for coughs and colds. Ask your own doctor about it. Do as he says.

"I always keep Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. It gives perfect relief whenever any of us have coughs or hard colds. I have used it for a great many years and so know all about it."—MRS. MARY URBEHAN, Varysburg, N. Y.

GREATER PITTSBURGH OPPOSITION BEGINS

Representative Woodward to Object If McKeesport Is Dragged In—City Council Moves.

Representative James F. Woodward of McKeesport, returned yesterday from the east and when interviewed made the following statement:

"I am still opposed to the Greater Pittsburgh scheme, and will vote against it if it is brought up at the special session. I have had no reason to change my mind on this matter since I voted against it, and the people of McKeesport can look to me to do everything in my power to prevent the passage of any legislation that will permit Pittsburgh to drag McKeesport into a union with it. The only thing that would cause me to change my vote would be a public expression from McKeesporters indicating that they are in favor of consolidation. I would like very much to have a vote taken in McKeesport to determine public sentiment."

Mr. Woodward said he was pleased with the action of Gov. Pennypacker in calling an extra session, and that he was in favor of all the other items in the call, particularly the reapportionment of the state into senatorial and representative districts.

At the meeting of the select branch of the McKeesport council last night, President Duncan presented a resolution authorizing the appointment of three councilmen to go to Harrisburg to fight the Greater Pittsburgh bill when it come up for consideration. The resolution was referred to the finance committee, which may appropriate $1,000 or as much less as may be needed to defray the expenses of the project.

Street Railway Would Build Through Marshall Township, This County.

A new street car line for Marshall township, Allegheny county, is foreshadowed by the announcement yesterday that an application will be made November 28 for a charter for the "Thornhill Street Railway Company." The application will be made in the names of Stanley C. Vickers, C. G. Gerber, Harry Etheridge, E. M. Balsinger and T. C. Hamilton. The following description of the route is given:

Beginning at the northerly boundary line of Marshall township, in the county of Allegheny, being also the dividing line between the counties of Allegheny and Butler, in the state Pennsylvania; thence southeastwardly in said township of Marshall, over and along the highway known as the Pittsburgh public road, passing the locality known as Thornhill postoffice, a distance of one mile; and thence returning over the same route, by single track or double track.

BALKY MULE AND CAR HURT THREE SOLDIERS

Ninth Infantry Company Stationed at the Arsenal Finds Peace More Terrible Than War.

After going through years of service in the United States regular army, Company B, Ninth infantry, stationed at the Allegheny arsenal, had three of its members badly hurt yesterday through a combination of a balky mule and a speeding street car. The mule was not hurt.

The victims of the accident are Sergt. J. F. Ross, badly hurt on the head and body; Private Luke Brooks, arm broken, nose cut and eye blackened, and Private George B. Campbell, scalp, nose and cheek deeply cut.

The men were detailed to take a wagon load of laundry from the arsenal and were driving out of the gate when the car was heard. An effort was made to turn the mule off the track, but the brute balked and the car hit the wagon with such force as to demolish it. All three men were thrown to the street.

Surgeon S. F. Macey sent Brooks and Campbell to the West Penn hospital. Ross is receiving attention at the barracks.

August Jaunett of 17 Westmoreland avenue, was thrown from his wagon in Liberty avenue, near Thirty-eighth street, yesterday afternoon by a car striking the vehicle. His injuries were on the head and body. He was sent to the West Penn hospital.

GIVING INSIDE FACTS.

Druggists Suit Against the Combination Discloses Some Interesting Matters.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Details of the inside methods of the drug trust were given to the jury in the United States district court by Attorney Henry J. Scott today, on behalf of C. A. Louder, druggist, who charges the trust with conspiracy to boycott him.

Mr. Louder's counsel presented documentary evidence in an effort to prove that the combine is conspiring to unnaturally raise the price of drugs and drive out of business independent dealers. It is composed of the National Retail association, the Proprietors' Association of America and the National Wholesalers' association.

FINDS HER PARENTS DEAD.

Child Hears Shots Which End Their Lives and Is First to Discover Terrible Crime.

SCRANTON, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Frank Jones, aged 35, killed his wife and himself with a revolver at their home in South Scranton soon after 4 o'clock this afternoon. They had two children, a boy and a girl. The latter found the bodies of her father and mother in the bedroom immediately after the shots were fired. They died almost instantly.

Jones and his wife had not lived happily for some years. They separated three or four times, but have been living together the last few months. Jealousy is supposed to be the cause of the tragedy.

HAMILTON'S A Sale of Exchanged Pianos

In the ordinary course of business we get many old pianos in exchange for new ones. During the past summer, however, the number of pianos taken in exchange has been exceptionally large, and the character of the instruments that have come to us are unusual because many of them are not over two or three years old. They have exchanged for the new Angelus Self-Playing Piano.

The former owners of the Kranich & Bach, Emerson and other such instruments realized that no matter how good these pianos might be they were practically valueless because no one in the home could play them. Therefore the logical step was to exchange them for the new Angelus Piano, thereby making it possible for everyone to play.

The following is but a partial list. It evidences the high character of the goods as well as the low prices to specially mark this sale.

We would not ordinarily undertake such a sale at this time of year, but the exchanged goods are crowding into rooms needed for new holiday stock. And this sale will relieve the situation.

Monthly payments may be arranged if desired.

THREE SCHEMES DIE IN COUNCILS

TRADE WITH JUNCTION ROAD

Common council repealed last night the ordinance for the extension of Hamilton avenue, thus releasing the city from an assessment of $75,000. Only two votes were cast against the repealer—by John Taylor and Robert Porter, the two Citizens party representatives from the Twenty-first ward.

The Republican members voted against and held up bills from Morris Knowles of the bureau of filtration for furniture and engineering supplies, aggregating $1,893.

The Republicans also prevented the reconsideration of a bill for the vacation of a 20-foot alley from Kincaid to Broad street, Nineteenth ward, which had been indefinitely postponed at the previous meeting, but which the Nineteenth ward members wanted called up again and passed to satisfy a few property-owners who would be benefited by the vacation. Enough votes to reconsider the bill were secured, but the Republican members then filed out of the council chamber and William Brand demanded a roll call, which showed four members less than a quorum present. This brought the meeting to a sudden adjournment.

Trade With Junction Road.

A dozen or more ordinances were introduced to carry into effect the bargain made by Director Bigelow with the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pittsburgh Junction railroads for the relocation of the Pittsburgh Junction tracks and Boundary street in Junction hollow, Schenley park. These ordinances were accompanied by an agreement and a plan signed by the chief engineer of the railroad and Director Bigelow.

One of the agreements is that the railroad is to reconstruct the bridge over Sylvan avenue extension by rasing it 19 feet, and the railroad indemnifies the city from any damages that may arise by the vacation, regrading or relocation of any of the streets, and pays the cost of grading and repaving Greenfield avenue from Second to Sylvan avenue. All work must be completed in two years.

Water street is to be opened from Ross to Try street, at a width of 40 feet, according to an ordinance introduced last night. A new ordinance was presented for the opening and widening of Second avenue, to a width of 60 feet, from Ross to the first angle east of the South Tenth street bridge; also for the opening of Second avenue from Allegheny street to the city line, in the Twenty-third ward.

An ordinance was presented for the conversion into a public park of a two-acre plot of ground, bounded by Jones avenue, Grant boulevard and Tyrone street in the Twelfth ward, to be known as Weils' park.

A resolution was presented for the appropriation of $8,500, in 1906, for the repaving of Van Braam street, Sixth ward, from Fifth avenue to Bluff street; also a resolution for the appropriation of $7,000 for a retaining wall on the south side of South Eighteenth street from the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad to a point 280 feet west eastwardly.

Annexation and Artesian Wells Dead.

Select council yesterday afternoon unanimously killed the Aspinwall annexation and artesian well ordinances. Thomas O'Brien moved that the Aspinwall annexation bill be indefinitely postponed, and this was carried without debate. Dr. E. R. Walters made the same motion on the artesian well ordinance and it was adopted without discussion.

The ordinance for the vacation of Melwood street, from Center avenue to the Luna park property line, which is intended for the benefit of the Luna park management, was held up until the next meeting for investigation.

After a portion of the bond fund voted in 1895 for a fire boat has been used for other purposes, Controller Larkin has decided that the remainder of the fund, amounting to about $55,000, shall remain intact. An ordinance, which increased the appropriation for the new engine house in the Eighteenth ward from $15,620 to $23,000, and which appropriated the increase from the fire boat fund, was yesterday amended by providing that the extra appropriation of $8,000 shall come from the regular fund of the bureau of fire.

New South Side Grades.

The River and Railroad Terminal Company, which is completing a large warehouse on the South Side, secured the final passage of ordinances changing the grades of streets surrounding the warehouses.

A bill was introduced in select council authorizing the purchase of a lot for an engine house in the Lincoln avenue district of the Twenty-first ward. The ordinance is very vague. It does not specify the amount of money to be paid for the lot, from which fund the money is to be appropriated, nor does it give the location or description of the lot. It merely states that a lot is to be purchased in the Twenty-first ward east of Spencer street.

ADOPTS INDIAN GIRL FOR DAUGHTER'S PLACE

Pretty Little Maid from Far Off Land Comes to Fill Mt. Washington Home.

After traveling thousands of miles for the purpose of attempting to fill the place vacated by the death of a little daughter in a Mt. Washington household, a pretty little girl from far off India stepped down the gang-plank of the steamer Canopic, in Boston, yesterday afternoon en route to the home of Charles E. Myles, 76 Natchez street, Mt. Washington.

The little Indian maid is a mute, as is Mr. Myles, and comes to him to assuage his sorrow, in a measure, as his adopted daughter, to take the place of his little daughter who died some time ago.

Shortly after the death of his daughter, Mr. Myles wrote to Miss Sprague, treasurer of the Pentecostal Missionary society in India, located in the Malkapur district, and told her that if she would send a little girl mute to him from India that he would be responsible for her education. Miss Sprague applied to the mission orphanage in Buldana Berar, in the central province of India, and secured the girl from the Rev. W. D. Wood who is at the head of that station. She was brought to this country by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burgess, returning missionaries.

Mr. and Mrs. David Myles, father and mother of the adopter of the Indian girl, are well known in Pittsburgh and vicinity for their missionary work in connection with gospel wagons. Charles Myles, the only mute in the family, was married several years ago to a young woman mute and the couple have recently been making their home with Mr. Myles' parents.

Lutheran Sunday School Workers.

Members of the Lutheran Sunday School association of Allegheny county met last evening at the Bethel Lutheran church, Franklin and Manhattan streets, Allegheny. The Rev. J. M. The following officers were elected: President, Charles Lehman, Pittsburgh; vice president, John Seifert, Allegheny; secretary, Miss Beasie Brant, Allegheny, and treasurer, E. J. Leaveus, Allegheny.

HONORED SON OF WESLEY IS STRICKEN BY DEATH

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Bishop Stephen Mason Merrill, of the Methodist Episcopal church, died suddenly from paralysis of the heart late Sunday night in the home of friends in Keyport, N. J. He was born in Mount Pleasant, Jefferson county, Ohio, September 16, 1825, and is survived by a widow and two sons. He lived at 57 Washington street, Chicago.

Although on the retired list, Bishop Merrill had maintained an active interest in the sessions of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal church. On last Saturday he presided over a regular meeting of that body in Jane's Methodist Episcopal church, Brooklyn, at which time he was in the best of health. Tidings of his death today were received by friends in this city with great surprise. He had been a bishop for 33 years.

Bishop Merrill entered the Ohio conference of the Methodist church in 1844 as a traveling preacher. Four years later he became editor of the Western Christian Advocate. That same year he was given the degree of doctor of divinity by the Ohio Wesleyan university. In 1872 he was consecrated bishop, and in 1886 the Northwestern university conferred upon him the degree of doctor of laws.

Bishop Merrill's mother was a direct descendant of John Wesley.

Mr. Irvin had enjoyed unusually good health until last Saturday, and had voted at the election held Tuesday. At that time he remarked to the election officers that he was casting his last ballot. On last Friday he visited the downtown portion of the city and upon his return home spoke of having enjoyed the trip. He was taken ill Saturday with pneumonia and became rapidly worse, his death occurring yesterday morning at 9:35 o'clock. Mr. Irvin was born July 24, 1821, in the First ward of this city, in a house on Diamond street. He was the only child of William and Jeanette Irvin, and after attending school for a time engaged in the James Irvin.

Mr. Irvin was a member of the Vigilant Volunteer Fire Company, served as its president for a number of years, and was also a member of the Duquesne Grays. Since his early youth Mr. Irvin was a member of the Second United Presbyterian church and was a regular attendant in his old age. He was married 56 years ago to Miss Martha Caskey, who died seven years ago. Two children survive, Mrs. H. S. Cummings of Washington, D. C., and Miss Madge G. Irvin, at home. Funeral services will be held from his late residence tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. S. W. McKelvey and the Rev. Dr. W. L. McEwan. The interment will be in the Allegheny cemetery.

David McCartney.

David McCartney, aged 84, is dead at the home of his son, Robert A. McCartney, in Laurel avenue, Ben Avon. Mr. McCartney was born in County Armagh, Ireland. When he was 24 years of age he married Anne Hutchison and came to this country on a wedding trip. He got as far as Allegheny and never returned to his native country. He was a carpenter and built many of the old rolling mills, glass houses and wooden bridges in this county. When the civil war broke out he was unable to enlist because of an injury which had crippled the trigger finger of his right hand, but he built the powder houses of the several forts that were erected in the Second ward, Allegheny, and this vicinity when Morgan's men were expected. He lived in Allegheny until 10 years ago, when he entered the Home for Aged Couples in Wilkinsburg. He was never confined to his bed because of illness during his long life until a few weeks ago, when he collapsed on account of old age. He was a United Presbyterian and is survived by the following sons: Robert A. McCartney, Ben Avon; John of the United States coaling station, Rhode Island; William B. and James of Cleveland. He is also survived by three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Nicholas Lacher.

Nicholas Lacher, an old resident of Allegheny, died last evening at the family residence, 240 Madison avenue. He was born in Alsace, Germany, in 1827, and came to Allegheny in 1845. Two years later he was married to Miss Elizabeth Thomas, who died seven years ago. Mr Lacher was one of the organizers of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Allegheny, and was a charter member of St. Pius society of the church. For 58 years he was employed by Wolf, Lang & Co. of Pittsburgh. The following children survive: Miss Elizabeth Lacher, George, Edward, Gustave, William N. and Charles C. of Allegheny. Eleven grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive. The funeral will be held Friday morning from St. Mary's church, where solemn requiem high mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock.

William Ramsey.

William Ramsey, for many years a well-known newspaper man in Pittsburgh, died Sunday night in the National Soldiers home at Dayton, O. Mr. Ramsey's connection with Pittsburgh newspapers began in 1856, when he was employed on the Union, a paper that ceased publication soon after that date. During the rebellion he served in the Second West Virginia cavalry and was once wounded. After the war he resumed his newspaper work, was connected with several of the dailies and for a time was publisher of the Sunday Globe. Subsequently he held a position in Highland park and a year ago was seriously injured by falling down a flight of steps. He entered the Soldiers' home after that, remaining until his death. He is survived by one daughter. Mr. Ramsey was familiarly known as "Judge" Ramsey.

Mrs. Martha Conley.

Mrs. Martha Conley, aged 68, widow of Jackson Conley, died Saturday night at her home at Clairton. She was born in Washington county, near Finleyville, and her family was among the earliest settlers of the county. Her grandfather, the Rev. Dr. Halston, was one of the early pastors of the Mingo Presbyterian church. Mrs. Conley was a member of that church until three years ago, when she moved to Clairton, where she joined the Clairton Presbyterian church. She leaves one sister, Mrs. D. B. Conley of Victor, Ia.; one son, William F. Conley, and one daughter, Miss Elizabeth Conley, at home.

Jacob F. Lawell.

Jacob F. Lawell, aged 57, one of the best-known business men of Butler, is dead after a long illness. His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Wisener Lawell, died during the typhoid fever epidemic. LETTER RECITES AWFUL DETAILS

Pittsburgh Jews Hear Definitely of Fate Which Has Overtaken Their Relatives.

THE RELIEF FUND IS GROWING

With the arrival of a batch of letters from the stricken sections of Russia in the city yesterday, describing in harrowing detail the barbarous cruelty of the Russian mobs, interest in the work of the relief committee composed of leading Hebrews of Pittsburgh and Allegheny was greatly augmented, and the fund was raised to nearly $12,000.

Several letters were received by members of Rabbi M. S. Sivitz' congregation, and one appears to be more pathetic than the other. In a settlement of Odessa, from which hundreds of local Hebrews migrated not many years ago, scores of aged Hebrews were killed. Many of the victims were relatives or friends of Pittsburgh citizens. The letter was received by Jacob Abrahams, 312 Townsend street, and was written by his cousin. The letter is in Yiddish and is hard to decipher, owing to the scrawly manner in which it was written. But sufficient facts could be gleaned to show that men, women and children were maimed and wounded by a mob. The rabbi in that town was cautioned by the Mousiks, a band of Russians, against holding services on holidays. His failure to carry out the order resulted in the burning of the synagogue and the destroying of the scrolls. When the place of worshiping was wrecked the worshipers were attacked and killed or wounded.

"For God's sake send us relief. I and the family are starving," was the concluding appeal.

Another message was received from Jacob Schiff, the New York banker, who is treasurer of the general relief committee in the metropolis. It reads:

Advices from the Russian interior are to the effect that thousands are starving. Those who were fortunate to survive the fury of the mob have been deprived of every means of sustenance. So you will recognize the importance of expediency in the matter of collecting and forwarding the fund.

Copies of the telegram have been made and the solicitors, bearing credentials, are displaying them to the Hebrews of the city. The watchword among the committee is: "It is time to act, not to talk." Attorney M. L. Ayner, who is secretary of the relief committee, stated last night that reports from different sources where monetary assistance is being raised are very encouraging. Many Christians are donating liberally. Pittsburgh Hebrews are aroused to their duty. The modest shopkeeper or poor toiler and the millionaire have united in the work.

Announcement was made last night that all checks should be made out to Dr. M. Spiro or A. M. Hanauer, treasurer, and that they should be sent to Mr. Ayner, 421 Frick building.

The Hebrew citizens of Homestead held a meeting yesterday and formed an organization to assist in the relief of their people in Russia, sending $150 to Jacob Schiff of New York. The permanent organization formed consists of Joseph Lusdusky, president; Morris Grinberg, treasurer; B. Heaps, secretary; Samuel Moranz, M. D. Wise and B. Glick, trustees.

The Hebrew residents of McKees Rocks have started a subscription and several hundred dollars will be sent to Russia.

The Hebrews of the Penn avenue district, from Twelfth street to Twenty-eighth, will hold a mass meeting tomorrow night at Arnfeld's hall, Penn avenue and Eleventh street, in aid of the persecuted Jews in Russia. Jacob Kiein, a banker of Penn avenue, will preside, and several rabbis have promised to attend and address the meeting.

LONG SPEECHES PROVE TO BE THE FIRST DAY'S FEATURE

GOMPERS WANTS RE-ELECTION

The 25th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened in old City Hall yesterday with reports read by the chief executive officers, that were longer than any United States president's inaugural address. President Samuel Gompers spent three hours and 15 minutes reading his speech. It covered over 300 pages of typewritten manuscript, and in words contained more than the combined gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. It touched every phase of the labor question from the Chinese exclusion law to the latest efforts for the prevention of tuberculosis. Notwithstanding its great length the address was given close attention by the delegates and the speaker was frequently interrupted by applause.

Secretary Frank Morrison and Treasurer John Lennon summarized their reports and took little of the convention's time. Between the lines it was plainly evident that President Gompers is a candidate for re-election. No candidates have appeared against him.

The delegates formed in line at the Colonial hotel shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning and marched in a body to the convention hall. The delegates seated themselves at long tables while the national officers mounted the platform. President Gompers called J. K. Robinson of the Hotel and Restaurant International Alliance and the Bartenders' International League, to the platform. Mr. Robinson in turn called Joseph Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, who led the band. C. C. Douglass, president of the Iron City Trades council and chairman of the local entertainment committee, welcomed the delegates to Pittsburgh and Attorney John Drew spoke in behalf of Mayor Hays. The Keys to the city were accepted by President Gompers in a brief speech. The credentials committee had worked industriously and there was little time lost in attending to details.

After the noon intermission President Gompers began his address and spoke throughout the afternoon. He said in part:

Labor's Tribute to Pittsburgh.

In this great historic city, where, in 1881, was laid the groundwork of our great federation, fellow delegates and friends, representatives of the organized workers of America, I bid you welcome. Turning back our mental gaze to those years of work, and pain, and travail, the hardships endured, the sacrifices made, and the burdens borne, the advantages secured, the proud position attained, despite the lukewarmness of friends and the antagonism of foes, must cause us the deepest gratification and the keenest pride.

Here was made the effort to bring into some general, comprehensive form of organization or federation the fragmentary branches of what then constituted the isolated and divergent factions of the labor movement of America. All of those then assembled were not friends or advocates of federation. Indeed, some there were who prayed, hoped, and worked for its failure. No tongue can tell, no pen portray, the hardships borne and the sacrifices made by the few men who devoted their energies and abilities to uphold, maintain, and work for its success. Lest we forget, I may be pardoned if I mention the names of William H. Foster, Robert Howard, Samuel Leffingwell, Lyman A. Brant, and a few others, to whom the meed of appreciation compels me to pay the meed of honor and praise due them for securing for that effort the veriest recognition and type of a federated trade union movement.

The mere statement that there were 114 delegates at the Pittsburgh convention when our federation was formed, and that there were but 17 delegates at the second convention at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1882, will convey to all the conditions of the labor movement which then obtained. But be it said that at least those 17 men there assembled were true trade unionists and friends of federation, and unhampered they proceeded to their task.

It is not my purpose here to become reminiscent of historic events in the labor movement of that day. The fact of our meeting in great industrial Pittsburgh impelled me to recall what I have, for we are now in the home of our friends and our fellow trade unionists. Their hearts now beat in unison, their hopes and aspirations are one, with the great movement of the workers of our entire continent, upon the broad platform and under the benign banner of the American Federation of Labor, our federation whose watchword is "Onward and Upward," whose hope and work are for humanity, whose incentive is labor omnia vincit.

To the American Federation of Labor is conceded the hegemony of the American labor movement. We must prove true to our trust, true to the confidence, the hope, and the good will reposed in us.

With pride and love for our own land, we may yet assume for ourselves the declaration that the world is our country; to do good, our religion.

Growth of the Federation.

At the end of this fiscal year, September 30, 1905, there were affiliated to the American Federation of Labor:

International unions	118
State federations	33
Central labor unions	599
Local trade and federal labor unions	1,046
Total	1,796

My last report stated that "we shall no doubt be confronted with the keenest opposition in the year future." This prediction has been fully verified. Despite the more general understanding that the trade union organization of the working people is essentially necessary to them and is of great advantage to all our people in the great work for the betterment of their material and their social condition, yet we can not but deplore the fact that ignorant, vicious, and bitter antagonism has been leveled against our Humanizing movement by a number of so-called employers' associations and citizens' alliances. These men, for their own immediate and temporary greed of gain, associate themselves in organization for the purpose of depriving workmen of that right and benefit.

We should all devote ourselves more thoroughly than ever before to organizing the yet unorganized workers, and endeavor to bring them within the beneficent fold of union labor and organized effort.

We should aim to bring the unaffiliated organizations within the sphere of influence of our federation, the best general organization of federated effort that has ever existed on our continent; our federation which, instituted in this city in 1881, has continued its uninterrupted path, progress, advancement, and success to this day; our federation, which has not only helped to organize so large a number of our fellow workers into unions, which has not only secured economic and material improvement in their condition, but has obtained legislative and administrative action, national, state and municipal; our federation, which has sown the seed of utility, fraternity, and solidarity, by and through which the workers have a better sense of their duty to help them hear each other's burdens; to realize that in the achievements of their brothers' good they themselves are largely interested and advanced for their own good. We are proud, too, of the fact of having so nurtured and cultivated the general public mind that it has a better and higher conception of the rights and interests of the toilers.

The movement of labor as expressed and typified by our trade unions and by the American Federation of Labor, is constructive, not destructive, in character and achievement. It aims and works to build up character and manhood, and instills a higher conception of the duty of man to man.

State and Central Bodies.

In their respective localities our local central labor unions, state and federations are accomplishing a vast amount of good in the interests of labor and the people generally. These local central bodies are, to their respective local jurisdictions, what our American Federation of Labor is to the United States, the parliaments of the wage-earners, where the needs of the hour and the work and hopes of the morrow are recounted and formulated; where the best methods are devised for making the burdens of the toilers lighter, their homes and lives better, and for the uplift of the common weal. And this is equally true of our state federations.

The local trade unions and federal labor unions directly affiliated have been given every attention and assistance. As is known, they come directly under the administration of our office, and, so far as their disputes are concerned, they require the immediate attention of your president. It is true that we have not expended the large sum from our defense fund for strikes and lockouts, but this is no indication of the number of disputes and contentions which have arisen, and which were approved and indorsed, thus entitling the members to benefits from the defense fund, but which have been averted and adjusted without the necessity of strike, and yet the right and interests of the men fully safeguarded.

It is a fact worthy of statement and repetition that the establishment of the defense fund and its availability to be concentrated at any given point to sustain our men in the defense and promotion of their rights and interests has had a wholesome influence to secure them without the necessity of resort to a strike.

Employers have learned to hesitate to provoke a strike, conscious of the fact that their workmen are organized and have the resources to maintain themselves, or to be maintained by the federation's defense fund. This fact in itself should be a valuable lesson to all our unions, local, national and international.

The condition of the labor movement of the dominion of Canada is constantly growing and becoming of a more satisfactory character, not only to our movement in the United States, but to the workers of the Dominion themselves.

Porto Rican Labor Situation.

Some improvement has come to a number of workmen in Porto Rico. Particularly is this true of a number of those working on the sugar plantations. This is due to a strike inaugurated resulting in an increase in wages of more than 15 per cent. That a forward movement has been made may, however, be viewed with satisfaction.

On the continent of America our labor movement is expanding and extending to all its beneficent influences. We have not only our international trade unions, with their nearly 27,000 local trade unions, but we also have our state, dominion, insular, and territorial federations, our 501 central labor unions, trades assemblies, and local federations. Our limits are no longer from Maine to California, from the lakes to the gulf, but we include the whole of the United States, Canada, Hawaii, Cuba, Porto Rico, Mexico, the Philippines, and British Columbia.

Recently, one of the great magnates of high finance in our country predicted that in a few years from now we shall witness a financial and industrial panic unparalleled in the history of the United States. This forecast was unquestionably predicted upon the power which finance formerly wielded in industrial affairs, and based upon the policy of the former omnipotent power of financiers, and greedy, short-sighted, antagonistic employers, and entirely ignored the working men, the wealth-producers, in their organized capacity, as a new and potent factor.

If the hosts of organized labor persistently pursue the policy of resistance to wage cutting; if we shall continue to press onward our movement to become continually large sharers in the product of our labor; if we but prove true to ourselves and to each other, we shall continually gain the confidence, the respect, and co-operation of the fairer-minded and more intelligent employers, confound the old conceptions of political economy, establish a new philosophy of life, labor, industry, and humanity, put to rout the seers of calamity, and prove their predictions to be false prophesies.

Labor, Industry, Finance.

The time is happily passing when purely speculative finance can hold the dominating power to endow or undo industry. With more compact organization of labor, with more enlightened employers, finance is taking and will take its proper place and perform its proper functions, that of serving the purpose of real industry and trade, of being a real measure of value, a medium of exchange. Thus the relative position of importance is being transposed, and industry and commerce are coming to control and regulate finance.

The centuries of tyranny and debasement endured in czar-ridden Russia are making way for a better time. It is indeed a commentary which all trade union opponents may take to themselves that when all else failed to accomplish any tangible result for the people's rights, the much-abused, little-understood strike—the strike of the Russian workmen—achieved in short order, not only large material improvements in their condition, but political reform and regeneration.

Eight-Hour Workday.

There is no field of action upon which if we concentrate our greatest activity there will result so great advantages to all with the least possible injury to any, as the movement to reduce the hours of daily labor, the establishment of a normal workday of eight hours.

From the inception of our federation we have voiced the demand of labor for a shorter work-day. In 1884 we called upon and urged all labor to endeavor to establish the eight-hour workday, if possible, by agreement with the employers. We have been helpful to many crafts in establishing the eight-hour day; the hours of toil for all have been reduced.

With the wonderful improvement in machinery and the application of steam and electric power, our workers are producing wealth surpassing even the imagination, much less the expectation, of a decade or two ago.

I recommend that the general introduction of the eight-hour workday be made the chief subject for general discussion in our unions, central bodies, national and international conventions; that employers be approached with a view of their agreement thereto, and should that fail, that preparation in the meantime and thereafter be made to enforce the eight-hour day by the demand of the workers.

The Woman's International Union Labor league was, I regret to say, less active during the past year than heretofore. This, no doubt, was due to internal dissensions, by which the work has been neutralized. I have endeavored to adjust differences, but have only partially succeeded.

Woman Workers Organized and Organizing.

You will be much gratified to know that during the past year there was formed an international league for the organization of women into trade unions, and that its work has been attended with considerable success. It has been not only my duty, but a pleasure, to aid its officers and members in the furtherance of that work. True, many of its officers are not wage-earners, but are women and men who, anxious to help their sisters of labor, realize that that assistance can best be rendered by organization, where they can be in the better position to help themselves.

The Western Federation of Miners has not alone been ungrateful to the trade unions and the American Federation of Labor, but its officers have taken the position of bitter hostility toward us. From the then meagre funds the Boston convention, at its session of October 6th, appropriated $1,000, and later, by authority of the executive council, I drafted and issued an appeal to all the trade unions, trade unionists and friends, throughout the country, for financial assistance to be transmitted directly to Secretary Moyer.

Civil rights and constitutional guarantees were trampled under foot by the state authorities of Colorado. We felt a realizing sense that it was our duty to render every moral and financial assistance within our power, not only that the wrong, injury, and injustice complained of might be righted, but that still further action should be taken to prevent a recurrence of such infamous tyranny and invasion of the lawful and human rights of Colorado's people as was experienced by and meted out to members of the Western Federation of Miners.

In conclusion President Gompers dwelt at length upon what he deems is the necessity for maintaining the barriers against Chinese immigration, the continuance of legislation for an eight-hour working day, and the employment of American labor upon the Panama canal.

Figures of the Secretary.

The summarized report of Secretary Morrison follows:

I have the honor to submit report to you of the receipts and expenditures of the past 15 months, beginning October 1, 1904, and ending September 30, 1905.

It is with pardonable pride that I report at the close of this fiscal year, $114,265 46 in the treasury, the high-water mark in the history of the federation. The total receipts from all sources are $207,417 62, divided as follows: Per capita tax, $113,578 32; supplies, $10,884 33; American Federationist, $25,728 57; assessment, $40,285 02; defense fund, $16,966 63, and premium on bonds, $466 75. The expenses are $196,170 10, as follows: From general fund, $180,077 32; American Federationist, $24,929 88; assessment, $37,689 05; defense fund, $5,197 18; premiums on bonds, $276 67; leaving a balance of receipts over expenses of $11,247 52. The receipts for the American Federationist exceeded expenses to the amount of $790 71. Receipts from defense fund are $16,966 63; expenses, $3,197 18; surplus for defense fund, $13,769 45.

The following is a summary of the receipts and expenses for 12 months, ending September 30, 1905:

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand October 1, 1904		$103,017 94
Per capita tax	$113,578 32

EXPENSES.

General	$180,077 32

In general fund	$ 19,343 06
In defense fund	94,916 40

Reports from the secretaries of 89 of our 118 international organizations furnish us with the information that there has been issued during the past year 2,106 charters; 2,389 charters surrendered—1,933 of the charters surrendered were locals of international unions and 426 affiliated direct with the American Federation of Labor. Of the latter number 226 were suspended for nonpayment of per capita tax; 78 were ordered to join newly formed international organizations, 155 disbanded and one charter revoked.

Full and complete reports have been received from 99 international organizations and from a small number of local unions, which show that there were 1,157 strikes, in which there were 107,268 involved. Of that number 63,536 were benefited and 43,029 not benefited. The total cost of strikes reported on was $2,517,291 26.

Defense Fund.

While there were many threatened strikes of the membership of our local unions, there has been expended but $2,947 18 from the defense fund during the fiscal year. The fact that we had a substantial fund and in a position to take care of the members enabled our organizers to work to better advantage in bringing about conferences and adjustments. Many threatened strikes were averted that would have been costly and drawn largely upon the funds.

The outlook for the coming year is good. The trade unionists are forcing improved conditions upon the organized and unorganized workers, and are better qualified and equipped today than ever before to secure favorable consideration for their demands, and the adoption of more equitable laws.

I desire in conclusion to extend my appreciation, through the delegates present, to the secretaries and officers of affiliated unions and organizers, for their uniform courtesy and promptness in responding to communications, and the splendid assistance they have rendered, thus enabling me to more easily fulfill the duties of secretary. I am exceptionally grateful to my colleagues of the executive council for their counsel and advice.

Treasurer's Report.

Treasurer Lennon's report follows:

In submitting this my fifteenth annual report as treasurer of the federation, I desire to take advantage of this opportunity to express my congratulations to the various trade unions of the country upon the success of the past year. I am well aware of the fact that many of the newspapers of the country, and, unfortunately, a good many of our own members, assert that the trade union movement has been in a great measure a failure during the recent past. To me it appears as though only the surface of the trade union movement is observed by the people who make statements of this character. They have no conception of the increased discipline that has taken place among at least all of the older trade unions; they can not and do not realize the ever increasing solidarity of the whole movement. A few years ago it would have been impossible for the printers to have made the successful campaign for the enforcement of the eight-hour day that they have made this year, and these points of vantage gained by the trade union are more than offset to any defeats they may have encountered.

The fact that we have lost some members is nothing unusual, nor is it anything to give one alarm. The real soldiers of the trade union movement are still fighting under its banners, just as undismayed and as fearless as they have ever been. I herewith submit a statement of the income and expenses for the past year, and most respectfully thank, not only the officers of the federation, but all its members, for their uniform kindness and consideration, and trust that my work as treasurer may have been at least reasonably satisfactory to the membership at large.

Balance in hands of treasurer	$112,265 46
Balance in hands of secretary	2,000 00

During the 15 years I have been treasurer the amount handled has been $1,470,195 88.

Treasurer John B. Lennon in his annual report showed the income for the closing year from all sources to be $308,435 56; the total expenses, $196,170 10, with a balance on hand of $112,265 4. To this amount he added $2,000, in the hands of the secretary, leaving a gross balance on hand of $114,265 46.

Last night several of the federation committees held sessions in the Colonial hotel with a view to shaping up their reports, which will be presented today. Today's business will be chiefly hearing and passing upon committee reports and acting upon such business as may come before the convention. No new business will be introduced today.

"ADREA" A TRAGEDY OF INTENSE KIND

Mrs. Leslie Carter Wins Personal Triumph—Weber Stock Company a Success.

DRAMA, BURLESQUE, COMEDY

A somewhat singular condition exists theatrically in Pittsburgh this week. At each of the theaters entertainment of an excellent quality in its own way is presented. At both the high-priced theaters the entertainment, though of diverse kind, ranks high, tragedy with Mrs. Leslie Carter and burlesque of the Joe Weber kind ought to meet the tastes of a large class of opposite amusement-seekers. Broad comedy is uproariously represented at the Alvin. Vaudeville has several big star acts. Musical comedy of the brightest kind is in the East End, and in the burlesque and spectacle way there is enough excellence to balance up. Truly, Pittsburgh is growing of more importance in the booking counsels.

Belasco—Mrs. Carter as "Adrea."

Again the wizard hand of David Belasco.

To the reviewer of the Belasco-made play this quality of effectiveness is inescapable, no matter what one's ultimate judgment may be as to either star or play. A large audience at the Belasco theater last evening came under its spell, not continuously perhaps, as on a more recent occasion, but certainly so in the tragic moments of a play that lacks nearly all the elements of immediate human appeal that lie in "The Girl of the Golden West." In "Adrea," a tragedy of an early period and of wholly fictitious locale and theme, Mr. Belasco presents Mrs. Leslie Carter, his favorite star and an actress whose abilities are unquestioned and whose limitations are equally a matter of record. "Adrea" is the joint work of Mr. Belasco and John Luther Long, who also collaborated in the production of "The Darling of the Gods." The play is a tragedy of distinctly Sardouesque type, and in dramat'c treatment bears all the opulent evidence of Mr. Belasco's peculiar workmanship. Did my duty regard only a repertorial review or a study of archaeological interests a column might be written of the production. It is set in an uncertain period and at an uncertain place, but enough is intimated to excuse the prodigality of scenic story. If there be anachronisms in the series of massive stage pictures, who shall say the authors may, for Rome, Byzantine and Greek civilization, or lack of civilization, are drawn upon to furnish this tragedy of "Adrea" with historical and archaeological background. There are five massive scenes and each of them is reflective always of Mr. Belasco's skill. In detail, in properties, in appeal to the eye, and as an aid in focusing the thought upon the theme that flows through these pictures, the stage under Mr. Belasco's magic hand is an accessory so strong, so convincing and impressive as to command attention. Pictorially "Adrea" is wonderful, far too wonderful perhaps should its scenic magnificence always clog and arrest the movement of the drama as it did last night, when half hour waits lay like desert spots between the acts. I am requested to say that these waits shall not occur again, and when the shallowness of the Belasco stage is considered one must find some excuse for the tedious interims.

But these are things that lie within the representational province. As a drama for Mrs. Leslie Carter, and the work of that marvelous woman in the chief role, there is a more difficult task of praise or blame. "Adrea" is "heavy" tragedy only in the sense of its remote setting. In theme it is simple enough and quite distasteful enough in the last analysis of its story. Adrea, the blind daughter of the king, is loved in Arcady by one of her father's soldiers. That lover, with the lust of kinship in his veins, comes to the court of Adrea, hears of the possible crowning of a wanton sister of the blind princess and transfers his allegiance to the heir to the throne, hoping thus to be made king. There is a law by which Adrea cannot succeed to the throne, though the eldest and the choice of the people, because of her blindness. Not only does her lover woo the sister, but passively submits and is party to a scheme on the part of that jealous woman, by which the blind princess is given in lustful marriage to the court fool, a hideous monster.

The next day Adrea suspects some treachery and in a passion of anguish prays to the gods to restore her sight just as the fool is about to again lead her away. A bolt of lightning strikes a statue of her father, hurls the fool at her feet and restores her sight. This is all in the first act. The revenge of the woman through the power she secures as queen is the theme of two acts, for by regaining her sight she is elevated to the throne. The last act is a quiet eddy after a tempestuous dramatic storm, in which the avenged queen and woman restores her throne to the child of her former lover by the wanton sister, and then looks again upon the naked sun and loses her sight. This brief resume is necessary to understand the thread of dramatic interest. A glance will convince one that in human appeal the play must depend almost wholly upon the effectiveness of tragedy power on the part of Mrs. Carter and her chief supporters. The story is of barbarian passion. Love, hate and revenge, primal human emotions, are dealt with, but nowhere does the beholder come close enough to the inner life of the characters to be moved by them, apart from the interest that the actress and the actor may be able to create. Judged on this basis "Adrea" has moments of intense and thrilling interest. Mrs. Carter was not in good form last night, having to struggle against a fearful cold, but in the moment when stricken with shame and disgust she staggers from the bestial embrace of the court fool and calls down the power of the gods in her defense, or in the third act when she struggles between the awakening pity in her heart for her debased lover, and hate and thirst for revenge upon him, Mrs. Carter is superb, and the audience last night sat in tense silence, enraptured with the sheer artistry of the woman who has risen by force of arduous training to do tragic work of such convincing kind.

It is this sense of Mrs. Carter's power that gives "Adrea" its chief appeal. I would be unfair to the authorship of some of the beautiful dialogue of the play if I failed to praise it. There are long sentences of poetic beauty. The woman of Arcady percolates some of the passages and lifts them to the dignity of classic verse. But even these and the splendid, slow-moving scenery do not make "Adrea" a play of instant appeal. It is Mrs. Carter's voice, with its staccato repetitions, Mrs. Carter's tragic and queenly mien, Mrs. Carter's unplastic but dynamic personality that rescues this massive series of pictures and this ugly story of a woman's shame from the hiatus of barbarism and gives it a place on our modern stage. These and the wizardry of David Belasco.

In support Mrs. Carter is only partially fortunate. Mr. Millward does a strong piece of work as Kaeso, the recreant lover, and Mr. Stevenson is more acceptable as Arkissus than as Kaeso, in which he was first cast. Otherwise, the company, which is a very large one, does adequate but nowhere distinguished work, unless one except the small but dramatic bit by Willard Sterling as Thryssos, the keeper of the wild horses.

CHARLES M. BREGG.

Nixon—Joe Weber's All-Star Company.

In the matter of burlesque Pittsburgh last night learned to accept Joe Weber in preference to Weber & Fields. This is a statement that means much. It repudiates some stars in the burlesque field who would scarcely stand repudiation, but to the critic who is honest in his criticism it will be accepted as the absolute truth. The old firm of Weber & Fields never produced anything quite so good in Pittsburgh as Joe Weber's combination of "Higgledy-Piggledy" and "The College Widower." Of course, the big audience at the Nixon theater last night did not know exactly where the one ended and the other began, but that was all right. Joe Weber has a better company than Weber & Fields ever sent out regardless of the fame of the players.

The strength of a burlesque company is judged largely on the work of the chorus and on the effectiveness of the ensemble. In Joe Weber's company this is superb in both particulars. Never was a stronger chorus taken on the road—and right here let it be said that compliments are extended to the original "Florodora" and the original "Chinese Honeymoon." Joe Weber has eclipsed them all.

To tell what all the stars did is an arduous task. Charles A. Bigelow has the best opportunity, and he gets the best of the applause. The stage director probably could best tell you why. Joe Weber gets in next, Sam Collins—it's hard to tell what he does best. Everybody knows Sam, but the chances are that his prospective mother-in-law is his best. Edward J. Connelly, Sam Marion and—but they're all stars! Marie Dressler like Mr. Bigelow, has very much the best of it on the feminine end. She smoothes over places that might be considered a little bit risque with an uctiousness that is admirable. Bonnie Maginn should be the star of the performance, but unhappily she has comparatively little opportunity. It will be a disappointment to many of Miss Maginn's friends that she has been given the worst songs and the poorest generally. It is a long time since Miss Maginn has come to Pittsburgh in a part so inconspicuous. Everybody knows she can do better and expects her to have a better part. Edythe Moyer does her part with credit, and the other stars—it's mighty hard to tell when to cease calling the roll of stars—are all clever. In burlesque Joe Weber's it. Let this be considered the superlative.

Alvin—Bickel, Watson and Wrothe.

The Alvin laughs this week, a cheerful effort after the hard struggle it had last week. "Tom, Dick and Harry," the title under which the three famous comedians, Bickel, Watson and Wrothe, display their talents, affords a steady flow of merriment in the variety of its grotesque effects and comical scenes. The comedians themselves are even more of a success than when they starred in "Me, Him and I," and invited a continuous performance last night from all parts of the crowded house in the way of hearty applause. For facial tactics that convulse the spectators, it is doubtful if any comedians seen so far this year in Pittsburgh equal the trio at the Alvin. If this were not enough to make the galleries roar their bodily contortions would call forth round after round of applause for the most experienced tumblers would find it a hard matter to imitate their work. In their connection with military work they are irresistibly funny and their usurping the throne of a ruler in the latter part of the performance would cause the most melancholy man to grin. Along with these noted comedians there is a score or so of girls, who in their general make-up and ability to sing and dance add the general effect. Bessie Clifford, the nimble and clever dancing daughter of the doughty Colonel Bluff spoke first for the favor of the Alvin audience and time after time was called back to exhibit her fetching bits of acting. Throughout the performance there are some very pretty stage effects, especially in the military tactics of the chorus. Popular songs sung with a dash and vim that merited the prolonged applause they received, made up a program that bids fair to fill the Alvin at every performance this week.

Empire—"The Beauty Doctor."

After several stirring melodramas the patrons of the popular Empire theater were given a change last evening and a musical comedy held the boards. Fred E. Wright has called this year's production the second edition of "The Beauty Doctor," and it is just as entertaining and amusing as the first, which was seen here last year. No difficult plot is presented to keep the audience thinking and the entire production is built for a laughmaker, and in this it succeeds.

There are several good comedians in the cast, but perhaps the work of Will Philbrick stands out most prominent. Earl Reddick and James R. Waters, however, are also comedians of no mean ability and assist to a great extent in the funmaking. The satire on Italian opera by Mr. Waters was an excellent specialty. Mr. Redding's detective was a very amusing character.

Claire Grenville, the leading day of the cast, is a very charming-looking woman and gets all out of the character she portrays that is possible. A pleasing feature of the performance is the male quartet, which had to respond to several encores during the evening. The audience was very large last evening, despite the inclement weather, and the appreciation for the comedy was shown by the frequent applause given.

Grand—Houdini, Vaudeville.

There can hardly be any quarrel with the vaudeville bill at the Grand this week, either upon the score of novelty or variety. There is a touch of all the modern art of the theater, and some things that are not art, but simply fun. Chief on the bill is the now justly celebrated Houdini, the man who liberates himself from handcuffs as easily as a child breaks a paper string, and who extricates himself from prisons, sealed and locked, trunks and cabinets, as mysteriously as a thing of spirit rather than of flesh and bone. His act is truly an astonishing and unique one. He disclaims supernatural power, and in one instance yesterday extricated himself from a locked German police chain handcuff in full view of the audience by simply wrenching his hands out of a space that seemed to admit of room only for his wrists. His most startling and mystifying act is the trunk trick. He is put into another man's coat with his wrists securely tied by inflexible braid. Then he is tied and sealed in a strong bag and locked and roped in a big trunk. In a second afterward he appears and his place in the trunk, bag and coat is taken by a female assistant, while none of the fastenings are, presumably, disturbed.

Houdini is the apotheosis of astonishment.

But the bill at the Grand is otherwise a strong one. Hal Davis and Inez McCauley present their ridiculous farce "Pals," which ends with such melodramatic break-up of stage furnishings. "The Village Choir" sing delightfully. Josephine Gassman and her Pickaninnies created a furore of applause. Miss Gassman varies her act from coon to Chinese with effect, but the little chocolate-colored "Pickie" seemed to catch the chief honors. DeWitt, Burns and Torrence do a novel and pleasing acrobatic act. Others are the Valdinos, Earl Lindsay, Cooper and Robinson in a "coon act" that pleased immensely, James F. McDonald, Brothers Fredo and the musical Johnstons.

Gayety—"Runaway Girls" Company.

The Gayety attraction for the week is quite pretentious in a musical way, due to the presence of James E. Howard, who directs the performance. He has gained notice as a successful writer of many popular songs, and springs a new one this time, and induces the audience to help sing it. "Central, Give Me Back My Dime," and its rendition marked the one place where the audience woke up and took notice.

Double the usual number of girls appear in the chorus numbers which are richly costumed and set off in scenic way. The comedy falls far in the standard of the musical department of the performance, but it is much better at that than that of a few other companies that have showed here. "The Sultan's Dilemma" is the name of the comedy which, of course, entails lots of oriental costuming and scenery throughout.

Several fair vaudeville specialties are introduced, including the Burg Sisters in fast dancing and singing; the Bowery Newsboys quartet (men, of course), and the Six Flying Banvards in a somewhat thrilling aerial cesting act.

Academy—"Dainty Paree" Burlesquers.

A strange name is posted on the Academy bills this week—"Dainty Paree Burlesquers"—and the company of that name ran the gauntlet of two performances before two full houses of Academy "critics," with colors flying. The company presents a refreshing newness in faces and costuming, while the comedians manage to get considerable fun out of the conventional burlesque situation and business. The comedy centers around the visit of an Irishman and two Germans to Paris, with the chorus breaking in here with late musical pieces. J. Gaffney Brown and Harrison Green and Barney Williams are funny in the above mentioned characters, and the chorus is attractive and can sing well.

The olio numbers were well received, as they generally are at this theater, and include Ida Howell, who sings; The Razinos, novelty eccentriques; Brown and Booth in a singing and dancing sketch, and Montgomery and Canter, who are called "The Piano Comedy Kings." The closing burlesque also took well, and among the new songs "Hiram Green," sung by Brown and Booth, was a winner.

Bijou—Hanlon's "Fantasma."

This favorite spectacle, pantomime, acrobatic and comedy aggregation, pleased two large audiences at the Bijou yesterday. The scenic and stage novelties are very many, among the more interesting being the shadowgraph pictures and the submarine wonders. The acrobatic work is in the main good, and the entertainment is one that pleases and amuses without offending.

Mrs. Carter's Second and Final Week.

Although the demand to see Mrs. Leslie Carter is unprecedented, and would easily warrant an engagement of at least four weeks in Pittsburgh for the gifted artiste, her engagements elsewhere, booked as far in advance as a year ago, are such that the actress will not stay at the Belasco theater longer than two weeks. For her second and positively last week, beginning next Monday, Mrs. Carter will be seen in a splendid revival of "Zaza," in David Belasco's version of that play.

Ethel Barrymore.

Miss Ethel Barrymore gives a decidedly new glimpse of her art in the interesting character, the title role of the play "Sunday," which is to be seen at the Nixon theater next Monday evening. The love story in which she figures is so simply told that every line carries conviction. The scenes are laid in a western mining camp and in England. The company supporting Miss Barrymore in "Sunday" includes Bruce McRea, who was the Irish lover in "Cousin Kate;" John Barrymore, brother of the star.

"The Office Boy."

Frank Deshon in the Nixon & Zimmerman Opera Company's production of the musical comedy, "The Office Boy," which will be presented at the Alvin next week, is from all accounts a success of the first water. The piece received the highest praise from the press during its long appearances in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago last winter, and is spoken of as being intensely amusing and interesting, and containing a wealth of tuneful and catchy music.

Shumann-Heink in Grand Opera.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 13.—Mme. Schumann-Heink today signed a contract with Henry Wolfsohn of New York to appear for the next two seasons in concert oratorio and grand opera. Mme. Schumann-Heink will retire from comic opera on December 2, and will rest until next spring, appearing in only a few cities until the regular season opens about September 15, 1906.

Burton Holmes Begins Tonight.

Tonight at 8 o'clock, Burton Holmes will begin his annual series of finely illustrated travelogues at Carnegie Music hall, Pittsburgh, with "Port Arthur, the Siege and Surrender" as his opening subject. This is splendidly illustrated with both still and motion pictures taken by expert war photographers who were actually on the spot during the siege.

Calve in Boston.

Mme. Emma Calve in her concert at Boston last Saturday was greeted by a very large and enthusiastic audience. The Herald says: "The Calve concert was a rare treat. Seldom has an artist shown such mastery; her voice was fresh and had an indefinable quality that puts her apart from other operatic women." The plan for the Pittsburgh concert opened at Mellor's yesterday and there was a goodly sale. Calve appears at Pittsburgh Carnegie music hall next Monday night.

BUYS POSTAL TO INFORM MOTHER OF HIS DEATH

James Nugent Tells Postoffice Clerk He Will End Wicked Career and Seek Peace at Bottom of River.

"I want to buy a postal to inform my mother I am going to kill myself."

These were the words of a man, supposed to be James Nugent, to Clarence Veheiller, clerk in the postoffice, about 6 o'clock yesterday morning. The man was poorly clad and seemed to be depressed. He said he was going to throw himself in the river. Veheiller tried to secure some information from the man about his troubles, but he refused to give him any satisfaction.

Veheiller sold him the postal. The man wrote a short message to his sister, saying "that he had been a bad fellow all his life and that he had finally capped the climax. Tell mother she will never see Jim again. He is dead in Pittsburgh. Good-by forever." He signed, "Jim Nugent."

The despondent one dropped the postal in the mail chute and disappeared. He is described as being about 25 years old. He looked like a railroader or structural iron worker. He was excited when talking to the postal clerks and they are of the opinion he has taken his life. Last night they called at the morgue to see if a man of his description had been found.

While the postal clerks are of the opinion he is lying in one of the local rivers, the deputy coroners do not think the man has taken his life. They think he is probably wanted by the police in Columbus, and has taken this means to deter them from making further search for him.

CALLEN AND HALEY ARE BOTH HELD FOR COURT

Police Captain John Callen and Fireman Joseph Haley were held for court yesterday by Alderman John A. Martin on a charge of aggravated assault and battery made by Aaron L. Abromovitz. They are said to have assaulted J. Broudy on election day. On his own account Abromovitz sued Haley for beating him, and Haley was held for court on this charge in $500 bail. Constable James E. Glenn gave bail for court on the charge of interfering with County Detective John Reed on election day.

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—A charge of kidnaping a 3-year-old child has been brought against Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carroll of Central City by Mr. and Mrs. William Rowe of Columbus, O., who came here today to recover their child from Carroll. When Rowe demanded the child, Carroll, it is alleged, drew a revolver. Rowe says that Mr. and Mrs. Carroll kidnaped the child from his home in Columbus several months ago. A writ of habeas corpus will be asked by Rowe.

Where to Plant Want Ads

The Gazette printed more Want Advertisements during October than any other Pittsburgh morning paper. It printed last month 71,736 lines, which was 1,008 more than the next highest had, and 32,416 more than the lowest. This is due to the hustling proclivities of The Gazette's Classified Ad Department.—Duquesne (Pa.) Times.

25 PER CENT MONEY CAUSES LIQUIDATION

Near the Close the Rate Broke to 6 Per Cent and the Stock Market Rallied—Gold Imports in Sight—Local Securities Dull.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

There was extensive liquidation in the New York stock market yesterday, caused by the stringency in money, the rates for call and time loans advancing to the highest of the year. During the early part of the session the liquidation proceeded unchecked by any effort on the part of pools, but in the early part of the afternoon the pressure ceased, and with the relaxation in money the whole market rallied. In a few instances closing prices were higher than those at the close on Saturday, while with few exceptions the losses were confined to small fractions.

The effect of Saturday's bank statement, showing the surplus reserve wiped out and a deficit for the first time since the fall of 1903, was felt right at the opening, when olds of 14 and 15 per cent for call loans brought no offerings of bank money. On the contrary, there was extensive calling of loans, and the rate steadily advanced until it reached 20 per cent. Between that figure and 15 per cent the bulk of the business was transacted. Late in the afternoon there was another sharp advance in the rate, and belated borrowers were compelled to pay 25 per cent, the highest quotation for at least two years. The final loan, however, was 6 per cent and the National City bank offered $10,000,000 at that figure. The sudden stump in the rate was due first to the fact that borrowers had supplied their wants, and second to the announcement from Washington that Secretary Shaw had expressed a willingness to deposit government funds in any banks in the principal cities of the west and south which should request it and could furnish customary security. One of the causes of the stringency in Wall street, and the chief cause of the drain upon New York bank reserves, has been the extraordinary shipments of currency to the south and west. These shipments are presumably in response to the demand for commercial purposes, although it may be that some of the demand from the south is for the purpose of carrying cotton for a higher price, and to that extent is speculative. However, if the treasury department places government deposits in the sections designated, it is to be inferred that the drain upon New York will cease, and the New York banks will be enabled to restore their legal reserve sooner than they otherwise could do.

The high rates for money had an immediate and very decided effect upon sterling exchange, which declined close to a level where gold imports would be permissible. There were rumors that arrangements were being made to import gold, and it was reported that the representatives of foreign bankers were loaning their balances freely at the high rates for time money, which advanced to 9 per cent for 90 days and to 7½ per cent for 60 days. It is generally admitted that rates cannot be long maintained at yesterday's high level, but at the same time the pressure to borrow on the relatively firm money market will prevail for the remainder of the year.

The pressure against the New York traction stocks and Reading was a conspicuous feature of the early dealings, and a little later in the day extensive liquidation occurred in Northern Pacific. It was natural that Reading should bear the brunt of the selling for the reason that the stock has been persistently "bulled" until it was out of line with other securities of the same class. The same was true of some of the other pool stocks, but while the liquidation was going on in the latter other pools apparently had no difficulty in obtaining means to boost prices. Conspicuous among these was Railway Steel Springs, which advanced to 59¾, the highest ever quoted. Tennessee Coal and Iron, Sloss-Sheffield and New York Central closed higher than on Saturday. The largest net declines were 4⅛ in Northern Pacific, 3¾ in Reading, and 2⅝ in Smelting. The market closed active, with the tone steady to firm.

While the local stock market was weak in tone, it was almost stagnant by comparison with New York. The fact that a number of Pittsburgh bankers gave notice to borrowers today that rates would be marked up to 6 per cent had absolutely no effect upon the stock market for the reason that brokers are carrying comparatively few stocks on margin, and there will be no liquidation here on account of tight money. United States Steel and Westinghouse Electric were the only active issues, and inasmuch as they also have a market in New York, they were under the influence of the latter. Electric declined to and closed at 84, a loss of 1¾ points. United States Steel common declined to 35⅝ and the preferred to 101, and closed at the lowest. Crucible Steel common sold off to 12¾, and was in fair demand at the decline. The preferred lost ½ per cent, declining to and closing at 86. Pittsburgh Oil and Gas was weak, selling off to 55⅝, a loss of 2¼ per cent. Manufacturers Light and Heat was also weak, declining to 34½ and closing at 34½. Fire Proofing common was a shade higher at 8¾, while the preferred sold at 21@21¼. Pittsburgh Coal preferred declined a fraction to 52⅛ and recovered to 52¾. Luster Mining closed a dollar a share lower at 30 and Tonopah Extension declined to $5 80. A small lot of Arsenal Bank exchanged hands at 145, a decline of 5 points, and Iron City Trust was 1 per cent lower at 116.

SALTSBURG, PA., Nov. 13.—Kiski defeated Indiana Normal in the last game of the season this afternoon on Kiski field by the score of 5 to 0. The game was one of the best of the season, and was hotly contested throughout, but Kiski's superior strength told in the last half, and Capt. Kumler was slammed over the line for the score that won the game.

Normal won the toss and chose the wind, giving Kiski the ball to kick off. Kumler booted to O'Leary on the five-yard line and Andrews nailed him in his tracks. Normal punted and in four downs Kiski carried the ball to the four-yard line. Here the signals were mixed and Indiana fell on a fumble. O'Leary punted to the 50-yard line and McGregor came back 10 yards. Kiski was twice penalized and Normal got the ball on downs. O'Leary's punt got away and rolled to the one-yard line. Kumler punted 45 yards against the wind.

For the remainder of the half the play was on the Kiski side of the field, and Kumler's beautiful punting was all that kept the ball away from Kiski's goal. Normal tried two field goals, but both fell short.

In the second half Kiski got the wind. Kumler punted over Normal's goal line from his own 50-yard mark. Normal kicked to midfield from the 25-yard line and then Kiski got working slightly and covered the distance to a touchdown, Kumler bucking it over. Kumler missed a difficult goal. The rest of the half gave the wind to Indiana, and they tried three more field goals, but failed miserably. Finally Kiski blocked a punt and had rushed the ball to Normal's 40-yard line when time was called.

Besides Kumler, who was the star for Kiski, Osborne, Graham, Andrews and McGregor played finely on the defensive. O'Leary and Martin starred for Normal. Score:

There were some tall doings in the Amateur league last night on the Wylie avenue alleys when the strong O. and P. met the formidable Clippers, who were loaded for bear and expected to take all three games. But there was a surprise in store. The O. and P. made a good thing go wrong and won all three games and thereby made it easy sailing for the Amateur championship. W. AND J. PLAYERS GET MUCH PRAISE

Yesterday morning was marked by informal celebrations in the various W. U. P. departments in honor of Saturday's victory over Wash.-Jeff. Chancellor McCormick made a short address to the students of the hill department, in which he praised the conduct of the students of both institutions during the big games as becoming college-bred gentlemen. The chancellor spoke of the pluck and nerve persistence of the losers, agreeing that the contest was an ideal exhibition of manly football, the kind which is a satisfaction to players who have done their best and to the public which has witnessed their noblest effort.

The W. U. P. players are taking it easy after saturday's game. Most of the men spent Sunday and Monday at the training house resting. The men are pretty well exhausted and will doubtless feel the effects of the game for several days, but no one is seriously injured, and everything else is swallowed up in the jubilation of victory. Most of the squad was out for a light practice yesterday. The varsity players were only working long enough to get up a good sweat, then went in for a rubdown. Schmidt, Capt. Thompson, McKean and Zier did not appear for practice yesterday. Marshall is also a little bruised up, but he as well as the others congratulate themselves on their good fortune that their injuries were not more serious.

ST. VINCENT AND BLUFFITES RENEW ATHLETIC RELATIONS

Rival Colleges Will Play Baseball Next Spring—Handball Courts Destroyed by Fire.

Athletic relations between Pittsburgh college and St. Vincent, the two leading Catholic colleges of Western Pennsylvania, will be renewed next spring when they meet St. Vincent claimed it received ill-treatment on the bluff, and declined to arrange for more games. The Bluffites, too, were angered and refused to make any overtures.

Between now and spring, it was stated yesterday by a member of the athletic committee of Pittsburgh college, there will be an amicable adjustment of the difficulty. Two games will probably be played, one at each place.

The handball courts at Pittsburgh college were destroyed yesterday by fire. Two youngsters were playing in the courts and applied a match to some waste paper, then went into the next court to play. Smoke was seen coming from the court in volumes. The loss is about $200.

NO DAMAGES FOR BEING HIT BY A FOUL BALL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Justice Gould, in criminal court, in the case of Edward Veihmeyer against the Washington baseball club of the American league and Acting Manager Malachi Kittridge of the club, today directed a verdict in favor of the defendants upon the ground that a person attending games takes the risk of injury from being hit by baseballs which might fly from the field into the stands unless the baron purchases a seat behind the wire screens.

Mr. Veihmeyer sued for $300 damages against the club and Kittridge because he was struck, as he was proceeding to a seat upon the bleachers, by a foul ball from Mr. Kittridge's bat.

PREP. SCHOOLS HAVE SOME HARD PRACTICE

The Pittsburgh High school eleven practiced yesterday afternoon with W. U. P. Graduate coaches will help the team this afternoon at Friendship park. All the players are in good shape.

JOE NEALON NOW A PIRATE BOLD

CLARKE WRITES TO DREYFUSS

The contract of Joe Nealon, the San Francisco first baseman, with the Pittsburgh club, has been received at the National league headquarters. It will be found in the official bulletin issued by President Pulliam. Nealon is now a full-fledged Pirate, and if the club cared to brag it could probably tell of a big bonus given the player to sign, and it is likely his salary for the first year at least, is guaranteed, whether he plays or not. A stiff figure it ought to prove to be. But Barney Dreyfuss is not blowing a horn. The Pittsburgh club made more money last year than in any year since 1882. Now all this profit, and more, too, will be used to strengthen the team for the sole purpose of winning the championship next year. Nothing but the pennant will do.

Nealon will report to Clarke at Hot Springs next March and will begin at first base right off the reel. It is a good guess, by the way, that the Pirates will leave for Hot Springs on March 17, St. Patrick's day.

Manager Clarke signed Nealon last week and yesterday his letter narrating the fact was received by President Dreyfuss. The letter was written on the train which carried the manager from California back to his Kansas farm. In it Clarke explained his failure to write while at San Francisco by saying that he did not have a minute to spare while the chase was on, and that he could not have made any report worth having until the last day of his visit, as it was then until then that he closed the deal. One point that Clarke made plain was that Nealon signed with Pittsburgh for considerably less money than the Cincinnati Nationals or the Boston Americans offered, but the bidding for his services was so brisk that the New York Americans dropped out a few days after Clarke's arrival on the coast. The terms of the deal will, at the request of Nealon's father, not be made public.

Clarke seems to have been much impressed with the elder Nealon, whom he met upon the day of his arrival. The father said that as the boy was determined to play ball he gave him his consent, with the provision that he was to have something to say about where Joe should go. He said that while he desired to make a good business arrangement for his son, he was more anxious to make sure that he was going to a good club, and going to have the right kind of companions. The information that Clarke gave the father about the Pirates seemed to have proved satisfactory.

About the player Clarke said: "Nealon is a strapping big fellow, and, I believe, after seeing him play, that he can bat, run and play the bag well, but too much should not be expected of him the first year. He started out last season, and a player cannot learn everything the first year. Nealon had enough offers to turn a youngster's head. I saw the letters from the Boston and the New York Americans. After I had been on the coast two or three days one club actually offered him $7,500 to sign, and while he knew that I would not go that high, he promptly declined by wire. Another club told him to name his own terms.

"It was at this stage that the agent of the New York Americans dropped out, but a newspaper man with credentials from the Boston Americans assured Nealon that he would go as high as any other club. Nealon told his father that he would rather sign with Pittsburgh than with any of the other clubs and the father gave his consent, proving that he was sincere when he said that it was not a matter of money with him."

In his letter Clarke spoke highly of another player he saw while in California, and negotiations are now pending for the man.

NO OFFICIALS YET FOR YALE-PRINCETON GAME

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Yale and Princeton are still not agreed upon officials to referee and umpire their big game next Saturday. But they are in correspondence and it is expected that some agreement will be reached by Wednesday. The matter has hung fire for several weeks and a number of well-known football experts have been canvassed, but objection has been made by one side or the other to this one and that one. Tonight John E. Owsley, Yale's head coach, said that he hoped Walter Camp, who took hold of the problem on Saturday, will be able to work out the formula with a combination satisfactory to both sides. McClung, Paul Dashiell, John Minds and J. C. McCracken have been under consideration.

Central to custom the Yale varsity had scrimmage work today, but only 15 minutes of it. Nearly an hour was given to catching punts and to formations to protect the runner back of the kickoff catch. Several small wagers have been laid at odds strongly on Yale. Tomorrow and Wednesday will see hard work given the Yale team both on offense and defense.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The team has returned from their trip to Lakewood, which was made with the view of giving the men a rest after the Cornell game, very much improved in condition and greatly rested for the work of the coming week. Trainer Jim Robinson, who is now well enough to resume his regular duties, again has charge of the men, and they will be under his care till the end of the season. In spite of the worry that has been caused by the slowness with which the squad has drifted into shape, Trainer Robinson seems confident that there remains little cause for further fear on the score of the squad's condition. Considering the doubtful physical shape of the team when it went into the Cornell game, the men have come through the mill in splendid condition, and the only man who is not in good form is Dillon, the reliable Tiger guard. It is expected, however, that he will be all right by the end of the week.

There was no scrimmage today and the coaches were contented to confine the work to signal and formation drills with a close eye to speed. What practice there was however, was secret and the actual work for the meeting with Yale has begun in earnest.

State.

STATE COLLEGE, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Secret practice was instituted on Beaver field by Head Coach Golden today, and the doings of the varsity squad will be kept closely under cover all this week in preparation for the Dickinson game. On Thursday morning the squad will be taken to some convenient mountain resort and there rested up until Saturday morning.

Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Seemingly demoralized by Saturday's defeat at the hands of Pennsylvania, Harvard's football team had the worst practice of the season on Soldiers' field today. Fumbling, offside play and holding again were the order of the day. Once, after working the ball to the scrubs' one-yard line, the varsity lost it on Fultz's fumble, and again when within striking distance of the goal, a penalty of 15 yards for holding prevented the regulars from scoring. The offense also was extremely listless, and although the coaches tried desperately to stir their players to action the men would not respond.

Lafayette.

EASTON, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Dr. Bull had three squads at work tonight and even then there were a number of extra men. They were kept busy running off signals for an hour, when the two scrub elevens were dismissed and the varsity were busy for another quarter hour. Contrary to expectations there was no scrimmage. The men seem to have had plenty of work to keep them hard, and the remainder of the practice before the Swarthmore game will be spent in polishing the plays and running off signals. Dr. Bull does not intend to run any risks with any members of the team, and as they are already in first-rate condition, will enter Wednesday's game prepared to give a good account of themselves.

State College.

STATE COLLEGE, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Secret practice was instituted on Beaver field by Head Coach Golden today, and the doings of the varsity squad will be kept closely under cover all this week in preparation for the Dickinson game. On Thursday morning the squad will be taken to some convenient mountain resort and there rested until Saturday morning. Coaches Golden, Scholl and Fennell are working untiringly to get the team in perfect trim for Saturday's big game. Capt. Yeckley's injuries will probably keep him out of the contest. The good showing made by Dickinson against Lehigh and Annapolis indicates the strength of the red and white eleven and old State is well aware of the fact that her ancient rival will play much harder football next Saturday than they did against Lehigh.

Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Together with a driving snowstorm and the fact that most of the Cornell football squad has been ordered to take rest, Percy Field was deserted this afternoon. All of the varsity men who started in the first part of the game with Princeton on Saturday have been told to remain away from the field until Wednesday and a number has been dismissed from the training table for a period of three days. Others who reported this afternoon were prevented from practicing by the storm. The men were trained down to a fine edge before going to Princeton. Hodge went stale before he left Ithaca, and as a result of the game several others went over the mark. Aside from this condition, however, the men are suffering no ill effects from Saturday's contest, but the layoff is considered to be a serious thing for the Columbia game, which occurs next Saturday.

HARVARD READY TO GIVE UP FOOTBALL

BOSTON, MASS., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—That Harvard university will abolish football after this year was the amazing announcement made tonight by John Mahon, coach of the technology track team, at a dinner given at the Tech. union by the alumni advisory council of Tech. athletics. He stated that he gets his information from "inside sources," but for that reason is not able to disclose his authority. "Tech. men go in for athletics for sport's sake only," said he. "The trouble at Harvard today is that athletics play too prominent a part as a business and not a sport. Men in the senior and junior years, who have had enough athletics and wish to study are made to believe that their duty to the college is to spend their time playing football."

He gave Harvard credit for being foremost in trying to discourage this tendency, and then made the sensational announcement.

SHAKES THE BANNER LOOSE

"Do you call this a square deal?"

Several belated pedestrians who heard these words uttered in a loud, manly voice at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in Fifth avenue, paused in surprise. All looked at one another, for they happened to come together at that point, although strangers.

"I want an answer: Do you call this a square deal for everyone, especially me?" Thus spoke the voice again.

Then in unison the pedestrians looked up, for the words came from above. There a strange sight met their gaze. The Citizens political banner, which stretches across Fifth avenue, was being agitated violently, although no wind was blowing. The pictures on the banner bore various expressions, indignation, shame-facedness, pain, fear, chagrin.

"This is not an academic question on some archaic subject. If I can't get an answer I'll answer it myself. This isn't a square deal; it's enough to drive a man to race homicide," said the voice.

What the Listeners Heard.

Sure enough, it was that speaking likeness of the President of the United States, speaking. A frown wrinkled his brow; his teeth gleamed in the electric light that shone full upon his countenance. He was angry clear through to the back of the picture, anybody could see that.

"There's going to be some fun," said another spectator. "Let's listen. I'm not afraid. I voted the Lincoln party ticket."

The President paused for a reply. There came a murmur in different keys from the likenesses below him in tones pleading, deprecating, apologetic, although there was a note of joviality in one low voice, which seemed to come from the portrait of James A. Clark.

"I fully agree with you, Mr. President," said a mellow voice, evidently trained to public speaking. "Allow me to introduce myself: I am Judge John Stewart."

"De-lighted, judge," said the President, pleasantly. "But I must say I am sorry to see you in such company. I hadn't expected it of you."

"Nor I of you," retorted the judge, looking disdainfully at the Citizens-Democratic candidates beneath.

"I guess neither of us is to blame," admitted Roosevelt, "and, indeed, I remember, I myself said it wasn't a square deal."

Just then one of the Citizens-Democratic candidates ducked forward and began surreptitiously to swallow the motto just below him—"A square deal for every man, no more and no less," but James A. Clark, his eyes twinkling, caught the end of the streamer in his teeth for a moment, thus putting his colleague in an embarassing position, with his mouth full of cloth and a long piece of it hanging out. Clark as quickly released the motto. The colleague continued to try to make away with the tell-tale evidence and sputtered remonstratingly to Clark for preventing deglutition.

The President Wants to Know.

"Not Grady of the links-rechts, but Grady of the golf, golf, guff, golluf, gowf links. Do tell me how to pronounce it, Frank," said Clark.

"You go away from me," said the portrait labeled Francis X. Barr to the tormenting Clark, spitting out the motto, "or I'll strike you with my mashey the first time I catch you on the green. I'm mad at you, Jim, there!"

"How did you get here, Barr?" asked the president. "I'd like to know what license list you have to be up in this banner with Judge Stewart and me. Weren't you for Berry?"

"I'm for Berry."

"Listen to the president's question, Francis," admonished Clark. "He didn't say 'aren't you for Berry;' he said 'weren't you.' You are for Berry now, after the election. Everybody knows that. There are some good appointments to give out in the state treasurer's office."

"Quit bogieing me, Jim," said Barr. "How can I drive with you standing on the tee. You're worse to get over than a bunker. Don't show me up before such a distinguished gallery. This is certainly the sportiest course I ever played over. You wouldn't talk that way to me if my caddie was here."

"I am a Roosevelt Republican," broke in another voice.

"That sounds like a circular," said the president. "Who are you?"

J. Denny O'Neil Explains It.

"J. Denny O'Neil, of McKeesport, defeated candidate for recorder. I just broke in to relieve my friend the golf player of embarrassment. I guess we're all at fault, Mr. President. We insisted upon having you and Stewart in our company, all except Clark here and maybe Henry Meyer, the Democratic candidates. You know our old associates in Pittsburgh had grown so rank that we thought decent men like you and the judge and Mr. Plummer might help us through. It was all in the game, you know. Don't blame us; blame Barr, here. He's in the worst fix of all of us, so he won't mind a few more straws laid upon his back."

"It's back to the insurance business for me," said another voice. "This is R. J. Cunningham, Mr. President."

"I've heard well of you, sir," said Mr. Roosevelt, kindly. "Just change your city political associates and all may yet be well."

Henry Meyer said nothing. He only looked unutterable things. One of the pedestrians, however, thought he heard Meyer whisper to Barr: "If we had only listened to Col. Guffey."

All this time Alexander Dempster had been glaring at Clark. At last he was heard to whisper: "You confounded plumper, you."

Nobody in the banner paid any attention to Conrad G. Mentel and Reid Kennedy, who seemed to be glad of the neglect, for they kept very quiet.

President Blows the Bunch.

"I'm tired of it all," said the president to Judge Stewart. "Let's get out of this." Then the two distinguished men tried to disenthrall themselves. The banner was agitated fearfully. It shook and bent and wobbled as if in a stiff breeze.

"Somebody has hold of me and won't let go," shouted T. Lee Plummer, whose portrait had faded until it was almost indistinguishable. "somebody who either loves me very much or thinks I can save him. Let go, there!"

"It's Barr in a death grip," said the Clark likeness. "The motto has wrapped itself about his neck and is choking him to death."

Still the banner shook to and fro, up and down, at last it broke from its moorings on one side and was blown up against the front of the buildings. In its folds all but the faces of the president and Judge Stewart were concealed from sight.

When the awe-stricken pedestrians returned to the scene a few hours later all traces of the banner had vanished. Whether the indignation of the Roosevelt-Stewart portraits burned it up or the Citizens-Democrats, spurred on by the ridicule the banner evoked, caused it to be removed, is not known.

IRVING'S GRAVE BENEATH SHAKESPEARE'S MONUMENT.

Close to the tomb of Garrick in poet's corner, Westminster Abbey, Sir Henry Irving's ashes were buried on the morning of October 20. The wreaths and flowers were innumerable and many of them were left heaped on the spot where the leader of the English stage sleeps his last sleep, watched over by the cenotaph of Shakespeare.

OVER 600 APPLY FOR ADMISSION

MANY MUST BE TURNED AWAY

Over 600 applicants for admission to the night courses in the School of Applied Science of the Carnegie Technical schools were given examinations last evening at the new home of the institution in Schenley park. The oldest prospective student was 45 and 16 years was the lowest age limit. Throughout the entire gathering there was an earnestness which was noteworthy. Practically all of the applicants are already at work, and to them the courses at the "Tech" are business-like matters.

The examinations will continue tonight and tomorrow night for those who were unable to come last evening on account of work or for other cause. It is believed that there will be about 1,000 applicants for admission to take the examinations.

The present capacity of this school for night students is only about 200, and it is not possible to increase this capacity this winter. The building yet to be opened is the School for Apprentices and Journeymen.

"It is a very sad thing that we are compelled to turn away so many of these young men from lack of room," said Director Hamerschlag last evening. "They are the finest of material and thoroughly in earnest, and deserve the opportunity to enter the schools.

"In the number were many men who are upward of 30 years old. We rather expected that this would be true. In their work they have found themselves in need of precisely the kind of training they will receive here, and they are making, in many cases already, great sacrifices in order to receive instruction."

A feature of the examinations last evenings was the large number who were applying for admission to the "special night course." This is a preparatory course offered to the many who, through lack of schooling from some cause or other, are not equipped to undertake the work of the "regular night course." For one year they will receive instruction in English, arithmetic and algebra, and elementary physics, to enable them next year to enter upon the regular course.

Personal interviews were given to each of the applicants last evening by the director and the members of the faculty. The building was occupied almost to its capacity. Every room that could be utilized for an examination was filled and in many cases crowded. The examinations lasted until after 10 o'clock.

LATROBE, PA., Nov. 13.—A button on the vestments of the Rev. Father Shea saved him from death or serious injury yesterday while he was celebrating mass at St. Rose's Roman Catholic church in Bradenville. John Modasco, a member of the mission congregation, who was in a condition bordering on insanity following a prolonged debauch, appeared in the church during the service and began a blasphemous harrangue.

The janitor tried to quiet the man. When Father Shea left the altar and approached the intruder Modasco suddenly drew a knife and a made a lunge at the priest.

The point of the blade struck a button and glanced off. Before the crazed man could make another attempt he was surrounded by worshippers and disarmed. He was turned over to the authorities.

J. A. BROOKS IS CLEARED BY JURY AT GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 13.—A conflicting array of evidence was presented in the trial of J. A. Brooks, a pioneer resident of Monessen and until recently proprietor of a big department store in that town, who was charged by Miss Anna Shaffer with being the father of her baby. Brooks is married and his family is prominent. The case attracted wide interest in the Monongahela valley.

Recently Brooks left Monessen and established a store at Wheeling, W. Va. The defendant claimed the charge was brought through revenge, he alleges, because at the last term of court he caused to have convicted on a charge of shoplifting relatives of Miss Shaffer. The testimony of Dr. W. D. Hunter and A. L. Arner, members of the board of health of Monessen, on the other hand tended to show that Brooks had made an effort to conceal the birth of the child, and had asked that no report be made either of its birth or of the fact that its paternity had been fixed by the girl.

According to Miss Shaffer's story, she was enticed into the home of the defendant. The jury this evening returned a verdict of not guilty.

Almost everyone, from personal experience, knows that the effects of any kind of severe physical strain are felt, first of all, in the small of the back—in other words, in those Vital Organs, the Kidneys. This is as true in the case of the very powerful as it is with one of less strength, and it is especially true whenever the kidneys are weak or out of order.

WOMEN suffer untold misery because the nature of their disease is not always correctly understood; in many cases when doctoring, they are led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for their ills, when in fact disordered kidneys are the chief cause of their distressing troubles.

Didn't Know I Had Kidney Trouble

I had tried so many remedies without benefit that I was about discouraged, but in

I was out of health and run down generally, had no appetite, was dizzy and suffered with headache most of the time. I did not realize that my kidneys were the cause of my trouble, but somehow felt they might be, and I began taking Swamp-Root, as above stated. There is such a pleasant taste to Swamp-Root, and it goes right to the spot and drives disease out of the system. It has cured me of making me stronger and better in every way, and I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers. Gratefully yours,

331 East Linden St., Atlanta, Ga.

Your poor health makes you nervous, irritable and at times despondent; but thousands of just such suffering or broken-down women are being restored to health and strength every day by the use of that wonderful discovery, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

Not only does Swamp-Root bring new life and activity to the kidneys, the cause of the trouble, but by strengthening the kidneys it acts as a general tonic and food for the entire constitution.

The mild and extraordinary effect of the world-famous kidney and bladder remedy, Swamp-Root, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. A trial will convince anyone—and you may have a sample bottle sent free by mail.

In taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root you afford natural help to nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that has ever been discovered. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Swamp-Root a Blessing to Women

Dear Sirs—I want to write and thank you for what your Swamp-Root has done for me.

MRS. E. MCCULLEY.

Four years ago I was taken with something like colic, and it came on me once a month and oftener and it seemed as if I would die with the pain. I went to the doctor and he said I had gall stones and treated me, but did no good. I had the terrible pains very often. I saw in the paper where a woman was cured of gall stone by taking Swamp-Root, and my children wanted me to take it, so I began, taking in all several 50-cent bottles and am glad to say that I am entirely cured. I am certainly thankful for your medicine, and say to those who suffer as I did that Swamp-Root will cure them.

Yours very truly,
MRS. EMMA MCCULLEY, Oviedo, Fla.

FILTER EMPLOYES IDLE IN WINTER

HUNDREDS WILL BE LAID OFF

"A good many of our men will be laid off this winter. I can't tell just how many until I know how large a force the contractor will be working. He will lay off many of his employes because the cold weather will practically put a stop to all outside work on the filtration plant except the construction of the pumping station and the river crossing to carry the big water main over to Brilliant station."

Superintendent Knowles of the filtration bureau made this announcement yesterday, which will be unwelcome news to a large number of men on engineering corps, inspectors and others who are now employed by the city in field work at the filtration plant. They have been steadily employed since the first of May and will not be pleased at the prospect of being given a vacation without pay during the winter months.

"We are already having trouble excavating in frozen ground these frosty days, and it will be much worse about the first of December," said Superintendent Knowles. "We may be able to keep up operations in the field until December. It all depends upon the weather. When the cold weather sets in we can put some of our men at work inside making up the records, but out-of-door work will be practically stopped until spring."

Not only will there be many employes of the filtration bureau out of employment during the winter, but also hundreds of laborers employed by the contractor. The cold weather will also interfere with the laying of the big main to the South Side. There are four filter beds completed at Aspinwall out of a total of 46 to be built.

Olmstead of Harrisburg was in the midst of an important argument, laden with little images of various kinds. "Wanta some," he called out in a loud tone. Judge Buffington's usual gravity was completely routed. He called the enterprising peddler to the bench, bought a cast of a lion and dismissed the peddler. Everybody had a good grin, and the court got own to business again.

CHARMS OF GERTIE MILLAR DRIVE A BARON TO SUICIDE

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Gertie Millar, the bright particular star of the London Gayety, has been "out of the bill" there since Baron Rau von Holzhausen, a young German nobleman, shot himself in her boudoir the other day, but it is safe to say that there will be a crowded house whenever this extraordinarily popular singer elects to make her reappearance.

She has had rather a striking career, has Gertie Millar. Pretty, piquant, and graceful, the story goes that not long before her discovery by the Gaiety management she was a mill girl in Lancashire. That is not improbable, either, for Rosie Boote, the Gaiety girl, who is now Marchioness of Headfort, started life as a damsel in Whitechapel. Anyhow, it was a surprisingly short time after Gertie Millar's first appearance at the Gaiety that she got promoted from the chorus to a leading part in "The Toreador," and caught the town with her song, "Keep Off the Grass." Since then she has been the chiefest attraction of the famous playhouse in the Strand, the idol of the gilded youth, and the delight of her photographers, who have frequently been put to it to keep up with the demand for her likenesses.

Marries a Young Composer.

There is little doubt that she might have followed the example of Belle Bilton, Connie Gilchrist and Rosie Boote, and become a member of the British peerage. But instead Miss Millar decided to marry the talented young composer of some of her most successful songs, Lionel Monckton, whose catchy melody, "Oh, Listen to the Band," was whistled all over the United States as well as this country. Of late Miss Millar has been appearing in "The Spring Chicken," the French adaptation which was so roundly condemned not long ago by W. T. Stead. She and her husband have a house in Russell square, and here it was that young Guntuer von Holzhausen elected to blow out what by courtesy may be termed his brains early last Sunday morning.

MISS GERTIE MILLAR,

Let it be said, however, that Von Holzhausen was no two-for-a-penny continental nobleman. The scion of one of the oldest families in Frankfort, he was heir to a big fortune and left the fatherland chiefly to escape the enforced military service there, which did not suit his indolent and somewhat sentimental temperament. This behavior, of course, did not please the baron's relatives, but up to a short time ago they seem to have given him a fairly liberal allowance, which enabled him to live in a fashionable hotel, give expensive luncheons and make trips to the Riviera.

Von Holzhausen met Gertie Millar for the first time about a year and a half ago, and promptly fell desperately in love with her. This infatuation, it was explained at the inquest which followed his suicide, the actress "endeavored kindly to check." She corresponded with him, however, and they were "Dear Gertie," and "Dear Guntner," but the young nobleman really seems to have received comparatively little encouragement. There was no doubt, however, about the young man's infatuation. From the beginning of his acquaintance with Millar, he poured out boyish love letters, written in quaint broken English and infinitely humble in tone. One of them read, in part:

> I hope you feel well and happy. I very often think of you. I wish, indeed, I were your little dog. Lucky little creature he is. Why do you refuse me your photograph, when you could make me so happy.

The baron and the actress originally met at Nice, where Miss Millar was staying with a companion, and after they got back to town she lunched with him occasionally, and once or twice he had tea at her house, in the very room—the actress' boudoir—in which von Holzhausen eventually shot himself. These meetings, however, took place at long intervals, and there was always a third person present—though the third person never happened to be Miss Millar's husband—in fact, through it all, the singer seems to have acted pretty well. She says that she considered von Holzhausen only a romantic boy, and toward the end thought he had got over his infatuation for her. It is true that he once or twice spoke dramatically of "ending it all with a pistol," and, a few days before his suicide, wrote the actress that he was absolutely ruined, but, as his letter was written on the stationary of a fashionable hotel, and as she had seen him in the front row of the stalls at the theater that afternoon, she took his statement with several grains of salt.

His Allowance Cut-Off—"Broke."

As a matter of fact the young German aristocrat was genuinely "broke." His relatives had finally cut off his allowance owing to his continuous refusal to come home and perform his military service, and at the time of his death his hotel bill was two weeks overdue and he had been asked rather peremptorily to pay up. Evidently he was more in love than ever with the actress, too, and her indifference to him preyed on his mind. In his last note to Gertie Millar, this young fellow of 24, wrote "I am absolutely done. I have been backing horses, too, and at last I am utterly worn out, like an old man."

What the young man's object was in gaining entrance to the actress' boudoir at 8 o'clock in the morning has not been satisfactorily explained. It has been suggested that perhaps he expected to find her there and meant to shoot her before killing himself, but it seems more likely that this noble invertebrate merely wanted the morbid satisfaction of dying under the loved one's roof. At the time he shot himself the Gayety star and her husband were sleeping the sleep of the just on the floor above. Von Holzhausen gained entrance to Miss Millar's boudoir by breaking a window at the back of the house and then raising it after drawing the catch.

Took Off Boots, Shot Himself.

Then he seems to have removed his boots and stretched himself at full length on the floor, for a servant, entering the room in order to air it, was frightened by seeing a pair of stockinged feet appearing from behind the piano. Another glance showed her that a man was lying there, and, thinking that he was a burglar, the frightened domestic rushed upstairs to alarm her master and mistress. She had barely reached the second floor when a revolver shot pealed through the house and awakened every one in it. Lionel Monckton, told by the servant what had taken place, had the door of the boudoir locked instantly and sent for the police as well as for a neighboring surgeon. They found von Holzhausen with a revolver clutched in his hand and a wound in his temple from which blood was issuing. Removed to the nearest hospital he died in the course of the morning. At the inquest yesterday the jury brought in a unanimous verdict of self-murder. The baron's aristocratic family were communicated with immediately after his death, but have not been heard from at this writing. Unless they arrange for some other disposition of the body it will be buried here in unconsecrated ground.

GETS OFF EASY FOR HIS MOST PECULIAR PRANK

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Harry A. Leonard, the broker's clerk, who, on September 26, got securities valued at $359,000 from the National City bank on a forged certified check, drawn on the Hanover National bank, was today sentenced to Elmira reformatory by Judge McMahon in general sessions.

Young Leonard pleaded guilty to forgery in the second degree. His lawyer, Abraham Levy, submitted to the judge scores of letters from friends of the youth's father and family, testifying as to his previous good character.

"At the most," Mr. Levy told Judge McMahon, "it was only a boyish prank. The firm by whom he was employed give him a good character and are ready to reemploy him. He lacked criminal intent in what he did, as was shown by the return of the securities within 24 hours after they had been secured from the bank."

Judge McMahon, in sentencing Leonard, said that he had given the case considerable attention, and was satisfied that in the future the defendant would lead an honest life.

SIXTY-EIGHT KILLED IN A MINE COLLAPSE

KENYON STUDENTS ARE ABSOLVED FROM BLAME

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 13.—President William E. Pierce of Kenyon college was in Columbus today conferring with Attorney T. P. Linn and the Rev. John Hewitt, trustees of the institution, concerning the death of Stuart Pierson. In a signed statement, issued by President Pierce, he absolves the students from any charge of misdoing.

MOUNT VERNON, O., Nov. 13.—The grand jury will probably not reach its investigation of the death of Stuart Pierson for three or four days. An unusually large amount of business is to come before that body at its sitting, and several cases will probably be disposed of before the Pierson case is reached.

Following their consideration of the Pierson case, the grand jury will, it is said, investigate the robbery of J. A. McGavery of Oklahoma, who was found bound and gagged in his room in Bexley hall at Kenyon college yesterday. Robbery it is believed was not the motive for the crime. It is believed McGavery gave information to the coroner which led to the verdict in the Pierson case, and that the outrage upon him was in retaliation.

GAIN 1,000 NEW MEMBERS.

Christian Pastors Announce Many Accessions Since Present Revival Began.

Ministers Hold Usual Meetings.

At the regular weekly meeting of the Christian Ministerial association yesterday morning in the old Third Presbyterian church, reports were heard regarding accessions since the revival and figures show that 1,000 new members have been received since the simultaneous evangelistic services began among the 43 churches in this district.

Presbyterian clergymen were addressed by the Rev. J. Hamilton of Utah, a missionary among the Mormons, who declared that notwithstanding contradictions, polygamy was still being practiced in the Mormon field. The Rev. Charles Stelzle of the department of church and labor of Presbyterian home missions, also addressed the Presbyterian ministers. He is attending the American Federation of Labor convention.

"Oxygen and Its Properties" was discussed by Prof. F. M. McGaw before the Methodist Episcopal pastors and interesting experiments were shown. The Rev. Dr. B. F. Woodburn addressed Baptist ministers and the Rev. L. E. Davis spoke on "Evidences of Documentary Editorship of the Old Testament" before Methodist Protestant ministers. "Socialism" was the subject of an address to the United Presbyterian pastors by Prof. H. W. Temple, in which he opposed government and municipal ownership of railroads and industries. "The Russian Church" was discussed before the Lutheran clergy by the Rev. Dr. John Weidley.

Denies Dowie Is Ill.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Deputy Overseer John Speicher of Zion City declared this morning that the reports of the alarming illness of Overseer Dowie are unfounded. STEEL WORKERS WILL STILL BE PRIVILEGED TO BUY STOCK

Big Corporation Will Probably Give Employes Opportunity to Invest in More of the Preferred Class—Plan Is Working Successfully.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Some time ago the impression prevailed that the 175,000 employes of the United States Steel Corporation would not be offered preferred stock this year, but there appears to have been a change in sentiment and the committee in charge will probably announce the continuation of the plan at a meeting to be held within the next few weeks.

In connection with the reports that the employes of the corporation would not be given an opportunity to subscribe owing to the high price commanded by the stock in the market the following official statement was issued from the offices of the United States Steel Corporation:

"The preferred stock will probably be offered as usual, although the question has not yet been considered by the committee."

The price fixed for the preferred stock at the close of 1904 was $87 50, when it was selling around 93. It would seem from this that in the event of the market price of the preferred stock being maintained above par the employes will not be given an opportunity to subscribe for the stock on such advantageous terms as last year.

Under the 1904 offer subscriptions were received from nearly 9,000 employes, for a total of about 18,000 shares.

According to the last annual report of the corporation for the first three years during which the stock subscription plan was in force there was received 44,700 subscriptions for an aggregate of 97,168 shares.

SOCIETY

ALTHOUGH it was characterized as small, the musicale given last evening by the Hon. and Mrs. H. Kirke Porter was one of the most brilliant and beautiful affairs of the season. "Oak Manor," the magnificent home of the host and hostess, was thrown open to the guests. Mrs. Porter and the feminine members of her house party, which included Mr. and Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bailey Aldrich and Talbot Aldrich, received the guests, the hostess wearing an exquisitely dainty toilette of white. The receiving party stood in the handsome drawing room and as the guests were welcomed they passed through the library to the ball room adjoining where the seats were arranged in rows for the musicale. The ball room is a notably beautiful apartment with walls hung with valuable paintings. It was here and in the gallery on the second floor that the guests were seated. "Oak Manor" needs no floral decoration to offset its beauty, but last evening a few vases and jars of American Beauty and kaiserine roses graced the various apartments. The table in the dining room had a centerpiece of white roses, while the dark library was brightened with the red blooms. They were also used in the spacious Elizabethan hall where the stairs are of handsomely and heavily carved oak. The program which was given by the Von Kunits quartet, including Luigi Von Kunits, Leo Altman, Jean de Backer, Henry Bramsen, with Severin O. Frank at the piano, was a most delightful one and thoroughly enjoyed by all the guests. It included Mozart's quartet in B flat major, "Allegro vivace assai, Menuetto, Adagio and Allegro assai;" three movements Adagio sostenuto-Presto, Andante con Variazioni and Finale (Presto) from Beethoven's Kreutzer Sonata and two movements, Adagio molto and Finale (Allegro molto vivace) from quartet in A major by Schumann. The "Oak Manor" house guests leave for their homes this morning. They have been much interested in Pittsburgh since arriving here last week. The various industrial works have been visited, the parks have been automobiled and a tour of the outlying towns up the Allegheny valley has been made.

DuBarry-Patton.

Miss Willa DuBarry and William John Patton were married at 7 o'clock last evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. DuBarry, in Penn avenue. The Rev. Dr. W. P. Shrom, pastor emeritus of the Fourth Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony, the bridal couple being attended by a maid of honor and best man. Miss Mary DuBarry and Clay Sprecher. The party also included the ushers, Harry Wilson and Samuel DuBarry. The bride was gowned in white crepe de angelis with rose point lace, in her hair was an aigrette and a cluster of roses, a shower of which flowers and lilies of the valley she carried, while her only ornament was a pearl pin, Mr. Patton's wedding gift. Miss DuBarry wore a gown of white linen trimmed in a decidedly Frenchy style with valenciennes lace. She carried a bouquet of maidenhair fern and lavender orchids. Mr. and Mrs. DuBarry received with the bridal couple following the ceremony, Mrs. DuBarry wearing a toilette of white chiffon cloth. White chrysanthemums were used throughout the house in the decorations. The entire front of the parlor was banked high with palms and ferns, with standards of white blooms to form the background, while on the mantel and in the fireplace were smaller plants. The library chandelier was prettily shaded with white mums and the bookcases were banked. The bridal table occupied the dining-room and covers were laid for the bridal party and Dr. and Mrs. Shrom, Mr. and Mrs. DuBarry, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Patton, Mrs. James Coley and Mrs. Samuel Nelson. The centerpiece was formed of the prevailing flowers and above it fell a chandelier shower of the flowers on tulle ribbons, the chandelier being decorated with tulle bows and flowers. Mrs. Elizabeth M. Simonin and her son, Henry Simonin, of Philadelphia, were among the out-of-town guests at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Patton are now on their wedding trip and upon their return will live with Mr. and Mrs. DuBarry until their own home in McPherson boulevard is ready for occupancy.

Jones, Mrs. Harry W. Gieffer, Mrs. H. S. Stewart, Mrs. Edward Enzer Baker, Miss Katherine Cox and Mrs. William C. Coffin. Yellow chrysanthemums adorned the weathered oak hall, the flowers contrasting in a pleasing manner with the red walls and hangings of the apartment. The lights are arranged in groups of bell-shaped globes on the walls and in the ceiling. The lights in the mahogany-furnished and green-walled drawing-room are equally attractive, being small oblong affairs made of tiny round crystal drops. Pink chrysanthemums formed the decorations in the living room, while in the dining-room in the rear were yellow chrysanthemums. Small clusters of grapes shade the ceiling lights and these last evening were draped in autumn leaves. The rooms on the second floor are especially dainty, one being furnished in blue, another in yellow and a third in pink, while connecting with them are handsome marble baths.

The guests of honor were their daughter, Miss Harriet Matthews Nimick, and her fiance, W. J. Malcolm Dyer of Philadelphia, whose wedding will be an event of this evening at the Schenley. The guests last evening included the members of the bridal party, Miss Mary K. Nimick, Mrs. Edward Clay West, Jr., Miss Jean Bunton, Miss Charlotte Overend, Frank A. Booth, Harry Walker and Joseph Shellenberg, the last three of Philadelphia.

Sneed, pastor of the East Liberty Presbyterian church, as officiant. Miss Annabelle Mohn will be her sister's only attendant.

Wonders of a Modern Factory

Machinery Does the Work of Human Hands and the Perfect Food Is Made in Absolute Cleanliness.

A visit to the greatest modern food factory is a revelation to anyone not familiar with the development of machinery in recent years. Such a visit verifies the claims of the manufacturers of Malta-Vita, that this perfect wholewheat food is cooked, steamed, mixed, baked and packed in absolute cleanliness.

"Purity" is the watchword of this wonderful establishment. From the time this wheat is received in the factory until the finished product is shipped out to all parts of the world, Malta-Vita is not soiled by human hands. Machinery, clean, shining machinery, conveys the wheat through all the long process, even to the packing and sealing of the air-tight, germproof, dirtproof packages.

After the wheat has been thoroughly cooked and steamed it is mixed with pure barley malt extract and each grain of the malted wheat is rolled into a wafer-like flake. Then it goes to the great ovens where, under intense heat, it is baked crisp and brown—Malta-Vita, the most delicious, the most healthful food in the world.

Malta-Vita is always ready to eat. No cooking. No inconvenience. And you never tasted anything quite so good. Try a bowlful with cream or fruit. To those who have used it and know how delicious and sustaining Malta-Vita is, a perfect breakfast is next to impossible without it, and it's just as good three times a day. All grocers sell Malta-Vita now at 10 cents per package.

ANTI-GAMBLING LAW SUSTAINED

SUPREME COURT DECISIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Ohio anti-gambling statute was upheld in an opinion handed down in the supreme court of the United States today by Justice Peckham in the case of William Mervin vs. Belle Trout. The case involved the constitutionality of Section 4273 of the Revised Statutes of Ohio, authorizing any person who loses money at gambling to bring suit for its recovery. Mrs. Trout is the wife of Frank Trout and Marvin, the owner of the building in Findlay, O., in which Frank Trout is alleged to have lost $5,082 on one occasion and $1,794 on another. Mrs. Trout sued under the state law to recover and was given judgment by the trial court. That judgment was sustained by the state supreme court and to-day's opinion confirmed the decision of both of these courts.

After reviewing the case at some length and citing the gambling laws of Ohio, Justice Peckham said:

The power of the state to enact laws to suppress gambling cannot be doubted, and as a means to that end we have no doubt of its power to provide that the owner of a building in which gambling is conducted, who knowingly looks on and permits such gambling, can be made liable in his property which is thus used to pay a judgment against those who won the money as is provided in the statute in question.

The plain object of this legislation is to discourage and if possible prevent gambling. The liability of the owner of the building to make good the loss sustained, under the circumstances set forth in the statute, was clearly part of the means resorted to by the legislature for the purpose of suppressing the evil in the interest of the public morals and welfare. We are aware of no provision in the federal constitution which prevents this kind of legislation in a state for such a purpose.

The supreme court reversed the decision of the Kentucky court of appeals in the case of the Union Refrigerator Transit company vs. the Commonwealth of Kentucky, holding that the cars owned by the company and used in other states cannot be taxed in that state even though it be a Kentucky corporation.

That a state statute of limitation cannot be used to protect a stockholder of a failed national bank against liability on his stock was today decided by the supreme court of the United States in an opinion delivered by Justice McKenna in the case of George C. Rankin, receiver of the Hutchinson National bank of Hutchinson, Kas., vs. Edward E. Barton, a stockholder in the bank.

LIGHTS OUT, DOORS SHUT IN THE LOWER AVENUES

The entire First ward was a very decent locality last night and all through the early morning hours, so far as outward appearances went, all the disorderly houses in the lower avenues were closed up tight. The houses shut down by order of Police Superintendent "Buck" Wallace seemed to vie with those closed by Constable "Buttsy" Joyce in keeping shutters drawn and front doors closed, observing quietude within and refusing to admit visitors.

Just how long these abnormal conditions will last the proprietresses confess they do not know, but they have hopes. Their demoralized standpoint precludes the idea of morality in the action of either "Buck" or "Buttsy," and the women actually say the closing down resulted from politics.

"We were told when we were closed up by 'Buttsy' that we might have to keep closed until after the February election," said one woman to inquirers early this morning, "but I don't believe that it is that bad. Do you?" she asked anxiously.

At 2 a. m. the ward was very quiet, for the usual visitors to the district had learned that the feud between "Buck" and "Buttsy" was still on. Efforts to patch up a truce are being made. Mayor Hays and Director Harry Moore have been appealed to to try to reason with Wallace, and men have written to Alderman Toole, who controls the ward and who is in the east, that Joyce ought to be called down; that his response to Wallace's invasion of the alderman's ward was too drastic.

Wallace says he will keep closed the houses he did shut down until the men supported by the women in them either go to work, starve or leave town; Joyce says he will keep the other houses closed up tight until Wallace removes the ban.

CROWDS GREET LECTURER.

Illustrated Talk on Constantinople by Prof. Raymond Delights University Extension Society.

Jerome Hall Raymond, Ph. D., associate professor of sociology of the University of Chicago, delivered the first of a series of "Lecture-studies on European Capitals and Their Social Significance," in the auditorium of the First United Presbyterian church, Fifth avenue, last evening.

The church was filled to overflowing with the largest crowd that has attended any of the lectures this season, over 1,300 paid admissions being recorded.

"Constantinople: Despotism and Disintegration," was the subject the lecturer discussed, and the various stages of the journey through the city at the present time. The characteristics of the inhabitants were minutely described and their few points of strength as well as their many weaknesses thoroughly exploited.

The second lecture of the series, "St. Petersburg: Autocracy and Nihilism," will be given next Monday night, in the same church at 8 o'clock.

Explains Findings of Torso.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 13.—Mystery surrounding the finding of the headless and limbless body of a man on a garbage dump was cleared up today by Dr. A. E. Skeet, dean of the Cleveland College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Skeet told the police the torso had been placed on the dump by the college janitor, who was ordered to cremate parts of bodies left in the dissecting room.

Homestead Citizens Go Armed.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER FOR PITTSBURGH MAIL TUBES

Postoffice Department Officials Expect the Next Session of Congress to Provide Pneumatic Service for This City.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The postoffice department officials are hopeful of legislation being passed at the next session of congress which will authorize the extension of pnuematic tube service to Pittsburgh. They did not hesitate to express this opinion to Assistant Postmaster G. A. Holliday of Pittsburgh, who called at the department today. This opinion is based on the general demand from other cities of the same class as Pittsburgh for pnaumatic tube service. Influential commercial bodies are bringing pressure to bear upon Postmaster General Cortelyou and it is thought that he will recommend the required legislation in his annual report.

Mr. Holliday, while at the department presented the needs of Pittsburgh for additional postoffice help. He urged that owing to the growth of the business of the office shown in the increase in receipts and the many large office buildings that are being built, Pittsburgh is in need of additional carriers and clerks. Pittsburgh is the ninth postoffice in the country in the amount of business done, and, proportionately, it is the most economically conducted. Last year the gross postal receipts there were $1,622,343.16, and the cost of running the office was $254,-663.06. It is probable that the clerks asked for will be allowed.

Mr. Holliday came to Washington on account of the injuries his brother, G. L. Holliday, Jr., received in a football game at Gallaudet college where he is a student. While it was reported at Pittsburgh that his injuries were very serious his brother found that there is nothing alarming in his condition. He is now able to be about on crutches.

SENDS COMMITTEE TO MEET WITH RIVER MEN

Pittsburgh Board of Trade Will Have Representation at Convention in Cairo.

The directors of the Pittsburgh board of trade last night appointed a committee, consisting of A. G. Roenigk and Dr. Rodger Williams, to attend the meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement association at Cairo, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The committee leaves today for Cincinnati, where they will meet with other members of the association, and will leave on a special car for Cairo late in the evening, arriving at Cairo Wednesday morning.

It was decided at last night's meeting to appoint a committee, which is to communicate with Gov. Pennypacker and ascertain the character of the legislation to be brought up at the special session. President T. D. Harman will make the appointments today.

A committee of three attorneys, W. S. Miller, J. H. Harrison and Chauncey Lobingier, was appointed to investigate the reports regarding the service rendered by the electric light and gas companies, and if it is found that they are not fulfilling their contracts to the letter the committee will take action through the courts.

Plans for a banquet to be held in January were discussed, and it was learned that Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks had accepted an invitation to be one of the speakers.

At the regular meeting to be held next Monday night 61 new members will be elected and 32 new applicants will be considered.

ART SOCIETY OPENS 33RD SEASON WITH CONCERT

A large audience assembled at Pittsburgh Carnegie Music hall last evening to hear a quartet composed of Madame Shotwell-Piper, Mme. Katherine Fisk, Kelly Cole and David Bispham, sing a "Shakespeare Song Cycle," by Grace Wessall, and a miscellaneous program. The occasion was the first reception of the Art society's thirty-third season, numerically the 316th reception.

The song cycle was composed by a Chicago woman who is quite gifted melodiously, and who has modern tendencies harmonically. The cycle is more involved and rather more pretentious than the "Persian Garden" setting which enjoyed such vogue a few years since; it has variety of treatment without undue straining after effect, and the treatment of the voices is usually commendable.

The quartet is scarcely ideal for the cycle, and the blending of the voices leaves much to be desired. Mr. Bispham was the star of the evening and was heard at his best in the classic songs in the second part of the program. Mr. Cole, the tenor, was hardly adequate to all the demands in the cycle, but sang a Scotch ballad in the miscellaneous program exceedingly well, and is to be thanked for introducing to Pittsburgh audiences an excellent song, "Salomo," by Hans Hermann.

Mme. Fisk's voice showed signs of wear, and Mme. Shotwell-Piper failed to make a serious impression. Ethel Cave-Cole was a capable accompanist, and added much to the pleasure of the cycle. A misunderstanding in regard to the Pittsburgh program led to some changes in the songs originally announced for the second part of the program, but the substitutions were entirely satisfactory, particularly the charming "Who Knows?" by Max Heinrich, sung by Mr. Bispham.

GIVES UP THE FRONTAGE.

In the face of the opposition of residents of the borough as expressed at an indignation meeting and ignoring a resolution presented by citizens requesting that action be postponed until the matter had been decided by the courts or put to a vote of the people, Sharpsburg councilmen last night finally passed the railroad ordinance granting to the Pennsylvania railroad almost the entire river frontage of the borough and vacating four streets and several alleys in order that the railroad company may build railroad yards and car shops in which it is said over 1,000 men will be employed.

In consideration of these privileges the Pennsylvania company will pay the borough $75,000, build a paved wharf of 500 feet frontage, and if they find it necessary to use the land now occupied by the borough water works, will purchase that also.

Six of the seven councilmen present voted for the ordinance, and the only opposition was that of Councilman W. C. Tibby, who has fought the ordinance since its first inception, and did not hesitate to express himself last night in an appeal for the rights of the people against the encroachment of an outside corporation.

Mrs. Willie K. Perkin Dead.

Mrs. Willie K. Perkin, aged 62, widow of Frank A. Perkin, died yesterday at her home, 212 Dinwiddie street, after five days' illness of pneumonia. She was born in Maryland and lived in Meadville after her marriage until the death of her husband 22 years ago. She had been a resident of this city for 15 years, and is survived by a son, W. L. Perkin, general manager of the United States Merchants and Manufacturers' association, and a daughter, Miss Margaret Perkin, at home. Funeral services will be held at her late residence tonight at 8 o'clock, and interment will be at Venango.

Big Order for Elevators.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse Company has awarded one of the largest contracts ever negotiated for freight elevators. The contract, which was allotted to the Otis Elevator Company, calls for no fewer than 44 elevators of 6,000 pounds lifting capacity each. Each car will run about 100 feet.

Will Discuss Organized Labor.

THE BANNER YEAR FOR WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

"I have no hesitancy in stating that the business of the months already past in the present year have broken records, and that beyond doubt 1905 is the banner year in the company's history," was the statement made by Second Vice President Frank H. Taylor of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, in his address yesterday morning to the annual convention of the company's district managers.

The convention opened at 10 o'clock in the general offices at East Pittsburgh. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held daily until Friday. Friday evening at the Duquesne club there will be a banquet to wind up the gathering.

R. L. Warner, New England manager of the company, was chairman of the opening session, and First Vice President E. M. Herr, delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the company. Then came Mr. Taylor's address from which the quotation above is made. In the afternoon W. M. McFarland, acting vice president, delivered an address and F. H. Shepherd of New York, read a paper on "The Westinghouse Single-Phase Electric Railway System."

Among those at the convention are: C. S. Powell, New York; C. Pantaleoni, St. Louis; T. P. Gaylord, Chicago; T. J. McGill, Minneapolis; C. W. Underwood, Buffalo; J. R. Gordon, Atlanta; L. M. Cargo, Denver; W. W. Briggs, San Francisco; C. A. Bragg, Philadelphia; H. H. Seabrook, Baltimore; G. B. Dusenberre, Cleveland; C. W. Regester, Cincinnati; M. P. Randolph, Seattle, and J. E. Johnson, Dallas.

Mercer Teachers' Institute Opens.

SHARON, PA., Nov. 13.—(Special.)—The Mercer County Teachers' institute opened at Mercer this morning with about 300 teachers in attendance. The sessions will continue until Friday. The address of welcome was delivered by Attorney W. G. Barker, and the response was made by Prof. Edwards. Dr. Nathan C. Schaffer, state superintendent of instruction, delivered an address.

Spotted Fever Again Appears.

Helen Kalbach, aged 5 years, a daughter of Charles Kalbach, chief clerk in the office of the bureau of health, died Saturday at her parents' home in Colsden street of spinal meningitis. She had been ill 36 hours. It is the first case reported since last spring, although City Physician Booth says there is another case in the city which has not yet been reported by the physician.

THE GOOD THINGS OF EARTH

Are Not All Far-Fetched.

That our American forests abound in plants, the roots of which possess the most valuable medicinal and curative virtues, is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers of our age. Even the untutored Indians had, by intuition and experiment, discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race on this continent. This information, crude though it was, imparted freely to the friendlier of the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots and herbs.

It is no longer thought necessary that a medicinal agent, in order to be good and useful, must have been brought across the ocean or that "being carried seven times across the Sahara Desert on the backs of fourteen camels" makes it the more valuable.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most of our obstinate and most fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and, in confirmation of this firm conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of leucorrhea, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines had failed.

Both these world-famed medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots, found in our American forests. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each of their wrappers. They are both made of such native, medicinal roots as have received the strongest endorsement and praise for their curative virtues from the most prominent writers on Materia Medica in this country. What is said of their power to cure the several diseases for which they are advised may be easily learned by sending your name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little booklet which he has compiled, containing copious extracts from numerous standard medical books, which are consulted as authorities by physicians of the several schools of practice for their guidance in prescribing. It is FREE TO ALL. A postal card request will bring it.

You don't have to rely solely upon the manufacturer's say-so as to the power of Dr. Pierce's medicines to cure, as with other medicines sold through druggists. You have the disinterested testimony of a host of the leading medical writers and teachers. Send for this copious testimony. It can be relied upon to be truthful because it is entirely disinterested.

From the little booklet above mentioned you will learn what a marvelous curative action Stone root, one of the prominent ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, exercises over the heart and its diseases, especially those valvular affections which are attended with difficult breathing, smothered sensations, palpitation or irregular heart action. Dr. Paine, author of Paine's Epitomy of Medicine, considered Stone root specific in these cases, and cites bad cases cured by it in his extensive practice. Golden Seal root, another prominent ingredient of Dr. Pierce's "Discovery," is also a valuable heart tonic, as is also Black Cherrybark, another ingredient. You will also learn that the eminent Drs. Hale, Ellingwood, Johnson, Hare, Coe and others recommend Golden Seal root, and several of them Stone root, Queen's root, Bloodroot and Black Cherrybark for bronchial, throat and lung affections attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, night-sweats and kindred symptoms indicating approaching consumption. All these agents are faithfully and fully represented in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and it can be confidentially relied upon to produce their combined curative effects, not only in the above mentioned affections, but also in all catarrhal diseases, no matter whether affecting the nasal passages or other regions of the body.

In nasal catarrh, while relying on the "Discovery" as the best constitutional remedy known to medical science, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy should be used to cleanse the nasal passages. Together they constitute the most thorough and effective course of treatment which can be employed for the cure of that troublesome disease.

No other medicines sold through druggists for like purposes, have any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's, and, in consequence, none are so largely prescribed by physicians who know what they are made of and that their composition is of the best ingredients regardless of cost. Send for the little free book now.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" must not be expected to produce miracles. While it is especially suited for the cure of all chronic, lingering coughs that are curable, it is not so effective in acute colds and coughs unless slippery elm mucilage, flaxseed tea, solution of gum arabic, or other mucilaginous demulcent be drank freely in connection with its use. Nor must the "Discovery" be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages. In its early stages it will stay its progress and often effect a cure if its use be persisted in for a reasonable length of time. Send for the little book noted above and learn what those most eminent in the medical profession say of the ingredients out of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are made and thereby learn why they cure obstinate diseases.

Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness, sick and bilious headache, dizziness, costiveness, or constipation of the bowels, loss of appetite, coated tongue, sour stomach, windy belchings, "heart-burn," pain and distress after eating, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Put up in glass vials, tightly corked, therefore always fresh and reliable. One little "Pellet" is a laxative, two are cathartic. They regulate, invigorate and cleanse the liver, stomach and bowels.

A good medical book, written in plain English, and free from technical terms, is a valuable work for frequent consultation. Such a work is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in plain English, or Medicine Simplified. It's a book of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated with wood cuts and colored plates. It is given away now, although formerly sold in cloth binding for $1.50. Send 21 cents, in one-cent stamps, to pay for cost of mailing only for paper-covered copy, addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.; or 31 cents for an elegantly cloth-bound copy. It gives over 200 prescriptions for the treatment of acute and chronic ailments.

FEAR BLOW AGAINST CUBAN GOVERNMENT

HAVANA, Nov. 13.—It is believed that the government fears a coup d'etat, as the number of police at the palace has recently been trebled and for the last two nights the policemen have been compelled to sleep on the palace floor.

Statements which could not be verified were made tonight regarding an alleged plot against the life of Freye Andrade, secretary of the interior. The would-be assassins, according to the story, intended to waylay the secretary on his farm, but their plans miscarried. The secret police believe there is some ground for the story and are making an investigation.

The Liberal congressmen today formally notified the leaders of the Moderate or Misalistation party that they would not consent to the postponement until after election of the proposed discussion into the circumstances surrounding the killing of Congressman Enrique Villuendas at Cienfuegos, September 22. The Liberals desire to discuss the affair on alternate days. The Moderates would be willing to make such an arrangement if the Liberals promised not to attack the government. The Liberals, however, refuse to give such a promise.

GIRLS WANT MEN BACK.

Shirtmakers Quit Work Because Male Employes Are Not Asked to Return.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—A peculiar strike went into effect today at the shirt-making establishment of Tutelman Bros. & Faggen, when 500 girls decided to quit work because the firm has virtually discharged 200 male employes. Last Tuesday about 100 girls employed on buttonholes and sleeves stopped work because the firm refused their demand for more pay. Instead of granting the demand, it is said, the firm suspended the remaining 400 seamstresses and the 200 male employes with the ultimatum that they could return to work only upon inducing the 100 striking girls to resume.

This arrangement did not meet with the approval of the strikers. On Saturday the firm notified all the female employes to return to work this morning. This notice, the girls say, was not sent to the men and all members of Shirtmakers' local union No. 67 decided to quit.

TURN IN FALSE ALARMS.

Boys Admit to Calling Out the Department and Are Lectured and Fined by Burgess.

Raymond Gallagher, aged 15; William Siefert, aged 13, of Edgewood, and Walter James, aged 14, of Wilkinsburg, were arraigned before Burgess Thorp of Edgewood last night charged with raising a false alarm of fire on October 30. It appeared that for two months the fire department had been annoyed by false alarms. Ordinance Officer John Montford and Constable Charles Miles were detailed by the fire commissioners to look out for the offenders.

Officer Montford, on the information of a person living in the neighborhood from which the false alarm was sent in, arrested Gallagher and he implicated the two other boys. At the hearing the boys admitted their guilt and after a severe lecture from the burgess on the seriousness of the offense they were permitted to go on payment of the minimum fine of $5.

The formation of a holding company to unite the interests of a number of Eastern stockholders in the Philadelphia Company is the plan back of the recent dealings in the stock, which have sent the common to a figure never attained since the company's present capital was authorized. In this plan Ladenburg, Thalman & Co., the New York bankers and brokers, are united with certain Philadelphia interests, it is stated.

So far as known the plan does not involve as yet the complete ownership of the big Pittsburgh public service corporation. It may be that an offer will be made to the outside holders of Philadelphia Company shares to turn over their stock at about the figure it is bringing now.

The plan does not directly affect the operation of the Philadelphia Company, except that it unites with it a strong interest which will be in a position to furnish additional capital as the company needs it for extensions and improvements above those that come out of maintenance. The holding company would be in a position to take additional stock, issued as the Pittsburgh concern needs the money.

In a telegram to The Gazette from New York last evening it was stated that an official announcement of the plan will be made within a few days. It was given on semi-official authority that the present market valuation of the stock, several points above par, will be the basis of the deal.

Labor and the Church.

Charles Stelzle of Chicago, superintendent of the department of church and labor, under the direction of the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, addressed the Men's club of Calvary Presbyterian church, Braddock, last evening. There was a large attendance. The Rev. J. F. Clokey, pastor of the church and president of the club, presided. Mr. Stelzle said that the problem of today was not to try to tear down labor organization, but to make it as good and conservative as possible.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL.

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

MARKETS ARE ACTIVE, PRICES UNCHANGED

Demand for Celery Is Very Good and a Large Quantity Is Being Sold---Apples Firm.

Markets were fairly active yesterday and demand on certain articles was good. Perhaps the best seller at present is celery, which is in good supply and the stock medium.

Apples are about holding their own, with the prices the same, although an advance is looked for at any time. Grapes are just about off the market. Cranberries took an advance yesterday, but they are still selling well, with a good supply.

There has been no change in the price of potatoes for several days and the sales continue to be heavy for goods of the best grade. Southern sweet potatoes are also in good demand, with a fair stock.

Butter took an advance of ½c all around on the advices received last evening from Elgin. Cheese is remaining firm and no further advance is looked for, as the price is as high now as it has ever been on the local market.

MONEY STRINGENCY SENDS WHEAT LOWER

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Stringency in the money market in New York was mainly responsible for a moderate break today in grain prices here. At the close wheat for May delivery was off 5@5½. Corn was down ⅝@¾. Oats showed a loss of ¼. Provisions were unchanged.

The wheat market was weak throughout the greater portion of the day. At the opening May was ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher at 88¼ to 88⅝. Outside news generally was favorable to a decline and as a consequence there was free selling by commission houses and pit traders. Weekly statistics furnished a portion of the selling incentive. World's shipments were large, and the amount of breadstuffs on passage showed an increase of 2,096,000 bushels for the week. The domestic situation gave additional encouragement to the bears. Receipts of wheat in the northwest was liberal, and the weather throughout the spring wheat territory was favorable for the movement of the new crop. Selling, however, was temporarily checked by a cablegram from Argentina, claiming that the wheat crop there was damaged by cold, wet weather. On buying orders, created by this dispatch, the price of May option touched 88¾ soon after the opening. Shortly afterward there was a sharp break and the price of May dropped to 87⅛. The decline was accompanied by increased selling on the part of commission houses and pit traders. The high prices for call money on Wall street were said to be the principal cause of the renewed break in prices. During the last half hour covering by shorts caused a slight rally. The market also received moderate support from a prominent bull. The close was easy with May at 87⅝@88. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 167,000 bushels. The visible supply increased 1,828,000 bushels. Primary receipts were 1,548,000 bushels, compared with 1,296,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 1,386 cars against 1,345 cars last week and 1,000 one year ago.

Weakness prevailed in the corn market throughout the day. Soon after the opening a leading long made a pretense of supporting the market, but later in the session there were evidences of free selling by this same trader. Commission house liquidation was general, and there was also some selling against cash corn bought in the country. The money market at New York, which affected the wheat market, also slackened demand from exporters and prices weakened accordingly. Excellent weather for the movement of the new crop lent additional weakness to the market. The close was near the lowest point of the day. May opened a shade to ⅛ lower at 45⅝@45¾, to 45¾, sold to 44⅞ and closed at 45¼c. Local receipts were 474 cars with 11 of contract grade.

Oats shared in the general weakness, prices for all deliveries showing a moderate loss. A feature of the trading was heavy profit-taking by a leading bull. Demand was confined to shorts and shippings. May opened to ⅛ higher at 32¼@32⅜, sold off to 31⅞ and closed at 32c.

Provisions were firm early in the session on fairly active demand. As trading advanced, however, offerings increased in volume, while the demand fell off. As a result prices eased off somewhat. Weakness of grain was an influential factor. The market closed with May pork unchanged at $12 77½. Lard unchanged at $7 02½. Ribs up a shade at $6 77½@6 80. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 299 cars; corn, 289 cars; oats, 320 cars; hogs, 24,000 head.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

BUTTE, MONT., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—The Butte district in October produced 28,617,520 pounds of copper, worth, on a 16-cent market, $4,562,803 20. The bi-products of gold and silver amount to 2½ cents for each pound of copper, a total of $712,938, or a grand total value of the copper, gold and silver products of $5,275,735 20. There was an increase of 1,547,520 pounds over the September copper production. The ore tonnage, tha yield per ton and the total yield for the month is shown in the following table:

*Washoe	24,800	72	1,785,600
North Butte	19,220	145	2,790,000

*Amalgamated.

The total output of the Amalgamated companies was 18,861,020 pounds, and the output of the Washoe smelter, which treats the ores of the Anaconda, Parrot, Washoe, Butte and Boston, Trenton and North Butte companies, was 15,972,400 pounds.

The daily output of ore and copper yield averaged as follows for the month:

Boston and Montana	2,580	183,180
Trenton	600	39,000
North Butte	620	90,000
United Copper	1,500	97,500

Boston and Montana lost about 10,000 tons in ore production during the month because the Great Northern Railroad Company could not supply sufficient cars to transport the ore from Butte to the smelter at Great Falls.

The North Butte is still mining only very high-grade ore, owing to the expense and trouble of hoisting through a neighboring shaft while its own shaft is being rebuilt. When the hoist is completed the grade of ore mined will be reduced, but the tonnage will be nearly doubled.

The new Pittsburgh and Montana Company has joined the regular producers and made its first shipment of copper a few days ago.

There was a material increase in the tonnage of the Anaconda, North Butte and United Copper. The miscellaneous list received increased contributions from the mines comprised within the options of the new East Butte Mining Company.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The London tin market reported a sharp advance, with spot closing at £151 15s and futures at £151 5s. Locally the market was reported firm, with spot quoted at $33 25@33 45. Copper also was higher abroad, closing at £74 5s for spot and £72 5s for futures. The local market is firm and some dealers are showing a disposition to advance their prices. In general, however, lake is still quoted at $16 37½@16 75, electrolytic at $16 25@16 62½ and casting at $16 00@16 37½. Lead was unchanged at £15 5s in London and continued firm in the general market, with actual spot supplies very scarce. Quotations range at $5 15@5 20. Spelter was unchanged in both markets, closing at £28 10s in London and at $6 10@6 20 in New York. Iron was higher abroad, closing at 52s for standard foundry and 53s 7½d for Cleveland warrants. The local market was firm and unchanged. No. 1 foundry northern is quoted at $18 00@18 50; No. 2 foundry, $18 00@18 50; No. 1 foundry southern, $18 25@18 75; No. 2 foundry southern, $17 75@18 25.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The market showed the effects of tight money today and liquidation was heavy all through the list. A few small rallies were made by short covering, but the market does not look right yet. North Butte holds up in wonderful fashion. Osceola has had a sharp break and ought to be bought around this level. Copper Range furnished considerable activity and only showed a loss of a point. Don't be in a hurry to buy until money gets easier.

Wildcatter Gets Busy Because of Discovery in Brook County

Since the discovery of the Beres grit development, near Wellsburg, Brook county, there has been quite a little wildcatting in that county, but as yet nothing of any consequence has been discovered. The last few wells completed in the Wellsburg field have not been as large as the first and a little digression from the northeast and southwest line has brought dusters. On Short creek, one mile east of the Ohio river, Hubbard & Co. have completed a test on the Wolf heirs' farm and have a duster. This is purely a wildcat, being located some distance from any producing wells. Near Bowmansdale, Marion county, the Hope-Natural Gas Company has drilled its test on the H. G. Brand farm through the fifth sand and has a good gasser at that level. North of Mannington, same county, the South Penn Oil Company is drilling No. 7 on the Sabina Sutton farm to the fifth sand. When drilled through the Gordon and fourth sands nothing was found.

In the Cairo district, Ritchie county, the Clark Oil Company has drilled its No. 17 on the J. & M. Carroll farm through the salt sand and has a duster. In the Folsom district, Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 19 on the A. W. Talkington farm through the Gordon and is now drilling at 47 feet below that formation and has developed a very light show of oil. In the Yellow Creek district, Calhoun county, the Eastern Oil Company's No. 3 on the R. M. Ramsberg farm is holding up at 100 barrels a day and is the only well in the district now producing that amount. Southwest of the district, on the Little Kanawha river, the South Penn Oil Company is due in the sand at No. 2 on the G. W. Silfoot farm.

On Goose creek, Grant district, Ritchie county, the Southern Oil Company is due in the salt sand at a test on the C. Templeton farm. On McKim creek, Lafayette district, Pleasants county, Noah & Co. have drilled their test on the Campbell farm through the Keener and Big Injun and found both formations barren. The well has been pulled out and abandoned. On Rumpletop run, Clay district, Ritchie county, the McKaskie Oil Company has drilled its test on the Campbell farm through the Squaw sand and found nothing.

On Big Sandy creek, Geary district, Roane county, Senators Elkins and McDermott have completed a test on the M. L. Bird farm and have a good gasser. On Big Sandy creek, Walton district, Roane county, Senators Elkins and McDermott have the rig completed for a test on the W. H. Bine farm. On Reedy creek, Reedy district, the Reedy Development Company is drilling a test on the Pierce Six farm.

On the Ohio side, in the Scottown district, Washington county, the Day Oil Company has completed a test on the M. L. McKee farm and has a duster in the Berea grit. In the same district, Muldren & Co. have completed their No. 5 on the Levi Thomas farm and have a show for a 12-barrel pumper in the Big Injun sand. In the Berea development, in Wills creek, Jefferson county, several important test wells, in advance of developments, are due in the sand. Unless some of these tests prove producers there will not be much hope for extending the producing limits of the pool.

B. & O. OFFICERS IN THE CITY

The Wabash is gradually gaining ground in the matter of freight and passenger business out of this district. This is shown in part by the decision to furnish the entire fifth floor of the big new terminal building at Liberty avenue and Ferry street for the accounting, treasury and freight claim departments. Announcement was made by Vice President Worthington yesterday that the law firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey of Cleveland has been appointed general counsel for the Wabash lines east of Toledo, the jurisdiction having become effective November 1.

The accounting, treasury and freight claim departments are now on the fourth floor, but the quarters are too small to accommodate the force. It is expected that this force will have to be enlarged before long on account of the growing business and also because of the opening of connecting lines with the steel mills at Homestead and Clairton within the next couple of months. The terminal freight station is expected to be ready for full service about January 1.

One Local Train to Be Changed.

The official schedules of the various divisions of the Baltimore & Ohio are to be in the hands of the officers in a couple of days. Only one suburban train is to be changed on the Pittsburgh division. This is the Versailles accommodation, No. 25, which will leave at 9 o'clock in the evening instead of 8:30 o'clock. This change was made because of the Baltimore night train, No. 16, being changed from 9 o'clock to 9:30 for the time of departure from Pittsburgh. The latter train will leave Cleveland one hour later on the new schedule. Trains Nos. 5 and 6 will be quickened one and one-half hours between here and Chicago, but they will operate here on the same time as at present. There is to be no change on the Duquesne and Pittsburgh Limited trains, Nos. 12 and 11. No. 9 will arrive in Pittsburgh 15 minutes earlier and will leave for the west at the same time as now. These changes will be effective next Sunday.

Erie Official Traffic Personnel.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Erie railroad traffic department today announced the following changes of officers for the joint operation of the Erie, Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and Pere Marquette lines: F. A. Wann, freight traffic manager of the Erie at New York; C. L. Thomas, assistant freight traffic manager of the Erie west of Buffalo and Salamanca, and of the Cincinnati road at Cincinnati; A. H. McLeod, general agent at Cincinnati; H. J. Krake, general freight agent of the Erie lines west of Buffalo and Salamanca, at Chicago; jurisdiction of General Passenger Agent R. H. Wallace of the Erie extended over the Cincinnati line; jurisdiction of Assistant General Traffic Manager D. W. Cooke of the Erie extended over the Cincinnati road and the Pere Marquette; A. Patriarche, freight traffic manager of the Pere Marquette at Detroit.

High Speed on Pennsylvania Lines.

Two good runs were made by passenger trains on the Pennsylvania lines west Sunday. A special train ran over the Vandalia from Indianapolis to St. Louis, 242 miles, in 242 minutes. From Indianapolis to East St. Louis the average running time was 63.8 miles an hour. A special train carrying the troupe and baggage of the Rollicking Girl Company, which played here last week, made the run from here to Chicago in 10 hours and 7 minutes. This time is bettered only by the Pennsylvania special's schedule. This time included a stop of 35 minutes at Ft. Wayne for breakfast.

The Pennsylvania had an unusually heavy traffic in theatrical troupe baggage Sunday, handling eight cars out and the same number in.

Will Discuss Car Repair Pool.

Discussion of various phases of the New York Central lines freight car repair pool will be had by leading officers of all the roads interested at Buffalo tomorrow. Auditor Edward H. Kennedy of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, left yesterday to be present as representative of the local road's accounting department, and Superintendent of Motive Power L. H. Turner, Superintendent of Car Service N. K. Hoffman and Chief Clerk John D. Conway of the motive power department of this road will leave today. It is expected that there will be minor changes in the workings of the pool, although nothing of a radical nature is contemplated, as the pool has been found very effective.

Fitzgerald Takes a Jaunt Around.

General Manager Thomas Fitzgerald, Purchasing Agent E. H. Bankard and Chief Engineer Maintenance of Way Dickson of the Baltimore & Ohio, came to Pittsburgh yesterday and spent several hours looking about the terminals and conferring with local officers. They left for Wheeling last evening, accompanied by Superintendent Duer of the Pittsburgh division.

The superintendents and division engineers of the Pittsburgh, New Castle and Connellsville divisions will meet with General Superintendent Finney here this afternoon to discuss maintenance of way affairs for the fall and winter.

Adjust Rates on Steel Products.

Adjustment of rates on iron and steel products and bar iron from the Pittsburgh district was effected yesterday at a meeting of a committee of the Central Freight association in this city. John J. Koch, division freight agent of the Ft. Wayne, is chairman of the committee. It was said that no radical changes were made. The report will be made at the monthly meeting of the Central Freight association in Chicago tomorrow and Thursday. There will be about 125 subjects before the Central association for disposition. The meeting will be attended by all of the local freight traffic officers.

Pacific Express Gets D., T. & I.

General Agent J. S. Hitchcock of the Pacific Express Company in this district, says announcement has been made of the company extending its service over the main line and branches of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad on January 1. The express service on this road is now being conducted jointly by the United States and National Express companies. The road has a total mileage of 485 miles and extends from Detroit direct to Ironton, O. The direct connection with the Wabash from Pittsburgh is made at Napoleon, O.

Railroad Notes.

D. G. Edwards has tendered his resignation as passenger traffic manager of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton.

The Union railroad is building a 100-ton coaling station at Bulls run. The plant is to be equipped with automatic bins for coaling two engines at one time.

Owing to the enormous ore and coal traffic the Bessemer & Lake Erie has abandoned track and yard improvements for a short time on the road north of Butler.

Col. W. W. Dunnavant, traveling passenger agent of the Queen & Crescent, was in Pittsburgh yesterday. He expects a very heavy traffic to the south this coming winter.

R. E. Wheeler, traveling passenger agent of the Burlington in the Philadelphia territory, was a visitor yesterday, being shown about the city by Traveling Passenger Agent J. B. Drake.

F. J. Mossman, division freight agent of the Wabash at Buffalo, was shown about the local terminals of the company yesterday by Harry Bradley, chief clerk of the traffic department.

Assistant Station Master George Ayres, Ticket Examiner O. W. Bardsley and Assistant Foreman L. C. Ferris of the baggage department at the Union station, left yesterday for a hunting trip along Hyners run in Clinton county.

Superintendent C. V. Wood of the Pittsburgh division of the Wabash at Canton, and Superintendent C. A. Van Dusen of the Toledo division at Toledo, were here yesterday conferring with General Superintendent W. H. McMaster.

SHIP STRIKES A MINE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Another Japanese merchantman has been blown up by a flying mine adrift off the coast of China. News of this disaster was brought here by the Pacific mail steamer China, which arrived yesterday from the orient. The ship lost was the Neiji.

The vessel struck the floating mine off Kinchow on October 12. Only one seaman was drowned. News of the disaster was received by the officers of the China at Yokohama.

THE SCHENLEY FARMS COMPANY SALE AND OTHER REAL ESTATE NEWS

R. C. Hall and F. T. F. Lovejoy Buy Half Acre in Center Avenue for $32,500.

TWO SALES IN PENN AVENUE

The first sale made by the Schenley Farms Company in the Bellefield district is one-half acre sold by them yesterday to Robert C. Hall and Francis T. F. Lovejoy, owners of the Bellefield dwellings, for $32,500, or at the rate of $65,000 an acre. The property is familiarly known as the triangle and is diagonally across Center avenue from the dwellings. It faces the boulevard which will be extended through the property of the Schenley Farms Company, making a continuous route to Schenley park. Mr. Hall had previously acquired the property directly opposite the Dwellings, which has been made into a handsome lawn and the one-half acre just secured will be transformed into a beautiful park to be used in connection with the Dwellings. The sale was handled by the Commonwealth Real Estate company through its president, A. J. Kelly, Jr.

It has been the uniform policy of the Schenley Farms Company not to consider the sale of any sites where streets are being made. The outlying parts, however, have been on the market and besides the sale noted above, which means much to the district in assuring a permanent improvement that will add much to the attractiveness of the boulevard, another very important deal for one of the outlying sections is booked for early announcement. The remarkable growth of Oakland of late is drawing the attention of investors to that part of the city which is, they believe, entering upon the same kind of a real estate movement as occurred at Madison Square garden, New York, and later has made immense fortunes for the investors who platted their money in property around Forty-second and Fifty-ninth streets, in the same city. The number and importance of the institutions that are locating in Oakland bids fair to give it the same prominence in Pittsburgh that the famous Copley square district has in Boston and investors are speculating with much interest on the increase in realty values that is certain to follow this institutional as well as business development.

More Dealings Out Penn Avenue.

Two more sales of outer Penn avenue property show that the activity in that section is not diminishing. The property of J. W. Hunt at 2204 Penn avenue has been sold to a local realty investor named Shook for $14,000. It measures 24x100 feet, extending back to Spring alley, and is improved with a brick house used as a store which rents for $25.6 month, but is now vacant. The property adjoins 24 feet at the corner of Twenty-second street, which is owned by J. H. Armstrong. The other deal was for the property of E. F. Kealey at 3251 Penn avenue, 24x120 feet, extending back to Mulberry alley. This brought $9,000 and the brick building on the lot rents for $60 a month. The buyer's name could not be learned yesterday.

It develops that the Samuel W. Black Company handled the sale of the Ulrich & Spencer lease on the building at 613 Wood street to H. Kleber & Brother, Limited, which was published in The Gazette Sunday along with the leasing of the Kleber building at 221-223 Fifth avenue. The Klebers secured an extension on the Wood street lease through the Commonwealth Real Estate Company as announced several days ago. The lessee of the Fifth avenue building is announced as a New York mercantile firm. It bought the two-year privilege of the Klebers and secured an extension through the Samuel W. Black Company from Gilbert T. Rafferty, the owner of the building. This extension is at a price approximating $30,000 a year.

Many New Streets for Ingram.

The work of making new streets in Ingram is progressing rapidly. McKee street being the last one to come under the contractor's eye. Short and Catherine streets have recently been paved and the old Middletown road is paved to Sheraden, affording one of the finest suburban streets on that side of the city. The ordinance has also passed Ingram council for the paving and widening of Prospect street to 45 feet between Bridge and Berry streets, a distance of four squares. Ingram has the distinction of having more vacant frontage on paved streets than any other borough perhaps in the county, because of the amount of paving that has been laid this year. An indication of how prices are going up to correspond with the improvements is seen at Prospect and McKee streets, where $75 a foot is asked for the Sterling lot, 200x275 feet, which is wanted for a High school site. On the main streets $60 a foot is now asked for vacant land and $20 is asked on the side streets. A small but very handsome allotment that will shortly be launched is that of W. A. Zahn at Ingram station. The 15 lots will be 25x100 feet each, and will face in Melrose, Mackin and Ingram avenues.

Greater Pittsburgh Is Welcomed.

Allegheny brokers are jubilant over the prospects of a Greater Pittsburgh bill being passed at the special session of the legislature next January. It is generally admitted that the failure to get such a measure through greatly injured the realty market in Allegheny, for speculators, who always make a lively market, have held off from buying until the greater city was assured. It is also generally admitted that the union of Pittsburgh and Allegheny under one city government would give Allegheny proper an impetus it has never had before. Brokers all over the two cities unite in saying that prices on the North Side are ridiculously low compared with prices paid for corresponding properties in Pittsburgh. Whether it is the name Allegheny that holds back the buying movement or not there is very little doubt that wholesale and retail firms would take much more kindly to Allegheny sites if they could call it Pittsburgh. Another fact that works against Allegheny property is that there are almost no good business buildings there either for sale or rent. This was brought out a few days ago in conversation with a Liberty avenue merchant who has been forced off that thoroughfare by the high rents and who has relocated on one of the lower avenues. "I would rather have gone to Allegheny," said he, "but there were no buildings there modern and substantial enough to suit my business. If investors would buy some of those cheap sites and improve them, with good buildings they would have no trouble in getting them to good advantage."

CIRCUIT COURT STARTS NEW TERM

EVIDENCE FOR A. G. MARSHALL

Judge Joseph Buffington presided at the opening of the November term of the United States circuit court yesterday. He will be assisted by Judge R. W. Archbald of the Scranton district, who will arrive today. A jury was drawn in the case of George T. Bauersmith of Pittsburgh, against the Extreme Gold Mining and Milling Company of South Dakota, a suit to recover $8,000 commission for selling 25,000 shares of stock at 75 cents a share.

The suit of Joseph L. Caldwell to recover $20,000 damages from H. S. Kerbaugh is on trial. Caldwell had both eyes blown out by an explosion of dynamite at Bradenville, Westmoreland county. T. P. Brownfield, who also had his left eye blown out, has a similar suit pending, and testified for Caldwell, as did a number of dynamite experts.

Mrs. Elizabeth J. Miller entered a suit in the United States court claiming $25,000 damages from J. C. Montgomery of Garfield, Indiana county, whom she alleges was the slayer of her husband. Montgomery was a law and order detective at Garfield and made a number of enemies in the prosecution of his work. These enemies at times would throw stones and other missiles through the windows of his home at night.

Miller, who was a traveling man, happened to pass Montgomery's house. Montgomery thinking he was one of the men who had thrown the stones, opened a door and fired at him with a shot gun. Miller died the next day. Montgomery was arrested on a charge of murder and later released in $5,000 bail. Judge Buffington ordered a capias issued and fixed the bail at $3,000.

Testimony Favors Marshall.

The commonwealth did not finish its testimony in the trial of A. G. Marshall, the alleged insurance swindler. Most of the day was taken up with the presentation of checks upon which Marshall's name appeared. A. C. Child, former secretary of the Duquesne Mutual Fire Insurance Company, testified that he never made out a check in favor of Marshall to which Marshall was not entitled. Detective Cecil Rice was called to show he had arrested Marshall in New York, but as it was not shown he had run away, this was objected to.

A man named Llewellyn testified that he did not hear Marshall make an offer of settlement with Kunkle, who had testified that Marshall wanted to give him $1,500, in Llewellyn's presence, to withdraw his (Kunkle's) case against Marshall. A Mr. Whiteford testified that Attorney Kahle had threatened to make an information against him if he did not sign certain papers and swear that Marshall was in his office on a certain date, these papers being necessary for Marshall's extradition.

Thomas Maley was released from the workhouse, and in charge of an officer, was permitted to attend the funeral of his widowed mother, Mrs. Margaret Maley of Webster avenue, under an order of court. Thomas, who is about 21 years of age, was her only son. He was sent to the workhouse for 60 days on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Michael Dwojakowski, Max Szczodwski and Peter Ragelski pleaded guilty in criminal court before Judge Brown, to charges of voluntary manslaughter in the matter of the killing of Gofield Yowarsk at the home of the latter, 2544 Spring alley, June 24. Each defendant was sentenced three months to the workhouse. Yowarsk had a dance at his house. The three defendants tried to force their way in, and in a fight which followed Yowarsk was kicked in the stomach and died later.

Robert C. Hall Wants a Judgment.

Robert C. Hall filed a motion and reasons therefor, for judgment in his suit against the Pittsburgh & Castle Shannon Railroad Company and others for three J. M. Guffey Petroleum Company $1,000 bonds, for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense.

Considerable excitement was caused in criminal court when James W. Eberhart, one of the jurors, fell in a fit. He was carried outside and soon recovered.

Adaline Thomas filed an answer to the divorce suit of Carleton Thomas, denying the charge of indignities and stating that not only is it groundless, but is a silly excuse for his uncalled for abandoning of her. She asks for a jury trial. Katherine Manheier answers her husband's suit for a divorce, and demands a trial by jury. She denies beating or abusing him, and charges that he took all the furniture away, thereby forcing her to go to her mother's home.

The Brighton Laundry Company had a capias issued for Samuel Brown, a driver, from whom they demand $200 damages, alleging he did not turn over all the money due the plaintiffs.

Magdalena Mentel sued the Allegheny Firemen's Relief association for $500 on a benefit certificate issued to her husband. Mentel, she says, made his children beneficiaries originally, but later changed the certificate in her favor. She says the association's by-laws make no provision for a change of beneficiary, and refuse to pay the money to her.

Frank Slish had a capias issued for Martin Tunarzans, whom he sues for $5,000 damages, averring the defendant knocked him down.

Alleges Preferences Were Allowed.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy was filed against Charles Burger, a liquor dealer, of 301 Ormsby avenue, Lower St. Clair township, by Katharina Prim of Mt. Oliver, the Independent Brewing Company and F. C. Danner. The petitioners allege that Burger, knowing he was insolvent, allowed A. H. Rowand, Jr., to obtain a preference of $250, Joseph Fuhrer, Jr., $2,100 and Charles Burger $500, by confessing judgments to them in said amounts. They also allege that his place of business is advertised to be sold tomorrow. The petitioners place their claims at $2,155 70.

Executions issued: Jacob Tannenbaum, use, vs. Elizabeth D. Bretch, $1,088; Lavon C. Barrelle vs. James F. Malone, $2,732; Amelia M. Langhans vs. Louis C. Hotstein, $8,946.

CHANGES HIS MIND.

Insurance Commissioner Who Pleads Guilty to Accepting a Bribe, Will Fight the Case.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13.—Elmer H. Dearth, formerly state insurance commissioner, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of receiving a bribe of $200 from W. E. Bechtel, former president of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company, appeared today before Judge H. D. Dickinson to withdraw his plea of not guilty.

He entered a demurrer to the indictment upon the ground that the offense stated does not constitute a public offense and that the charges are not direct and certain. Arguments will be heard November 22.

Mrs. McClellan Not Surprised at Son's Re-election, for He Was Always a Good Boy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(Special.)—Mayor McClellan's mother arrived here today on the steamship Zeeland from Antwerp. Thomas Hassett, the mayor's secretary, went out to meet her on a revenue cutter, and to tell her of her son's re-election.

On hearing the good news Mrs. McClellan exclaimed: "Well, well; I am so glad to hear it. George always was a good boy."

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.
